The Mutual Improvement societies were the first to be organized in Utah, and have since that time been the mainstay of the Latter-day Saints. They have done much to advance the cause of the Church, and to the benefit of the community. They have been the source of many good works, and have been the means of spreading the Gospel to many souls. They have been the friends of the poor, and the advocates of the oppressed. They have been the pillars of the Church, and the bulwark of the Kingdom of God on Earth.
