

SANITARY CODE BEING PREPARED

Inspector Frazier of Health Department Has Ordinance Nearly Ready.

WILL REGULATE PROVISIONS

State Nor City Can Regulate Sale of Ice Cream, Says Inspector—Legislature Should Enact New Laws.

The agitation against the vending of impure and adulterated ice cream in different eastern cities led to an inquiry as to conditions surrounding the sale of this summer delicacy in Salt Lake City, and resulted in the mildly astounding discovery that the city government has no means of controlling the quality of the output of local ice cream.

In Chicago the agitation against vendors of adulterated article—who are chiefly foreigners, mostly Turks—has taken such a decided turn that the municipal power has been invoked to stamp out the undesirable article. That Salt Lake City, or even the state of Utah, has no law by which the vendors of impure or adulterated ice cream may be reached, is the opinion of City Inspector of Food Walter J. Frazier.

Mr. Frazier, when queried as to the subject, stated there was no state law or city ordinance by which the article could be controlled. The city has only such power as has been delegated to it by the state, said Mr. Frazier this morning, "and the regulation of the sale of ice cream is not among the delegated powers. The state itself has no law governing it. The nearest approach of the statute to the subject is where the standard of cream is specified, that it shall contain not less than 18 per cent butter fat, but further the law does not go.

"I am of the opinion that the article must be specifically referred to before the health department is able to take it up. The city should legislate directly upon the matter, and this ought to be done right away. It is a matter that concerns the health of every inhabitant of the city, and should not be neglected.

PREPARING ORDINANCE.

"And by the way," continued Inspector Frazier, "I am preparing a number of ordinances on this very subject for submission to the city council at an early date, and the subject of ice cream, and many other articles not now included in the list of products not subject to inspection, will be incorporated into these ordinances.

SANITARY CODE.

"Perhaps the most important of these ordinances in course of preparation is what is known as the sanitary code. This code, which is being largely from codes in vogue in New York City, Omaha, and other progressive cities, and covers every article of consumption in the way of foodstuffs imaginable, also the regulation of slaughtering houses, dairies, and all places where articles of food are prepared for use. Many of the regulations inserted in the proposed code are taken from the rules and regulations of the United States inspection code, and are, of course, thorough and sound. We are trying to get the code so arranged that the city council can see its way clear to adopt it as a city ordinance, and then the work of inspection, which will be considerably increased as far as actual labor goes, will be more thorough and better calculated to promote and preserve the public health.

TO REGULATE MILK.

"The code will especially seek to regulate the handling of milk and its products by dairies and creameries. There are at least 150 dairies doing business in Salt Lake City. Over 70 of these are regularly inspected. The present inspection force is insufficient, however, to cover them all. Many of the city foods justified in providing more inspectors the department cannot go beyond its present range, as it takes all the time that can possibly be devoted to it in inspecting the dairies, slaughter houses, etc., that require inspection by the present force. The government allows one inspector for every 10 dairies, outside of one who works 150 dairies and only one inspector, with all the additional work to do.

4,000 GALLONS DAILY.

"There are 4,000 gallons of milk sold in Salt Lake City every day, and of this amount 2,500 gallons are shipped in here from other towns. We are unable to inspect all the milk that comes in here from outside places, on account of lack of funds. I look for the time to come when the government will supervise the inspection of all milk supplies, and that day should be hailed with joy by all who appreciate the necessity for cleanliness in the handling of milk and purity in its quality.

SCORING OF DAIRIES.

"We have instituted a system of scoring the dairies under our jurisdiction, and you will be surprised when I tell you that some of the dairies last month scored as low as 25 per cent in cleanliness of equipment and methods, while one could not score at all, on account of the dirt in which the milk was being carried on. The very best of the dairies scored less than 70 per cent and the remainder an average between. You can see the necessity from this for enforcing strict sanitary measures in the milking and stabling of cows and the handling of the milk in the preparation of its various products.

SLAUGHTER HOUSES.

"There are five slaughter houses to be inspected in this city," said Mr. Frazier, "and these under the new code will be subject to rigid inspection. The bakeries and all other institutions offering bread, cake and other like provisions for sale will be compelled to keep them covered from dust, dirt and filth.

"Butchers, grocers, peddlers and all others dealing in and vending whatever kind of product or consumable will be compelled to observe cleanliness and sanitary conditions will be insisted upon at all times. It is a measure for the protection of the public health, and in my opinion cannot be adopted too quickly for the benefit of the people.

NO REPELLED BOXES.

"In the vending of fruits, it is the aim of the code to prevent the refilling of boxes which have once held fruit for sale. Much filth is gathered in this way, and the practice is largely prevalent among the fruit sellers of this neighborhood. Boxes or crates which have been stored in barns may not be used for packing fruits, and if any such are found, or refilled boxes the fruit will be confiscated and destroyed.

WORK FOR LEGISLATURE.

"It is necessary also that the legislature take up this subject and provide for taking care of the food and food products consumed by residents of the state. The law should be broad and comprehensive, because the public health demands it, and nothing is more important to the public than the preservation of conditions which make for public health. And toward this end the health department of Salt Lake City is bending every energy."

WISCONSIN DAY.

At Saltair beach Tuesday afternoon and evening over 200 former residents of the Badger state enjoyed themselves as never before. The feature of the afternoon was a royal feast prepared by the ladies and placed on six long tables. A distinguished visitor during the evening was John J. McNally of Milwaukee, who is in great part responsible for the success of the day. The guests consisted of the following: Mr. and Mrs. A. Fred Wey, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Boatsford, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. James, Judge and Mrs. George F. Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Curtis, Mrs. C. G. Field, Mrs. C. Hamilton and Mrs. C. C. Dey.

POLICY SLANDER HATRED AND MALICE

Dominating Characteristics of Party in Power Judged By Its Organs.

AGAINST COMMON DECENCY

Victory for Bond Issue Would be Victory for Demagogism—Views of A Salt Lake City Taxpayer.

The "News" is in receipt of a communication from a taxpayer of this city, in which his views of the proposed bond issue are fully set forth. The record of the present administration is referred to by the writer, and the question asked whether men with such a record behind them ought to be trusted with the handling of the sum of $600,000 asked for in the bond issue. The letter follows:

Salt Lake City, July 21.
Editor Deseret News—As to the bond issue of $600,000 proposed by the party now in power, we are confidently told by the party organs that this is a test of the citizens of this city, and that a vote for them would be a vote for progress. I maintain there are other questions of importance at issue that should be considered before voting.

In judging of the present administration it may be unfortunate that we are compelled to measure them by the organs that represent them. Possibly the party is not as bad as the party organs. I sincerely hope not, yet a party cannot wholly escape the responsibility for its party papers, the papers that they support, the papers that swing the party lash, and whose policy they follow. But what has been the policy of the party since its inception some few years ago, and what has been the policy being waged today? It has been beyond any contradiction one of defamation, of slander, of hatred, of bitterness and malice. Men in prominent positions, religiously and politically, and whose acts and lives prove them as men of honor and strict integrity, have been continually caricatured and defamed as being moved only by the basest of motives, and these same papers continually filled with terms of opprobrium that if spoken in any decent society would forever brand the speaker as unfit to mingle in any society where common decency prevails.

BONDS AND SLANDER.

I submit that in view of such campaign methods a vote for bonds would be a distinct victory for slander, defamation, demagogism of the lowest type. What Republican, Democrat, Socialist, or any other political organization, can consistently vote in favor of such issues?

THEIR FINANCIAL RECORD.

And if we pass all this by the view the proposition purely from the financial record made up to the present time by the party in power, how much better are we off? What with nearly a million dollars left them by a former administration to spend for improvements, what with annual taxes raised nearly a hundred thousand dollars beyond what they were before, what with a deficit at present of nearly $400,000, what with $300,000 spent on the contract for Big Cottonwood conduit in excess of what the contract was let for by the previous administration, and a contract certainly based on specifications submitted by competent engineers, and what with similar discrepancies too numerous to mention, is this of such a nature as to inspire confidence in handling present bond issue if voted?

THE APPLE PIE.

Again we are told it is proper to bond for amount desired for improvements so as to let future generations pay for it, stating the interest on this would amount to about $27,000 per year; but to my mind this betrays a good deal of cowardice. Is it not possible a good deal of this idea comes from men who, like the proverbial animal of kicking propensities, are "without hope of posterity," and therefore so willing and anxious to place the burden upon future generations yours and mine. But allowing there is some virtue in the argument, it somehow reminds me of the old story about the apple pie. An Apple pie, peach, cherry, pumpkin and mince. The American said slowly, "Bring me a piece of quince, peach, cherry, pumpkin and mince." "What is the matter with the apple pie?" asked the waiter. There was a long silence among the Britishers. Finally, one asked, "What was the matter with the apple pie?"

INTEREST ON BONDS.

I desire to ask what is the matter with the $4,000,000 of bonded indebtedness we have already placed on future generations? What is the matter with the $200,000 we now have to pay annually for interest on same? We know our own capacity to meet high taxes and interest, but know not what the future will bring. Besides, I fancy the future generations will be kept quite busy hunting for that sinking fund established and maintained by the present administration.

HIGH TAXES ANYHOW.

Now the question comes up, What will be the result if bonds are not voted? Higher taxes? Yes, no doubt about it. Necessary improvements must go on, and the people here are a people of progress. Their willingness to bear frontage taxes for street and sidewalk improvements is ample evidence of this, but I also contend we have quite reached the limit fairness suggests in mortgaging future generations, and believe the best way of waking up people to the wastefulness and extravagance in expenditure of public money lies in a heavy tax, and let the ones responsible for this condition meet their share thereof.

INCREASE SMALL.

True, we are taxed heavy enough now, but it is also true that an increase in taxes, such as would be the result if bonds are defeated, would not probably exceed $5 for the average taxpayer, and if come it must meet indebtedness already incurred and avoid dishonor and repudiation of this city's obligations, let it come, and then the people will not easily forget who brought about this condition.

VOTE BONDS NO.

Vote bonds, no, and bury beneath your votes the strife breeders, character assassins, demagogues, spendthrifts and grafters, and vote for a fair, honest, and true progress, fairness, tolerance and honesty, and due consideration for the next generation of taxpayers, as well as decency in politics. SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Callister entertained at a large lawn party last night, nearly 300 guests being present. The lawn was lit with colored electric globes and lanterns, and a dancing floor set up in a corner of the grounds with a stringed orchestra furnishing music for the dancers. The rooms inside were decorated in the national colors, with flags, bunting and flowers, red and white carnations and sweet peas being used with pretty effect. A feature of the evening was the Hawaiian Troubadour quartet, which gave a number of delightful selections. The hosts were assisted in receiving and entertaining by the Misses Margaret and Irene Callister, Margaret and Genevieve Simmons, Mary McCune, Regina Reed, Louise Callister and Louise McCune.

Another large affair of last night was the party given by the Misses Bryan and Grizelle Houston at Emigration Inn, the party under the chaperonage of Mr. and Mrs. Houston, Mrs. J. R. Walker, and Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Hamilton taking a special car from Mount Olivet to the new inn and spending a most delightful evening. A delicious supper was among the many pleasant features, and present were the Misses Margaret Dunn, Lucille Clark, Elsie Parsons, Virginia Beatty, Gladys McConeghy, Isabelle Schiffer, Norina Thompson, Margaret Walker, Lillian Lane, Mercy Lewis, Selma, Alice and Mary Wall, Allen McMillan, Winnifred Brice, Elsie McMillan, Romona King, Marian Oberdorfer, Irma Brown and Mary Jacob. Messrs. The prizes at the morning bridge party given yesterday by Mrs. Matthea Cullen were won by George Sutherland and Miss Laverne Shaw. At the luncheon which followed the decorations were in pink and white. The affair was in honor of Mrs. Sutherland and Miss Edith Sutherland.

This afternoon Mrs. Schuyler Snyder entertained for her niece, Miss Estelle Mathis of Portland.

Miss Laura Rawlins will be guest of honor today at a luncheon given by Miss Leslie Woodruff previous to the former's departure for Europe. Tomorrow Miss Edna Farnsworth entertains for Miss Rawlins.

This evening Miss Bertha Willey and Dr. J. D. Davis of Chicago will be married, the ceremony to be performed at the home of the bride's mother, and the couple leaving afterward for a trip to Europe. Later they will return here to reside.

Today a party chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wells will start for a week's stay at Young's camp in Parley's canyon, the other being Misses Emma Carrington, Carrie Saville, Elma Young, Claire Williams and Ethel Connelley.

J. D. Spencer returns today from a short stay in Evanston.

Miss Emma Zano gave a luncheon at Wandamere on Monday in honor of her guest, Miss Norma McChase, the party being chaperoned by Mrs. C. M. Bell and Mrs. M. B. Whitney, and the following present: Misses Florence Ware, Miss Frances Ferguson, Miss Genevieve Savage and Miss Helen Greenwood. The party was chaperoned by Mrs. C. M. Bell and Mrs. M. B. Whitney.

Yesterday Miss Bertha Crozell and Miss Zella Scofield were hostesses at a card party, the prizes going to Miss Jennings and Miss Duncan. The decorations were in nasturtiums and poppies and seven tables were played.

Mrs. G. Johnson entertained 12 at a prettily appointed luncheon Monday, in honor of Miss Mary Purcell, whose marriage takes place Wednesday.

That mental or physical exertion uses up tissue—cells that must be rebuilt daily by proper food?

If strength and the power to "do things" are to be kept at highest efficiency, the human body must have Right Food to rebuild brain and nerve cells, and to keep in store the tremendous amount of "energy" required now-a-days to "strike the gait" that wins money and fame.

That's the misssion of food. It has stood the test with thousands of sturdy, thinking people for more than a decade, and is in greater favor now than ever before.

Grape-Nuts is scientifically made of wheat and barley; contains the necessary phosphate of potash grown in the grains for cell-building, and soluble Grape-Sugar (dextrose) for energy-storing.

SHORT STORY.

Food That Changed His Life.

Many level headed business men pay too little attention to what they eat until sickness attacks them.

Sedentary occupation, improper food and daily resort to drugs, coffee or liquors to "soothe" the disease has put many a good man away.

For many years my labors have been entirely indoors," writes a N. Y. man.

"Naturally, want of exercise, coupled with hasty eating of lunch with more or less greasy food and pastry told on my digestion.

"For a long period I tried scores of remedies without avail, and finally I was compelled to resign my position as secretary of an important business association. My weight had run down from 175 to 115 lbs. I was unable to sleep naturally, rose unrefreshed and without ambition, simply dragged about, feeling more dead than alive.

"Finally I was advised by a friend to try Grape-Nuts and promised to give it a fair trial. I began the following day, and, to make a long story short, in less than a year I have revolutionized my physical and mental condition, now weigh close to 150 lbs., and can digest all my food which I eat with relish. This change is due to Grape-Nuts."

"There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich. from the famous booklet, "The Road to Wellville," in pgs.
