The men that God has placed in our midet, let us su-tun like the two counselers of M ses, Aaron and Hur, who held up the hand of Mises, sweet into gull, and then is compelled to Let us honor that word hat com s f om the Prophet of God He holds he keys of the kingdem; he is the true successor of Joseph, and he will have power over the nation either in life or in death; it is immaterial to him. When br. Bi ham goes and jo us with Joseph it will be sail. 'O, we are rejust as we always were, and here come his Counselors, they are one, and they increase the streng hand power of the Pri shood beyond the vail.' It is for us to uphold these men in every condition. Do we ever eat a meal of vituals without asking God to bless it?

We do not, I we do right, for we anght to have grateful hearts at he time, and ask Gol to Hess every gift he be t w s up n us and thank him for it. And when we pray, can we pray without remembering the cover that hears u ? If I were going to climb upon a staff ld and I thou, ht it give myself." weak, I would strengthen it before I ventured upon it; I do not want to venture upon it unless I know it is strong. If I put forth my powers in behalf of it and s rengthen i, then I know it is strong. It I never pay for that power, and feel no interest in t, I will never venture upon it. But if I have an interest there, I will strengthen that power, and when I do, I can venture on it.

The Presidency are like an arch with a keygione in the top of it. The greater weight you put upon it, the strot ger it is. It is sometimes for them and never do a thing to harm them. the case that the arch falls, but it is when no weight is upon i : but when you put a bundred thousand pounds weight upon it, it is better bound see. together and stards the more firmly. So if we sustain that power by our prayers and faith, we time. You have my best feelings and prayers. may put every thing on it; not every thing for them to do, we do not mean, but the weight of land for our sake, and that he will clear our responsibility in tieta ing the affirs of the kingdom. We may tr s them with safety and confidence, because we have contributed to make the butments per ament and strong, and now we may venture with assurance.

The grand secret we shall find to be, when we pray for. get through, that these are gods unto us, and there little to do with us. It is the power that is next to us that we have to do with more particularly .mediately bronght.

Some think they can rin by their Bishops, time henceforth and forever. Amen. and disrespect their authority. They may think, "only let me make it fair with the President, and it will be all right. I have the sanction of the highest authority." You might have the sanction of the head, but if the head had no feet to stand on, that sanction would not be of much worth.

Just so, we should seek to have the sanction of those that are immediately over us by our upright conduct. How can we love those whom we do not see once a month, or once in six mon hs. if we love not our Bishop whom we see daily.

Some men think if they can have a good name abroad, and with the Presidency, all is well. But at home, in our own houses, in our Wards, and with our immediate neighbors are the places to establish our reputation.

I tell you, if there is not a good influence in our own neighborhood, among our own Ward people in our favor, there is not a good influence anywhere for us, except with the reprobate.

Where you find a man or woman that has a good influence in their own Ward with their own Bishop, a good name with their own neighbors, they have a good name everywhere.

When the rays of light come from the sun, we say they are glorious, just as far as those rays extend. It is the same glory and the same influence, and it is the same power, just so it is, if all is right at home; if we have the respect and confidence of our own domestic fire-side friends, we have the respect and confidence of all whose respect is worth possessing.

Some may think if they can only keep fair weather with their Bishop and neighbors, it is no matter how they live at home, w! ether they neglect their affairs and quarrel like cats and dogs or not, if they can only pull the wool over the Bishop's eyes.

If we have a little hell in our own houses, that little hell will be sure to break out. We close the sepulchre, and roll a stone there, and seal it with the seal of State, and confine it just as closely as we please, but the contents will escape, even so with any family; their conduct will be known, and they cannot suppress it, nor confine it to their own domicils. Let us have no kind of jars at all, let us make every thing right at home, at the real seat of government, to begin with.

If they should have a little difficulty among the troops out here in Utah, so far from the geat of government in Washington, it would have but little effect at head quarters. But when contention, strife and war break out in the halls of Congress, it then becomes "some pumpkins," and such kind of difficulty I pray God in the name of Jesus, to let them have right at home, at the seat of empire, because they have sought to destroy the kingdom of God, and it is the same spirit that moved lierod

If we can make it all right in our families, hell on fire. I speak particularly in relation The woman sees a chance to give the man a keen word that will make him feel, but she sours her own dish by so doing. She turns he
