well repeated the same questions over well repeated the same questions over and over again, made improper remarks and conducted himself in a disgraceful manuer. The court warned him to cease his objectionable behaviour, when Maxwell addressed the court in a very insolent manuer, saying that the Justice had no jurisdiction over him, and did not have sense enough to perform his duty. Judge Pyper promptly ordered Maxwell to pay a fine of $25, and to be committed until the same should be paid. A couple of officers led him to the jail and locked him up. He was insolent and deliant in his language towards them. He had been in lie was insolent and deflant in his language towards them. He had been in the jall but a few minutes when Marshal Solomon went to his cell and told him that if he would behave himself he might remain in his, the Marshal's, room until he could send word to friends. A Good Household Companion.—Goodholme's Domestic "Cyclopædia of Practical Information" is one of the most useful volumes of its class ever published. The facts it incorporates are all clearly and tersely stated, yet the work covers over 600 pages. Some idea may be derived from this as to the range of the information it conveys. It is a book that is well calculated to be a standard aid or assistant to every household. Even a cursory examination is sufficient to satisfy any intelligent individual upon that point. It is a sort of domestic "Enquire Within Upon Everything," and ought to meet with a ready sale in Ulah. It is endorsed by some of the leading periodicals, such as the Magazine of American History, which says concerning it:

leading periodicals, such as the Magazine of American History, which says concerning it:

"This unique and valuable cyclopædia is filled with information of a practical character, as its title indicates. It is a cook-book for the housekeeper a medical handbook for all members of the family, a dressmaker's guide, a floral dictionary, a house-builder's assistant, and serves in a thousand other directions for the general good. If your friend has been rescued from the sea in a drowning condition, or struck by lightling, you have only to turn to this volume to learn what to do for him. If your bright-eyed little daughter tumbles down stairs, or falls into the fire, you have in this work an ever-present instructor in the art of binding up wounds, soothing pain, and saving life. If you wish to give a dinner the rnles are all here, even to your bill of fare, and how each dish and course shall be served. It you are selecting a home this book is a wise counselor; and if you are furnishing a house for the first time, it tells you exactly how to do It, not omitting the items for the servant's bedroom, and the dippers, pounto mashers, and candlesticks for the kitchen."

Mr. James Dwyer is the special agent for the Territory.

Differences in Thermometers.—
The present extraordinarily hot weather has led many persons to watch their thermometers more closely than usual, and they have not been able to recoucile the record of their private thermometers with that of the signal service in this city, as published from day to day. Private thermometers are usually placed near the surface of the earth, in the strata of atmosphere in which human beings commonly move, while the signal service thermometer is placed on the top of a very high building, out of reach, to some extent, of the reflection of the heat from the surface of the earth, and consequently in a cooler stratum of atmosphere. Hence the temperature indicated by the government thermometer is several degrees lower than that registered by many reliable private thermometers. Several of the latter have indicated from 100 to 104 degrees in the shade within the last ten days, a temperature unprecedented, we believe, in this city.

Of course the position in which a face towards the north in a box which is attached to a post in the street in front of the building, the instrument being about six or eight feet from the ground. The box enclosing it, the north side of which is open, prevents the rays of the sun from striking the instrument, but the sir of the street circulates freely around it. A thermometer so placed affords, of course, a fair test of the temperature of the air in the street, but such a test in this city, on almost any day during the last month, would have sent the mercury up to a much higher degree than that of any published record.

The commissioner said if there was any unlawful cohabitation in this case, it had been managed in a very bungling manner. Whether his honor meant that it was the unlawful cohabitation, or the case which had been managed in a bungling manner, was left in vague uncertainty. His honor further observed that the defendant had probably many years ago entered into polygamy, but that the evidence went to prove that he had not lived in it for many years. The Commissioner then told the defendant to stand up. The defendant stood np. His honor then said: "You are discharged." "Thank you," said the Bisbop.

It was a field-day for Attorney Moyle, who, we presume, must have come to regard a defendant's attorney in this court, in this class of cases, as a mere figure head.

Gamblers Fined.—In the police court yesterday afternoon Owen Hogle, L. Duncan and Wm. Harrison were arraigned on the charge of keeping gambling houses. A plea of sullty was extered in each case. The culprits were fined $75 each, which was pald.

The complaint was sworn to by one H. L. Glenn.

Mrs. John Gillespie was the first witness. Am the wife of defendant. My name is Catherine. My youngest child is ten years old. I know Hannah Chamberlain. She keeps house for her brother-in-law. She has no children. Fourteen years ago she was reputed to be my husband's wife. In 1872 she left Toocle and went to Southern Utah with ner son by her first husband, whose name was Chamberlain. My husband never visits her. Has not for twenty years. She supports herself. Has not been divorced that I know of. Don't think she bears his name. Phillip Fiddler is a neighbor, so is Mr. Bowen. My husband is a farmer.

Hannah Chamberlale, an aged lady, and quite deaf, was sworn. I used to bear the name of Glicspie. Was married many years ago to detendant. Have never been divorced from blin. Am generally known by the name of Chamberlain. Have lived in Southern Philip Fidder was next sworn. Live in Tooele. Am a farmer. Mrs. Chamberlain is my sister-in-law. She lives at my house, and keeps house for me. She lived in one of my houses alone, rent free till my wife died when she came and kept house for me. Have seen Mr. Gillespie call on her, but never at meal time. Never knew him to stay all night. He has called at my house occasionally since Mrs. Chamberlain has lived with me. Don't know that he came to see her.

Of course the position in which a thermometer is, placed, even though strictly in the shade, will materially affect the degree of temperature indicated by it. The thermometer of the New York Herald, a paper which has for years made a specialty of meteorological news, is suspended with its face towards the north in a box which is attached to a post in the street in front of the building, the instrument aut for twenty years. Defendant must pass the house Mrs. Chamberlain lives in to get to his farm.

The prosecution here rested.

Mr. Moyle asked for the defendant be discharged. He reviewed the testimony, showing that there was no evidence in support of the charge against the defendant. His argument was brief, though logical, logenuous and cogent.

I do not know of the existence of the women you speak of, I never knew my father to sleep out of his own bed at his house in the Eleventh Ward.

The commissioner made some caustic remarks about the testimony of John Bowen, who had answered "I do not know," to several questions, when it was not reasonable to suppose that he discharged.

It was a field-day for Attorney Moyle, who, we presume, must have Returned From Mexico.—On Sunday last Elder Isaac J. Stewart, of Draper, returned from a mission to Mexico, on which he has been absent nearly two years. He returns in good health and spirits. He reports the work of the Gospel as progressing somewhat slowly in the regions wherin he has labored. he has labored.

An Unruly Soldier.—Yesterday afternoon, Hugo Pietmyer, a soldier, was tried on two charges of assault, one on J. E. Foote, and the other on Wm. H. Grenig. The evidence showed conclusively that the accused was guilty, both Foote and Grenig having heen badly handled. Pietmyer was fined $55 on both charges.

New Band.— On Monday evening the 16th Ward Brass Band held their closing meeting, settled up their affairs and disbanded. Eleven of the most active members immediately entered into a new organization under the name of Held's Cornet Band, with Mr. John Held as leader. The new band have sent for uniforms, the predominating color of which will be gray.

B. Y. College.—An announcement appears in our advertising columns today, from the secretary of the Brigham foung College at Logan. The institution will reopen on Monday, September 13th, and is an excellent place for the instruction of the young. The Saints would do well to take advantageof the opportunities offered by this school for the education of their children.

Fine Remitted. — After General George R. Maxwell had remained in the city jail about fifteen minutes yesterday afternoon, for his insulting language in the justice's court, he sent a note to Judge Pyper, requesting that he be permitted to come out and make an apology. This was allowed, and the result of Maxwell's action was that the fine was remitted and he was permitted to go at liberty.

Accidentally Shot. — About half-past six lust evening a number of small boys, 9 or 10 years of age, were playing at Mrs. James Irvine's in the Four-teenth Ward, when another boy known as "Busk" Due came up with a 44-calibre pistol in his hand. He exhib-ited the weapon to the boys, and in handing it to Darwin Irvine, it was discharged, the ball entering young Irvine's left leg below the knee and lodging near the ankle, from where it was extracted. The wound is very painful. The boy Due claims that he didn't know the weapon was loaded.

Petty Larceny.- Yesterday after-Petty Larceny—Yesterday afternoon five boys named Norton and Raymond Curtis, Willie Paddock, Parsous and Adams were placed on triat for breaking into Wilkinson's store in the Fourteenth Ward, and stealing some goods. The case against Parsons and Adams was dismissed, Raymond Curtis was acquitted, and Willie Paddock and Norton Curtis
adindred guilty. Sentence was set Willie Paddock and Norton Curtis adjudged guilty. Sentence was set for 2 p. m., to-day, and at that hour Curtis appeared. Upon his promising to do better in the future, sentence was suspended. Young Paddock was released yesterday upon his father's promising that he would be outland to receive judgment, but this morbing Mr. Paddock came with the information that his incorrigible southand left the house last evening and had not been seen since.

of the Young Ladies? Association of the 19th Ward was held in the Ward meeting house last evening, July 20th, Mrs. Mary E. Irvine president.

At 6 o'clock p. m. dinner was served. Three long tables were set in the wing of the building, and profusely ornamented with flowers, but the bright sparkling faces of the girls were more beautiful still. Mrs. E. S. Taylor pronounced the blessing.

About a quarter to eight meeting commenced with the usual exercises. Minutes of the last annual meeting and dinancial report of the last year were read by the secretary Miss Racnel Hamlin, after which a programme. was rendered consisting of a manuscript paper read by Miss. Grace Galligher entitled "The Progressive Journal." It contained some good articles from the members. A correspondence on the subject of plural marriage between Miss Emma Brown and Miss Ella Nebeker was particularly interesting. This was followed by Miss Clarabel Ridges, who has a rich full voice, giving a song in a sweet and touching style. Recitation by Miss Lizzie Thomas, "The Sailor Boy,"expression and voice excellent. Biographical sketch of Mrs. Bathsheba W. Smith, given verbally by Miss May Ridges; very good. Song by Miss Elia Beesley in her very best style and voice. Correspondence by Miss Carrie Smith and Miss Alice Asper upon the first principles of the Gospel, very creditable indeed.

Remarks were then made to the young people, of whom there were ciples of the Gospel, very creditable indeed.

Remarks were then made to the young people, of whom there were perhaps a hundred and fifty assembled in the hall, by Mrs. Mary A. Freeze Miss Nelhe Colebrook, Mrs. E. T. Taylor, Mrs. E. B. Wells, Mrs. Ann Player and Bishop James Watson, who expressed bimself as feeling the greatest interest in the young people of his ward, and given in such a manner that it must inspire them with confidence in his counsel.

Prest. Invine made some excellent closing remarks, and adjourned the meeting. The congregation sang two verses of the hymn "The Spirit of God like a fire is burning." Benediction by Elder H, Bywater.

The meeting was one of unusual interest, and such gatherings and remaining cannet fail to be be dealed.

The meeting was one or unusual interest, and such gatherings and reunions cannot fall to be beneficial, and they prove plainly that the youth of Zion, who take part in them are making great spiritual improvement, and growing in wisdom and understanding.
