Fugitive Poems by Mrs. Mary J. Tanner, of Provo, is the very modest title of a volume containing many poetical effusions of more than ordinary merit. A vein of sadness runs through most of these compositions, but they breathe the spirit of poesy and bear evidence of thought and culture. Some works of far greater pretensions contain' much less that is worthy of perusal and preservation. We congratulate Mrs. Tanner on the success of her first venture

They had about concluded to go to Springfield Elder W. H. Shepherd writes of for the prisoners, when a messenger baptisms at Barnpool, in the Bristol arrived announcing that the negroes

"FREE DISCUSSION."

THE "Liberals make this boast in their Address, to which we have previously alluded:

'In some parts of U'ah we have acquired the right of free discussion, of the police. Without further cereand our meetings for that purpose mony they ordered all the brethren are no longer disturbed or broken up by our opponents."

This conveys the idea that there was a time when those veracious persons could not meet for the purpose of free discussion without being disturbed, and that there are tioned by the fleutenant of the stastill portions of the Territory where this right is denied them. If this is not the meaning of their statement, we fail to see it. And this they know just as well as we do, is straight and undiluted lying.
