BRIGHAM CITY.

At the home of the bride's parents a pretty June wedding took place

LITTLE GIRLS WEAR LARGE HATS.

Runabout or playtime hats for little girls are as simple of design and trimming as those worn by the cowboys of the western plains. Although of coarse, woven straw and trimmed merely with a corded ribbon band, the rough-and-ready feminine hat is decidedly picturesque. Because it gets rather hard usage in the mountains or by the sea, the cowboy type of hat should be of dark brown, blue or green to accord with the plaided gingham morning frock. It is placed over so slightly at one side of the head and kept in place by a broad elastic band, which passed under the hair behind the ears.

Wednesday evening when Miss Wanda Snow and George M. Thorntons were married by President Oleen N. Stohl at 9 o'clock in the presence of the family and intimate friends. The ceremony was followed by a large reception. The home was beautifully decorated in roses. Miss Ethel Erdman attended the bride as bridesmaid while Fay Snow as flower girl and little Mona Jensen as ring bearer. Mr. Robert Snow acted as best man.

Miss Cleo Forsgren was the guest of honor at a pretty handkerchief shower given by Mrs. Norman Lee. Twenty-four ladies enjoyed the afternoon and were busy stitching the dainty gifts for the bride to be. The rooms were profusely decorated in red and pink roses, each guest wearing a beautiful rose through the afternoon. Strawberries, cake and ice cream were served. Those present were Mesdames Norman Lee, Liveren Lee, Lorenzo N. Stohl, David Stohl, Vern Philips, Wallace Boden, Oleen N. Stohl, Nat A. Macdonald, of Mesa, Ariz., Jesse W. Hooper, A. Lyle Eddy, Lawrence Berg, Tom Evans, J. Scott Jensen, A. W. Ensign, Hyrum W. Valentine, Mrs. Rose, Nealey and the Misses Cleo Forsgren, Emilia Madison, Ada Ralphs, Amy Lee, May Jensen, Florence Jensen, Florence Grant of Salt Lake, Eliza Philips and Eliza Madison.

The girls at the court house surprised Mrs. Ben Call in a pretty manner Thursday evening at a shower party. Games, music and refreshments of a very delicious nature were enjoyed. Mrs. Call was presented with a beautiful cut glass water set. Those present were the Misses Clair Christensen, Isabella Dalton, Mary Holst, Hilda Hansen, Helen Reddall, Truette Box, May Jensen, Ada Johnson, Agnes, Olsen, Cristina Madison, Eliza Hansen, Mrs. Hyrum Valentine and Mrs. Ben Call.

Mrs. Lysle Eddy was hostess at a pretty parcel shower in honor of Miss Cleo Forsgren. The rooms were beautifully decorated in roses. Illustrating rhymes and gingles employed the ladies part of the evening. Miss May Jensen carried off first and Mrs. Tom Evans the consolation prizes. Strawberries, cake and orange punch were served. Those present were Mesdames A. Lyle Eddy, Wynne Eddy, Carl Nelson, L. N. Stohl, Oleen N. Stohl, David Stohl, A. W. Ensign, H. W. Hooper, Jesse W. Hooper, A. Hillman, Nat Macdonald, Norman Lee, Scott Jensen, Waldemar Madison, Wilford Becker, Julius Wright, the Misses Cleo Forsgren, Ada Ralphs, May and Florence Nelson, Emilia Madison, Eliza Hansen, Lulu Burt, Eliza Thompson, Martha Evans and Florence Grant of Salt Lake City.

The Mutual girls of the Third ward entertained the Relief Society Tuesday afternoon at the ward hall. The assembly room was prettily decorated in red and white, portieres of red and white streamers studded with roses draped windows and doors. Refreshments were everywhere. Buns and easy chairs made the room cozy. Prizes were awarded Mrs. Mary Jensen as the best darning of hose, and Miss Louise Barker won the prize as the best buttonhole maker. About 150 guests were served with strawberries, salad, sandwiches cake and ice cream.

In Women's World.

Something pretty and new in the way of salads for luncheon is prepared in this way: Put some white lettuce hearts on a flat dish and lay green lettuce leaves around in a ring. On these place alternate oblong pieces of the same size and shape: serve French dressing or mayonnaise with it. Another new salad is still simpler: Arrange the lettuce, and make a thin full of finely minced canned red pineapples. The mixed flavor is very nice. Or have a salad of cooked cauliflower laid on lettuce and covered with chopped pineapples, and all pepper shells with this, and set on lettuce.

GAS BY THE CAN.

It is exceedingly likely that within the next 12 months dwellers in isolated country homes will buy from the grocer gas to light their households as readily as they now buy kerosene. A new illuminant, called blaugas, after its inventor, Herman Blau, has made this possible. It is delivered in handy little cylinders as easily and safely as so much bottled cream. We need not do violence to the imagination to picture the suburban housewife in the near future, telephoning her order to the grocer for so many dozens of eggs, pounds of starch, cans of tomatoes—and a five-pound cylinder of blaugas. The gas has been successfully and cheaply made and handled, it can be managed by any one of ordinary mind, and it furnishes a light of remarkable brilliancy. The use of it has been put upon a sound commercial basis in Germany and probably will soon be established in the United States. The story of this remarkable invention is told in detail in the current Harper's Weekly by Professor William Hallcock of Columbia, a distinguished authority.

For the summer outfit is, first, the over-utility, the always smart cloth, cheviot, or Panama suit. It must be well cut and tailored, but it need be nothing else unless elaboration is insisted upon. Many excellent city houses offer models at this time for $25, which, if made of the earlier, could not have been purchased for $40. Next in importance—not these really should have come first—are the corsets. Two pairs of these are necessary. Let us allow $5 for the better one, and $3 for the second and best. This is, I know, more than the average woman allows for such articles in one season, but economy is not real unless one also enjoys absolute satisfaction in the appearance of her clothes. Corsets are at the very foundation of good dressing. I advise you who are beginning to plan such an outfit not to "skimp" on these garments. Shoes, especially in summer, are highly important. They must have the proper heel and cut. We may allow $9 for shoes out of the sum in hand to be distributed as follows: One pair of low walking shoes in tan leather at $3; one pair of black ones (high) at $3.50, and one pair of smart house shoes or slippers at $2.50. These should carry through the summer respectively. Also, four pairs of plain hosiery and two of fancier sort (the six to cost $2); two pairs of Lisle gloves at 75 cents a pair, and two of kid at $2 a pair; one hat of straw and a second, a "ready-to-wear," at $4. To this point we now have a total expenditure of $61.50.

Harper's Bazar, that court of final appeal for women on all questions of life, death, and the hereafter, has persuaded the founder of the Boston Emmanuel church religious-medical movement to write about and for nervous women. In this month's Bazar, the Rev. S. S. McComb says: "Now, in all functional neurotic states—neurasthenia, hysteria, hypochondria, and psychasthenia, and the like—the re-education of the emotions is most important. Consider the physiological effects of emotion. It has been shown that joyous feelings relax the smooth muscles of the arteries and of the bronchial tubes, improve the circulation, and make breathing freer and easier; whereas depressing emotions—worry, fear, grief—contract these muscles and derange the circulation and the breathing. Well has it been said that there is no tonic so uplifting and renewing as joy, which sets into active exercise every constructive power of the body. How are the emotions to be educated? By taking advantage of the psychological law of substitution. Fear, apprehension, suspicion, jealousy, and worry are to be driven out by the nobler emotions—love, joy, peace—which are at once the fruit of the spirit and the secret of happiness and nervous balance.

Especially must the nervous person be on his guard against sham emotions—that is to say, that lead to nothing practical, that have no moral substance in them. This is the curse of the sentimental woman. She lives in her emotions. She loses touch with reality, and under some special stress or strain nervous disease overtakes her."

A man who is in perfect health, so he can do an honest day's work when necessary, has much to recommend him. He is thankful, Mr. L. C. Rodgers, of Branchton, Pa., writes that he was not only unable to work but he couldn't stoop over to tie his own shoes. Six bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made a new man of him. He says "Success to Foley's Kidney Cure." For sale by F. J. Hill Drug Co. "The Never Substitutors."
