FINE RECORD OF THE UTAH MINE

Only Property In the State Which Paid Dividends During
The Panic.

FRUITS OF CONSERVISM

Regular Shipments of Ore Continue to Come to the Smelters of Salt
Lake Valley.

One of the old-time mines of Utah, one that has been a steady bread-winner and therefore has an enviable record to its credit, is the Utah mine at Fish Springs. All during the "panicky" times of last year, and since, the directors at their regular monthly meetings have posted dividends of $3.66 each—something that no other mine in the state has done. Notwithstanding that metal prices dropped and things went to smash generally for a time, shareholders of the Utah mine felt secure and counted on getting their regular stipend. Fortunately, the conservatism of the management safeguarded the treasury during the high metal season and therefore the company was prepared for just such times as were experienced during the latter part of last year and in the fore part of the present one.

But all the while regular shipments of ore were made to the local smelters. The ore sent out from the mine was high grade and even after paying the costs of mining, transportation, sampling and smelting, even when things were at the worst, a good margin of profit was left, which it is claimed, more than equalled the dividend requirement.

The American Smelting & Refining company settled yesterday for 44 tons of ore from the mine last week, which netted $4.227. When it is taken into consideration that it is necessary to haul the product of the Utah mine over the desert for 60 miles to the nearest railroad station, then load it onto the cars and ship it to the Salt Lake valley smelters, the record made is truly an enviable one.

There was a reaction in the price of Iron Blossom on the mining exchange this morning. The stock opened at 140, and after a period of lasting duration, for when the result of assayers who made a test of the ore encountered on the 500 level, became known, a softening followed.
