

PROHIBITIONISTS MEET IN CHICAGO

National and State Leaders
Hopeful Over the Outlook for Four Years' Campaign.

ENTHUSIASTIC PACE IS SET.

Three Slogans of the Council—Will Flood the Land With Prohibition Party Literature.

Special Correspondence.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 18.—Bronzed and gray-haired veterans of 40 years' service in the great reform until with earnest clear-shaven young workers in the first conference of national and state prohibition party leaders since the 1903 election, in Chicago, Dec. 29 and 30.

Every phase of the practical campaign for political prohibition was canvassed and whatever differences of opinion regarding methods and details arose, there was but one attitude and one conviction upon the present duty of every party prohibitionist in the land.

The over-zealous editors of license and liquor sympathizing newspapers, who have been writing their solemn, quivering "editorials" of the prohibition party would have opened their eyes in astonishment if they could have been present.

The keynote of the two days' council was "Forward" to nation-wide "prohibition party organization," a more closely articulated system of co-operation between national, state and local party committees, a thousand-fold increase in "the party press and literature," and a united record breaking effort to raise a national campaign fund of $1,000,000 in order to crystallize sentiment and secure its definite expression at the ballot box for "Prohibition with a party behind it."

And finally the whole conference adjourned in a spirit of unconquerable determination and eagerness to get back on the fire-line of the party work and get "into action" with the new plans, suggestions, and ammunition provided by this inspiring interchange of ideas and the exchange of letters presented to the conference.

A "CHEER" MESSAGE.

Although prevented by ill health, the following words from the venerable John Russell, "the father of the prohibition party," are of special interest to prohibitionists everywhere:

"New Haven, Michigan, Dec. 28, 1908. Charles R. Jones, Chairman—Dear Sir:

"To yourself and all fellow prohibition party workers assembled, I beg to send most cordial greetings. I thank you for the courteous invitation to make one of your company, and but for ill health and the infirmities of over 80 years of age, I should gladly be with you.

"As to the outlook of the party, I can see no proper cause for discouragement. For the present, we are essentially an educating agency, teaching ourselves and the voting public what to do and how to accomplish it. Our mistakes in the past have been few and by no means fatal. Having learned by former years of non-partisan labor that, 'how to do a right thing in a wrong way is among the lost arts,' and having now shown the true line of battle, we have only to fight it out on this line no matter how long it may take.

"We demand the utter extinction of the beverage liquor traffic, in state and nation, with a party in power pledged to enforcement of the law. To accept of less than this involves a compromise to which we will not consent.

"Let all concessions come from the enemy.

"From this standpoint we should continue to make our appeals to the intelligence and virtue of the people.

"My recommendations are brief:

"1.—Organize our forces promptly and thoroughly, after the most approved manner of political action.

"2. Agitate incessantly by prudent public discussion.

"3. If possible, get our best party journals into every home in the land. Scatter the party literature far and wide among the people. Trust in God and expect victory in due time.

"Yours faithfully,
JOHN RUSSELL."

DRINK TRAFFIC.

Finley C. Hendrickson, a member of the executive committee from Maryland, on "The Relation of the Drink

The mere fact that

Traffic to Free Institutions," said in part:

"The drink traffic, which yields a political influence from crossroads to national capital is to determine in the largest measure the power or impotence of a free people to triumph over widespread diffusive evils. Brewers and distillers in a monarchy are brewers and distillers only. But in this republic they would arrogate to themselves exalted power. They boldly declare they bear the ark of the covenant of freedom on which they have engraven 'Prohibition doesn't prohibit,' and also declare they only have the right to carry the torch of human liberty to light our path.

"Another distinction is to be observed. Of all lawbreaking interests, the drink traffic is the only one which defies the self-sufficiency of our constitutional freedom. The smuggler glides through the waters in the dark to obscure ports. The burglar tries to turn the latch noiselessly. The counterfeiter melts his alloy and the rebaters destroy their records. But the brewers and distillers seek the chief seats in the political market places to declare that the American people are, as to this traffic, incapable of making their constitutionally expressed will effective.

"Above all the questions of faction or section we sound a patriotic appeal to every one who believes in free institutions. Will Americans respond to that appeal? We believe they will. If not today, then tomorrow, and if not tomorrow, then the day after. But we do not believe they will finally permit this traffic, or any other law-breaking interest, to become the repository and exponent of their liberties.

"As prohibitionists we believe in the self-sufficiency of our forms of government, properly administered, as applied to the suppression of this and all other governmental evils."

"PRACTICAL POLITICS."

W. G. Calderwood, secretary of the prohibition national committee, in his remarks on the above subject, said:

"Practical politics is putting the sentiment on any question at any time in the ballot box, and I make no apology and I dare say I find no opposition in making the assertion that we have enough sentiment in the United States at this minute and in the state of Illinois and certainly in the state of Minnesota, to kill the saloon at the next election if we could let it wake up. We have just one job, hard as it may be. Practical politics has to do with making people believe we can do what we say we can do.

"I would like to lay down two rules that are absolutely essential to effective organization. First, have the organization be to a purpose. I am wasting time when I go out to get organization for organization's sake, when the reason I go is to have an organization. If you organize without a purpose for your organization, you not only have done no good, but you have made it harder next year when you really want to organize. You make it difficult to organize because you have fooled them once.

"Organization always should be made simple enough to be workable. There should be a definite purpose in organization before you begin it, but after you have begun, its whole utility will be the fact that it can be worked. The organization should be definitely a political organization and not a semi-political organization. It ought to be a party organization before it is a club. Before you have a club, have a pre-arranged committee. I believe the logical place to begin the organization of any state is precinct by precinct rather than county by county."

"WHEN WE SHALL WIN."

Frank J. Shiley, member of the national committee from Arizona: "We shall be able to win when we are able to secure attention to the printed page that the prohibition party puts out. I believe we can carry any state in this Union if we can put a prohibition newspaper before the voters of that state for a period of four years. Any state in the Union can be brought to the realization of the enormity of the liquor traffic and the necessity of taking such action as the prohibition party appeals to the people to take by the prohibition press."

"FACING AN ISSUE."

A. A. Stevens, of the national executive committee: "If prohibitionists were not kickers, there would never have been a prohibition party. There is no thought that ought to run through all our minds. I would rather see the results as they stand than to have had our vote 300,000 in number and no issue faced. This prohibition party today is a party without an issue and without an existence. The Republican party stands sponsor for the liquor interests. Let us be united."

IS SURE OF VICTORY.

Dan R. Sheen, prohibition candidate for governor of Illinois, in 1908: "The prohibitionists can say, in the language of the Apostle Paul, 'I am not ashamed.' We are troubled on every side, yet not distressed; we are persecuted, but not in despair; persecuted, but not forsaken; cast down, but not destroyed."

"The prohibition party will have to go through with all the ailments of a juvenile party, just as children do with the chickenpox, and measles, whooping-cough, and other ailments. But the party must be allowed to run their course. This is part of the necessary political evolution that we cannot avert.

"But, there is one thing we can do, and that is, believe me, in the future, as in the past, justice will finally prevail; that God has not gone to sleep, and that 'in due season we shall reap, if we faint not.'"

"I am afraid that the zeal of some of our workers will lead them to retaliate upon the Anti-Saloon league, and this course, in my opinion, would be unwise. In my opinion, would be unwise. If this work of men it will come to naught; but if it be of God we cannot overthrow it."

"I feel sure that the local prohibitionists have simply chafed at the fact that we have gathered, and that the butler that they have made will need some bread in order to be palatable.

"In other words, prohibition laws will need to be enforced as well as passed, locally as well as generally, and the officers to enforce such laws, such as state attorneys, mayors, sheriffs, etc., can only be secured by a prohibition party. They can never be secured by a party that creates, or perpetuates, the liquor traffic. This fact the local prohibitionists will finally see, and we should so conduct ourselves that when they do see it we will not make neither apologies nor explanations. They are not our enemies; they are simply our 'fool friends.'"

"I believe we have spent too much time by destroying the saloon, and not enough in building up our party. We govern through party. We vote for 'high tariff' or 'tariff for revenue only,' by voting for a party, that stands for the liquor traffic, for 'silver metalism,' or the 'gold standard' or the home, or the saloon. This being so, we should emphasize our position of anti-saloon, anti-brewery, anti-distillery, anti-transportation, etc., and the necessity of not only good laws, but the friends of those laws to enforce them.

"We should go out into the highways and byways and proselyte the wayfarer, as well as those who serve the Lord in silver slippers, amid cushioned pews. The churches have reached a conscience soothing position, on a knoll, above the quagmire of saloon politics, where they will take another rest. They stayed down below until forced to abandon the moral suasion idea; and, then, until forced to abandon the high license idea, and now they are right out with those for whom they no longer have apologies.

"I, for one, feel like saying to them, as Paul said to the Jews: 'From henceforth I will go unto the Gentiles.' I believe we can get ten votes among working men to the one among those whose hearts are set on the almighty dollar and a dolled political party that they are afraid to express, even at the ballot box, their real sentiments.

"Let us re-arrange our battle lines; use all our ammunition on our foes, and none on our friends; pick our flint and aim again."

CAMPAIGN HIT.

Bradford McGregor, Covington, Ky.: "It appears almost impossible that our stalwart hero, 6000, could possibly beat the 14,000,000 against them in a general engagement, but in detail they might. Let the prohibitionists select New York, Illinois and Georgia, as our battle grounds, concentrate our efforts and resources on precinct organization in them and let each precinct be organized with a band of at least five to ten in each. Let the other states be organized for revenue to support the organization forces on the battle line of the three states and simply keep their organizations intact in the revenue states. The prohibitionists made a little headway in the election, even an abolitionist to Congress in 1848 (Nathaniel P. Banks, I think it was), who held the balance of power and forced his election as speaker of Congress and forced the recognition of the abolition movement."

RECIPIENTS OF CARNEGIE HERO FUND MEDALS

Pittsburg, Jan. 20.—The Carnegie hero fund committee today awarded 20 medals $150 in cash and pensions aggregating $600 per month for deeds of valor during the war. The meeting of the committee in October.

Among those awarded are the following:

Florence A. Whaley, 13 years old, a schoolgirl of San Diego, Cal., given a bronze medal and $100 for educational purposes for saving from drowning Bruce W. McKinnis, aged 5, who while playing in the water, saw a hole beyond his depth on Aug. 25, 1907.

A bronze medal was given to George L. Roberts, aged 25, of Oakland, Cal., for rescuing from drowning on March 11, 1908, Agnes M. Gettings, aged 12, of San Francisco, Cal. Mrs. Gettings was knocked off a railroad trestle by a train on which Roberts was riding. The latter jumped from the train into the river and saved the girl.

Peter Hann, aged 35, a Molava Indian of Melina, Ariz., on July 12, 1907, with the assistance of George Hall, saved Mrs. W. W. McKinnis, aged 3, and her son, W. W. McKinnis, Jr., aged 6, of Parker, Ariz., from drowning, when they had fallen into the Colorado river from the deck of a steamboat on which the two rescuers were employed. The rescuers were drowned.

The medals were given to the rescuers and the Indians jumped in after it. They succeeded in getting the woman and the boy upon the shore when the latter, it is presumed, to rescue the boy, was drowned. Rudolph Deane, wife of the drowned man, was awarded a "pension" and benefits of $10 a month with $5 additional for her son. Deane was given a bronze medal and $150 to be applied toward the purchase of a farm.

ALIENIST SAYS MRS. REED NEVER WAS INSANE

Denver, Jan. 20.—Mrs. Allen F. Reed, who attempted to dynamite Mrs. Georgeville Chandler's children, is said to have never been insane, in the report of the alienist for the state.

The report is now in the hands of Dist. Atty. Elliott. The physician also reported that Mrs. Reed is not a danger to the use of drugs and that there is no reason why her trial should not be proceeded with at once. Mr. Elliott refused to say anything regarding the report of the physician and will probably await the findings of the state's second alienist before the case is set for hearing.

ITALIAN SHOTS POLICEMAN.

Trinidad, Colo., Jan. 20.—Joe Esquino, an Italian, aged 35 years, last night, probably fatally wounding him, shot his wife twice, once bullet entering her right arm, and the other her right arm, and then blew out his own brains.

Esquino and his wife had been quarreling for some time. The quarrel culminated when Officer Richter responded to the call from other inmates and Esquino began shooting. Esquino returned recently from Italy. He was married at Calumet, Mich., four years ago.

A RELIGIOUS AUTHOR'S STATEMENT.

For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble and last winter I was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my kidneys and was confined to bed eight days unable to get up without assistance. My urine contained a thick white sediment and I passed same frequently day and night. I commenced taking Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the pain gradually abated and finally ceased, and my urine became normal. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy. F. J. BOSTON TO OMAHA.

Planned to Construct Long Distance Telephone Line Between Them.

Boston, Jan. 21.—Plans for the construction of an independent long distance telephone system from Boston to Omaha and Lincoln, Neb., calling for an expenditure of $5,000,000, will be perfected, it is said, during the conference of independent telephone company officers, which will convene in this city on Saturday next. Financial arrangements have already been made, according to information at hand, and the details of construction and operation only remain to be adjusted. The project has been under discussion since last May, and is being pushed forward by Max Koehler, one of the most prominent independent telephone men in the country, and by H. C. Stiff, of St. Louis. Officers of independent telephone companies generally will be identified with the movement. Within the next five years, it is said, that approximately $30,000,000 will be invested in the enterprise.

SUFFRAGISTS DISPERSED.

New York, Jan. 21.—Lacking the necessary permit to hold a public meeting in the street, a number of prominent suffragists headed by Mrs. Howard Wells were dispersed in the theater district last night by the police. During their protest one of the women said indignantly that the National Army was allowed to hold street meetings.

"Well, religious meetings are different."

Truth and Quality

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing. Accordingly, it is not claimed that Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is the only remedy of known value, but one of many reasons why it is the best of personal and family laxatives is the fact that it cleanses, sweetens and relieves the internal organs on which it acts without any debilitating after effects and without having to increase the quantity from time to time.

It acts pleasantly and naturally and truly as a laxative, and its component parts are known to and approved by physicians, as it is free from all objectionable substances. To get its beneficial effects always purchase the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists.
