Vice President and General Manager of Short Line Off on A Vacation.

LEAVES FOR MEXICO CITY.

Says it is the First Time in His Life He Has Taken a Holiday for Recreation.

For a railroad veteran like W. H. Bancroft, vice president and general manager of the Oregon Short Line and vice president of the Salt Lake Route, to be taking the first vacation during his railroad career is somewhat of an event and one calculated to make the young man who objects to working on holidays sit up and take notice.

While Mr. Bancroft of necessity takes frequent trips, heretofore he has always been in touch with headquarters and has daily been called upon to decide questions over the wires. This time he has taken his first vacation and has been in the hands of his wife, Mrs. Bancroft, who has been in the hands of her husband for the first time in his life.

Prior to his departure for Old Mexico last evening, Mr. Bancroft said to the "News": "I am going away with Mrs. Bancroft for rest and recreation and for the first time in my life I am going to take a holiday, leaving all cares behind me. I am going to Mexico City and will be there for a week or two. I will be in the hands of my wife, who has been in the hands of her husband for the first time in his life."

RETURN OF A FORTUNE.

Charles I. Hogan Tells How He Gave Back $3,200 to Robert Elte.

One week ago yesterday, Charles I. Hogan of Bonifield, proprietor of the Bonifield Dairy, after taking his lunch at a busy little Second Street restaurant, went out of the place, crossed the sidewalk and started into the street where his milk wagon was standing. At his feet he observed a small sack which he picked up, opened and proceeded to examine. He was much surprised to see that it contained a large amount of currency, gold and greenbacks. With the money was a bank book which he opened and on which was discovered the name of the owner. The name was one with which he was not familiar—in fact he had not seen or heard of it before. He looked about the street, thinking perhaps the man from whom it belonged would appear in appearance. Not seeing any such person he made ready to start to the Commercial National bank from which it was evident the money had been drawn. Just as he was starting, he looked down the street, and saw on a delivery wagon, the same name as that appearing in the bank book. He immediately stopped the conveyance, and accosted a man on the seat of whom he inquired if he had lost anything. The reply was "Yes, a sack containing $3,200 in money."

"Well, here it is," said Mr. Hogan. "I have found it and was looking for the owner. I am mighty glad to be able to turn it over to you."

Commenting on the matter last night, Mr. Hogan said to the "News": "That man was Robert Elte whom I understand is a Salt Lake candy manufacturer. Being in the candy business I presume that is why he offered a pound of candy. I should not have mentioned the incident in any way whatever, had the matter not assumed a proportion that has never intended, and had my name not been incorrectly associated with the story. I found the money just as I have stated, and returned it to you. That is all there is to it, and there is nothing more to say."

STORMY SCENE IN COURT ROOM.

Attorneys Collide Over a Sensational Article in the Salt Lake Tribune.

JURY WAS THEN EXCUSED.

Question as to Who Gave Information To Reporter—The Accused Lawyer Exonerated and Matter Dropped.

There was a stormy scene in Judge Ritchie's court today over a newspaper article which appeared in the Tribune this morning in regard to the case of Hilma Malmstrom against the Rio Grande Western Railway company, which is on trial in that court. Attorney Allison, in behalf of the defendant, took exception to the story and intimated that Attorney James Ingelbrecht of counsel for plaintiff gave the information upon which the article was based to the reporter. Mr. Ingelbrecht today denied that he had taken the story to the incident and intimated that the reporter should be notified of the matter. Mr. Allison's action in the matter of being the "basest and most groveling act which ever occurred in court."

The story complained of stated that A. J. Duell, an engineer in the employ of defendant, changed his testimony in the case because he feared he would lose his job if he testified against it. When court opened Mr. Allison called the court's attention to the article and stated that it was biased and was intended to prejudice the jury in favor of the plaintiff. He then said that he had heard that Attorney Ingelbrecht, with Zane and Stringfellow represent plaintiff, was talking to the reporter yesterday afternoon and intimated that he had given out the information from which the reporter wrote the article. At this point the court excused the jury while the matter was investigated.

The attorney for defendant then further stated that some one had evidently misinformed the reporter and that the article was incorrect in that it did not state all of the testimony in regard to the incident and intimated that the minds of those who read it and if the jurors had read it they would probably be prejudiced also. He contended that the article was a libel on the plaintiff and that he was afraid he would lose his job if he made any misstatement against the defendant. The attorney suggested that the court should instruct the attorneys for plaintiff that they should not try their case in the newspapers.

Mr. Ingelbrecht then stated that such insinuations as were cast against him by Mr. Allison would not be noticed by him except for the fact that he had a number of friends in the court room and he did not propose to pass them. He stated that the newspaper men were his friends and that he had talked to the reporter yesterday afternoon but denied most emphatically that he had said a word to him about the case.

"Mr. Allison," he continued, "casts aspersions upon my character by insinuating that I was responsible for that article and yet he admits here that he did not see me talking to the reporter but merely heard that I had talked to him. He had no foundation for the statement whatever. Further than that the reporter was in the court room yesterday and heard the witness testify that he changed his testimony because he was afraid of losing his job. The records here show that that was the testimony of the witness and that I leave it to the court to decide. The action of Mr. Allison is the basest and most groveling that ever occurred in court."

Continuing, Mr. Allison said that men usually associate with newspaper men for the purpose of getting something out of the paper to their benefit. If the reporter had published the whole truth and not just half of the truth, he said there would have been no trouble.

Judge Zane then made a statement in regard to the matter, after which the court recalled the jury, and then stated they should not pay any attention to the newspapers' report of the testimony in the court room. The reporter evidently did not intend to present the matters connected with the case in an unfair light. He also stated that the jury should be instructed to nothing to do with giving the article to the reporter. With that the matter was dropped and the case was proceeded with.

SIXTH FIELD BATTERY.

Arrives at Ft. Sam Houston, Breaks World's Long Distance March Record.

Kansas City, Jan. 12.—A special to the Star from Fort Sam Houston, Tex., says: The Sixth field battery of the United States artillery, commanded by Capt. G. W. Gatchell, entered Fort Sam Houston today amid the cheers of the local garrison. The battery, broke the world's record for long distance practice march of artillery, having covered the route from Kansas City to Fort Sam Houston in 54 days. The battery was compelled to make several detours in order to avoid bad roads and unusually rough country. This made the distance, which is actually covered, considerably longer than by rail.

It is asserted by army men here that it is by far the longest practice march ever made by artillery in time of peace, and that no forced march in time of war, such as the famous march of the Russian artillery, compares with it in distance.

The artillerymen of the sixth battery were a sorry appearing set of men when they arrived here. Their clothing was in tatters and they were covered with mud and dirt. The color of the cloth could not be distinguished.

The men are haggard and lean. Many of them were scarcely able to travel. The horses reeked with mud and dirt. The battery had a hard time fording Texas. They had a hard time fording Texas. They had a hard time fording Texas. They had a hard time fording Texas.

"How much longer," he asked, "are the American people to allow themselves to be dictated to by the labor union element?"
