CLUB MAKES PLEA FOR GOOD ROADS

Automobilists Urge the People to Demand Action By Political Parties.

WIDE RANGE OF BENEFITS

They Are Declared to Extend from

Better Marketing Facilities to Building of Towns, Why good roads are a leading neces sity in Utah is set forth in a letter from the Salt Lake Automobile club to people. In it a general plea is made for the support of the movement on the grounds that it benefits everybody, and brings in new people to help pay the taxes for the support of the Politics is brought into the letter in the form of a general appeal to the people to nominate only good men who are interested in the upbuilding of the Besides the war on bad roads the

Besides the war on bad roads are club is campaigning vigorously against careless scorchers. It has pledged its word that it will help to prosecute ail cases of scorching, and to bring of-fenders to justice. A case in hand happened yesterday when an enthusias-tic chaffeur races Charles A. Ouigthe chaffeur races Charles A. Quig-ley's machine over the streets and end-ed in the city jail with the determina-tion of the club to prosecute him to the full extent of the law.

CLUB'S APPEAL.

The address to the people follows: To the People of Utah—The Sait Lake Automobile club has seen fit to take up Automobile club has seen fit to take up the "good roads" movement through its organization, because it realized that somebody must take the lead, and therefore asks your support through its organization. Do not think this a selfish move on the part of automobilists, as 99 per cent of the people other than automobilists derive the benefit of "good roads".

"good roads."
"Good roads" means to the farmer the hauling of twice the amount in half the time, the saving of repairs on his vehicles and a greater pleasure for him and his family when out driving.
"Good roads" means to the business man a quick delivery of goods, saving of repairs and more business from customers, who can do shopping no marketimers. tomers, who can do shopping no mat ter how bad the weather te, providing ter now bad the weather te, providing the roads are good. There is only one way to get "good roads" in Utah. Elect good men to the city and county offices, who are inter-ested in building up the state, as coundes and citles are rapidly built tles and cities are rapidly built up through good roads, and they are the means of bringing desirable people and settlers who will expend money and help pay the taxes for the roads. It should be the object in the coming conventions this fall to see that a "good roads plank" is inserted in every plat-form, no matter to which carty you beform, no matter to which party you be long, and to see to it that men are nominated who will carry out your wishes in this respect. The "good roads" movement should not be made a party or political issue, but every man, woman and child in the state should be interested, and work for the should be interested, and work for the "goods roads" movement. Throughout other states "good roads" have been brought about by the automobilists and it is generally conceded that wherever automobilists go "good roads" must follow, and we appeal to every person in the state or county to take up this matter actively from now on and follow out these few suggestions. Do not wait until you have nominated your different county and city officials, but see that they are pledged in advance that they are pledged in advafor the betterment of your roads, and be sure and select strong, progressive men, who will carry out your ideas i

JUVENILE COURT WORK.

Rev. Albert Buxton Will Lecture on Subject Tonight.

Tonight at Barratt hall, commencing it 8 o'clock, Rev. Albert Buxton of the Central Christian church will delive in address upon juvenile court work While the meeting is intended estensi-bly for probation officers and others directly interested in juvenile court proceedings, a cordial invitation is ex-tended to parents and others who have at heart the welfare of their wn sons and daughters and children own sons and daughters and children in general.

The juvenile court has become a potent factor in controlling by proper methods the youth of the community, yet it is felt that the institution is not receiving the support and encouragement it should from the public, neither are its beneficial results fully appreciated. An effort will be made by officials of the court to place before the people the situation as it is and as it should be it is intended to hold a serier of meetings, where the best informed persons on juvenile court work, in the state and out of it, will be heard on various phases of juvenile jurispruon various phases of juvenile jurispru-lence, detention homes, etc.

LIKE VALLEY OF MEXICO.

J. P. Flynn, a New York mining man s at the Knutsford today, en route home from a trip through Nevada. H home from a trip through Nevada. He says that state has now 150,000 population, which is steadily increasing. The driftwood element, he said, seems to have practically disappeared from the various camps, so the men who are now operating are men with money and serious intentions. General economic conditions are much improved over those that obtained this suring. Mr. Flynn says this is his first trip to Sait Lake. The valley appears to him much life the valley appears to him much life the valley of the thry of Mexico, though the altitude is not so great.

AMUSEMENTS.

Orpheum-A well filled house greetthe performance at the Orpheum t night, and all seemed to enjoy the rlous features on the program. The nain object of Interest was no doubt the new sketch, "A Modern Pocahontas," by Messrs. Gass and Howard, local talent, a brief outline of which was given in Wednesday's "News." When the curtain rose a most beautiful scene was revealed to view—a woodland lake, rippling and shimmering under the light of the pale moon, giluted and sparkled through the forest leaves; the real Indians, in their paint and feathers, their tepees, etc., brought forth a burst of appiause from the audience. The parts were well sustained, although there were, as is always the case with a "first production," a number of crudities, which experience will no doubt remedy. The Indian maiden who personated the heroine made a good Pocahontas, and her acting will improve as she becomes more accustomed to the stage. Chief tas," by Messrs. Gass and Howard, lomore accustomed to the stage. Chief Powhatan, was well played and he took the part to a nicety, but there was just a little too much swagger in his acting a little too much swagger in his acting to satisfy one's ideas of the quiet and dignified bearing which should characterize an Indian prince. The young lieutenant was ably represented, but there is a lack of force on his part in some portions of the work; for instance his resistance on being seized by the savages was a little tame. The war dance smoking the right of the savages was a little tame. savages was a little tame. The war dance, smoking the pipe of peace, and the graceful maneuvers of the red skins, were all realistic. From a literary point of view not much can be said. One fault in the construction of the plot, however, is the "this is so sudden" feeling it gives the auditors at a number of points. But aside from plot or acting, there is always something taking, romantic and fascinating about real Indians on the stage, which together with the interest centered together with the interest centered in the theme, and the handsome stage settings, will no doubt make the piece drawing card. The boys have hit ipon a good idea, and success will interest crown their efforts.
