Whether the Democrats will take any action on the matter of allowing the "American" party to endorse their electors, it is still too early to state definitely. State Chairman Martineau, when asked for his opinion of the mat-ter stated this afternoon that he could only give his personal opinion, as the matter had not been talked over in committee meetings. "Naturally," he said, "I should think there would be hundreds of Democrats who would not be opposed to getting all the votes they can for their national ticket. I think many of them will favor al-lowing any endorsement of their ma-tional electors by other parties which may be depended upon to bring them mittee will take, however, I am uot able to forecast. No request has yet been made to us to allow the endorse-ment of our presidential electors, and I am not sure that any will be. party, when the lower house of Con-gress is at best a battle ground on all occasions, and is as often against the administration as for it. Personally I think it peculiarly inconsistent that the "American" party should seek to use 'Taft electors on their ticket. I don't think Taft would thank them for support to him, coupled with opposi-tion to the ticket upon which he de-pends for support in Congress. Such support is far from sincere and far from being of any value." o'clock.

DRUNK MAN SAVES THE DAY.

Mr. A. B. Carstenson of this city and party had a peculiar experience at Ogden Monday evening, with their automobile. They were renewing the gasoline supply in the tank of the car, without having taken the precaution to extinguish the car lights. The re-sult was that the highly inflammable vapor as it ascended from the can caught fire, the flames shooting high up in the air. The destruction of the car seemed imminent; but the fife depart-ment responded promptly, and deenched the auto with the soda solution from the chemical engine, while an inebri-ated individual with no care for his future, walked up to the car, and clapping a wad of paper over the noz-zle of the can smothered the flame. No damage whatever was done to the auwithout having taken the precaution zle of the can smothered the hand. No damage whatever was done to the au-tomobile, or its occupants. It is said, though, that had the can been only partly full, the gass in the interior would have exploded it, and spread de-struction all around.
