

some years. She announced her intention of standing up for her interests if any move was made by the family to keep her out of what was due her, but said that she did not want to harass Mr. Sutro or to make trouble for the heirs if it could be avoided. She also confided in Joseph H. Moore, an attorney, who was formerly connected with the Sutro estate, and in G. Spencer, a well known money lender, who is now suing the Barron estate in San Jose for over $20,000. Mrs. Kluge is a handsome woman of 30, who lives in elegant style. She has two children. When interviewed she stated she was Sutro's niece but would not admit that she also claimed to be his contract wife.

The fact that no referee was agreed upon Thursday night by Tom Sharkey and Ed Graney, representing Joe Choynski, was a disappointment to the sporting community. It is believed, however, that a man satisfactory to both sides will be chosen at the meeting to be held at 2 o'clock today (Friday). Betting on the fight was lively Thursday night. The odds of 10 to 8, Sharkey favorite, soon disappeared as Choynski money loosened up and came in freely. The odds were slowly cut until the betting rested at even money. After it was learned that no referee had been chosen, but few bets were made. While the straight betting is at even money the mutuels show the public pulse beating in favor of Sharkey. According to the mutuels Sharkey runs from a 10 to 8 to a 10 to 7 favorite. The rumor that Choynski had gone stale probably influenced the first light betting, but there is nothing in the Californian's appearance to bear out the rumor. Choynski is fully as confident as Sharkey and, peculiarly enough, both base their confidence on the same thing to a great extent. When Sharkey was training to meet Peter Maher he had Choynski as a sparring partner. They boxed together daily and now each is confident of his own superiority. There is every indication that Woodward's pavilion will be packed this (Friday) evening. The sale of reserved seats, especially the higher priced ones, has been very heavy.

Everything is stir and bustle at the navy yard at Vallejo, Cal. Hundreds of workmen are being added to the usual force to rush the work of preparing the Charleston, Philadelphia, Hartford, Pensacola and Adams for service. The Yorktown is awaiting repairs, but no orders have been received from the navy department regarding the work to be done on her. The Charleston and Philadelphia have been ordered completed at once, and it is chiefly on their account that so many extra employees have been added to the pay roll, though the other departments at the yard are also swelling their working lists. On Thursday the construction department sent in a requisition for 125 extra men, and today (Saturday) asked for 200 more. The regular work of the yard is proceeding as usual, but night and day shifts will be employed on the Charleston and Philadelphia. The yard is amply prepared to turn out fast work, new machinery having just been put in, and more is under course of construction, which when completed will double the capacity of the shop. A monster boring and turning mill is nearing completion and a hydraulic riveting machine will soon be in operation. The only trouble likely to be experienced in case of emergency is the securing of a sufficient force of workmen. The work originally planned to be done on the Philadelphia would take six months, but in the present urgency only absolutely necessary work will be performed and the vessel will be ready for sea in about four weeks.

Father Borrowman emigrated with his parents, William and Marion Borrowman, to Ontario, Canada, in 1830. In 1840 he joined the Church and moved to Nauvoo. In 1843 he was called to go back on a two years' mission, and was successful in bringing many into the fold of Christ. On his return he started with the Pioneers for the Rocky Mountains. He enlisted in the Mormon Battalion July 16, 1846, served in company B under Lieutenant Smith, and traveled by the way of Fort Leavenworth via Santa Fe to California. He was mustered out of service July 16th, 1847. He stayed in California until October, 1848.

He was one of those who worked on that noted mill race when the first gold was found. He reached Great Salt Lake City in the fall of 1848. On Jan. 9th, 1849, he was married to Agnes Thompson Parks, who was one of the Pioneers of 1847. In 1853, Brother and Sister Borrowman came and settled in Nephi. After obtaining himself a home, he was again called to take a mission to Canada. In 1857, President Joseph Young organized the Forty-ninth quorum of Seventy, and Elder Borrowman was called as one of the presidents. He served in this position for nearly forty years. He served as justice of the peace for over thirteen years. He was a man of sterling integrity, honest and upright in all his affairs, and died in full fellowship. He leaves a wife, two sons and three daughters, twenty-nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild, not to mourn but to rejoice in having so good a parent, to precede them. LANGLEY.

RUTH C. TILLOTSON.

Ogden, Utah, March 7, 1898.—Sister Ruth C. Tillotson, after a lingering illness, died at the family residence in this city of heart and kidney trouble, Feb. 15, 1898. She was the daughter of Joseph Collinston and Susanah Oil Collinston, and was born at Wakefield, Yorkshire, England, May 15, 1832. Her parents were not wealthy, but they were honest and industrious. Her father died when she was an infant, and she was left to the care of her mother, who struggled and bravely fought the battles of life to protect and rear her little one to a life of purity and integrity. This she did, and the child Ruth grew to womanhood and lived an honorable life. In December, 1850, she heard the everlasting Gospel preached by the Elders of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and was soon afterwards baptized into the Church by Elder James Dinsdale. On June 5, 1856, she emigrated to the United States. She landed in Boston, Mass., on July 4th. After a brief sojourn in several states, she settled in St. Louis, Missouri, and there on Sept. 30, 1856 she was married to Elder Ephraim Tillotson, now a well known and respected citizen of Ogden; the marriage ceremony was performed by Elder Erastus Snow. She continued to reside in St. Louis until the year 1877. During their residence in that city, their home was always open, and the Elders in the missionary field ever found a warm welcome beneath their hospitable roof; and Sister Tillotson always took special care in ministering to their comforts. Those acts of kindness and generosity are treasured in the memory of the recipients and have often been spoken of with gratitude by some of them in this city. In 1877 she emigrated with her family to Utah. She came to Ogden and settled on the Bench. Here she has continued to live a life of love and utility, growing in favor and in the affections of all who knew her. For a year past she has suffered much from a complication of complaints which culminated in her demise—she being then 65 years and 9 months old. She had six children and sixteen grandchildren. One son and two daughters, with her affectionate husband, survive her.

The funeral services were held in the Fourth ward meeting house, on Friday, Feb. 18, 1898, and were conducted by Bishop E. Stratford. Consoling remarks were made by Elders D. M. Stuart, C. F. Middleton, Joseph Parry, L. W. Shurtliff and Bishop Stratford, all speaking in an appreciative manner of her pure and useful life. They commended her noble qualities of head and heart, her steadfastness and integrity for the truth and the love of God and His cause, as examples worthy of emulation of all. JOSEPH HALL.
