THE FAR NORTH.

SWEDEN.

New editions of the letters of Charles XII will soon be published in Swedish and German.

A noble man is Alfred Noble, the Swedish inventor of smokeless gun powder, who recently joined the Austrian Peace Society. He has namely proven his devotion to the cause by contributing $540 to the propagation of the movement.

A couple of young lovers from Lerback, Nerike, went together to the minister to apply for a marriage license. Instead of promptly filling out the necessary blanks he spoke very earnestly about the importance of the step they were going to take, and this made such an impression on both of them that they agreed to drop the matter then and there.

Eighteen members of the Upper house of the Riksdag have resigned. It looks almost like a stampede. F. F. Berg, the representative, voices a general sentiment among the liberal members who have resigned, when he says: "I am tired of speaking to deaf ears, tired because I can accomplish nothing on account of the economical and political policy prevailing in our legislation and administration."

This is the manner, in which the "Ost-goten" sizes up the political situation in Norway: "The liberal movement in Norway is of the greatest importance to us. Norway will soon be on the height of political liberty and social development. No nobility, no great landlords, universal suffrage, free churches, no tariff, an insignificant royalty, popular education, courts of conciliation instead of war. . . . But Sweden has the same king as Norway. And how can the political barbarism of Sweden be perpetuated when the people in the other country of the king becomes a thoroughly free people? Right here lies our great hope, and that is what makes the Conservatives mad. This is the reason why the two peoples must be prevented from extending their hands to each other. And this is also the reason why the Norwegians and the Norwegian government are so despicable in the eyes of royalty, of the clergy, the army, the landlords and of the bureaucracy."

NORWAY.

A work on Christopher Columbus and the Discovery of America is under preparation by Prof. Gustav Storm and will be published complete about Christmas.

Girls under 16 and boys under 15 years of age have been forbidden to appear on any public stage in Christiania or to accept employment at restaurants without special permit from the authorities. Nor are children allowed to offer flowers, newspapers, etc., for sale at such places or to be on the streets for such purposes after 9 o'clock during the winter months.

The Viking ship intended for the Chicago World's Fair is to be built at Sandefjord near the place, where its prototype the ancient Gokstad vessel, was unearthed some fifteen years ago. It is to be ready for delivery in February next, and Mr. Christiansen, a well known ship builder who has charge of the work, is already busily engaged collecting material for it. Everything going into the ship will be of Norwegian growth, and workmanship except the keel, there being no oak timber big enough in the country for that purpose. Not even in Germany can timber of the required dimensions—156 feet long, 16 inches high and 8 inches wide—be obtained, and Canada will be called upon to furnish the piece.

DENMARK.

The papers of Copenhagen are having no end of fun with an old maid, who keeps 27 cats, 3 rats and a mouse, and tends to them as tenderly as if they were her own babies.

A London publishing house will soon issue a choice selection of translations of Scandinavian literature. The translation will be made by Baron A. Wal- leen Copenhagen.

"The Eiffel Tower" at Sondermarken, Copenhagen, is being built. It is a copy of the French structure of the same name, but will be only 500 feet high. As the ground, on which it stands, however, is 100 feet above the level of the sea, it will raise 600 feet above its surroundings. The passengers will be carried to the top of it by means of elevators.

DEATH OF CHARLOTTE VANDYKE.

The many friends of Mrs. Charlotte Vandyke will be grieved to learn of that estimable lady's death, the sad event occurring at her residence No. 35 Canyon road, this city, on Saturday last. Her demise was sudden and unexpected and was due to heart failure. She deceased was the wife of William Vandyke, at one time a leading citizen and business man of Ogden, but who has resided in this city for some years past.
