ENDED YESTERDAY

Interesting Themes Discoursed by All of the Speakers.

THE LIST OF AUTHORITIES.

Interesting Sessions -- At Assembly Hall in the Morning - Too Many Night Meetings for the Good of Youth.

Sunday morning's session of conference was begun by the congregation and choir singing the hymn:

"Come, come ye Saints." Prayer was offered by Elder D. L.

Davis. Singing by the choir and congregation:

"Do what is right." ELDER SEYMOUR B. YOUNG.

speaker. He bore his testimony to the divinity of the work in which we are engaged and said that notwithstanding the effort the evil one had always made against the Latter-day Saints, the work of the Lord had made a wonderful progress from the very beginning up to the present time. "Seventy years ago," he said, "the testimony of one man was against the unbelief of the entire world, but through the manifestation of the power of God others were brought into the fold and they went forth bearing their testimony unto the world, and thus the work of the Lord began to grow and increase and it has continued to prosper, and the veil of darkness that has so long enveloped the minds of men is now being replaced by the day dawn of light and truth."

He dwelt at considerable length upon the history of the Church and the growth of the quorums of the Priestand stated that the divine will of the Father was shown in the perfect order and system that had always characterized the work of the Lord.

ELDER JOSEPH E. TAYLOR. Elder Joseph E. Taylor said he wished that the duties which called the young people from their homes in the evening so often could be so arranged as to be attended to in the daytime. He referred to the revolation given to the Prophet Joseph Smith requiring the Saints to retire to their beds early and to arise early, so that their bodies as well as their spirits might be refreshed, and regretted that there seemed to be a positive necessity to have so many meetings held at night. He felt that keeping people out so late especially the young was a growing evil among us, and while at present it seemed unavoidable, he hoped that all Israel would unite in seeking to overcome it. We should seek by every means in our power to preserve the youth of Zion in the enjoyment of health and vitality and to live up to the revelation of the Lord in this matter.

ELDER C. W. PENROSE

Elder C. W. Penrose spoke of the ack of attendance at our conference meetings on Saturday and said that there are circumstances rounding a great many which prevent attendance at all these meetings he felt that there were many who could attend the Sunday morning meetings who did not, and hoped that this class would take more interest in Stake conferences in the future than they had done in the past.

urged upon the Saints to attend to their duties in all respects. "We all form a part of the body of Christ and it is necessary that every part do its full duty. The body of Christ has a eautiful organization and is filled with the spirit which comes from God, but it is necessary that that spirit go to every particle so as to have every part in per-

"Bishops of wards and presidents of quorums should personally visit their members who are not living up to their duties and try and influence them to the Spirit of God and thus keep everything in perfect order as far as their ective wards and quorums are con-ed. He also showed the necessity of taking certificates of membership when Saints removed from one ward to another, and bore a strong testimony to the truth of the Gospel.'

ELDER ANGUS M. CANNON. President Angus M. Cannon spoke of the failure of Elders to unite themselves with their quorums. He was shocked as high as thirty Elders who were not enrolled with their quorums, and that young men who have raised their hands and made solemn covenants that they would attend to their duties, have falled to keep their word. President Cannon desired that when the Bishops of wards ecommended young men to be ordained Elders they watch them afterwards and ee that they do those things which they covenant to do.

The speaker also referred to the failure of Bishops on giving letters of removal to members of the Church to write upon their recommends the degree of Priesthood which they hold. It is the duty of every Latter-day Saint to be enrolled upon the record of the ward where he resides, even though he is to remain in the ward but a very short

The Bishops of wards and teachers under them should take up a labor with the Saints who are negligent in this manner and see that they have a standing in the Church. In closing President Cannon urged the people to live worthy of the testi-mony and the blood of our Prophet and Patriarch.

The choir sang the hymn:
"We are not ashamed to own our Lord."
Benediction by Patriarch John Smith.

Afternoon Session

The afternoon session in the Taberna cle was well attended, the gallaries hav-ing to be thrown open. For the first hymn the choir and congregation sang, "How firm a foundation." Prayer was offered gy Elder John

He said he realized the responsibility of his position, but he believed in the living God, for if he did not he would "Singhave shrank from the position, ing," said the speaker, "is quite a part of the worship of the Latter-day Saints, not only the music but the principles advocated in the songs." The speaker said he enjoyed the hymns of Watts and of the Wesleys as they seemed to suit the condition of the people monies that had been borne during the conference, to the effect that the dis-pensation of the fullness of times had peen ushered in, that God had sp from the heavens, that John the Baptist had appeared and restored the lesser Priesthood, and that Peter, James and John had come to restore the higher Priesthood. This is a church of revelation, the one thing that is in the Church of Christ that is in no other is the spirit of revelation. Knock and is shall be opened, ask and ye shall re-ceive. Christ said it was not His docbut the doctrine of Him who sent Him.

"To the law and to the testimony," continued the speaker; "search the Scripture. The Latter-day Saints were prepared to search the Bible and base the principles in which they be-lieve upon that book. The Latter-day Saints, however, are everywhere spoken evil against, it is an old weapon, and one of the testimonies that they are not of the world, for if they were of the world the world would love its own. The tares and the wheat, however, are growing up together, and the only way the Latter-day Saints can keep being overcome by the world intaining the fellowship of the Spirit keeping the commandments of God. I then their testimonies will remain with them, and they will be able to withstand all evil. The Latter-day Saints are the friends of the people of he earth, said the speaker, they do not offer them any beguiling doctrine, but they offer them the truth, they ask the world to be reconciled with God. Elder Teasdale urged the youth of Zion to be as faithful as their fathers had been and if they would do so they would receive a glorious inheritance PREST. GEORGE Q. CANNON, President George Q. Cannon was the succeeding speaker. It would natural-ly be thought, said he, that the recent division of the Stake would diminish the attendanct at the conference, but it did not seem to do so. We have reason to be thankful, said President Cannon, for what God is doing for us. We have a message to bear, God has given us this message. We cannot rest without declaring it, and woe be unto us if don't declare it. But wherever it taught it disturbs people, they do not want to be disturbed, and in some instances they are maddened and filled with the spirit of persecution. The Latter-day Saints are in a similar position to that occupied by the ancient Saints, who were charged with turning the world upside down. The Latter-day Saints don't turn the world upside down exactly, but their movements are watched, and the people of the world do a great deal of talking and wonder-ing what the "Mormons" will do next. But God has given the Latter-day Saints this message and it is wee unto Latter-day Saints it nonsensical idea to David McKenzie. president; William God the power and will to speak to men now, and that He cannot send some messenger to men on the earth. If we had no instance where He ever did this, it would be different. But we have the record of His doing this very frequently. The idea that the Latter-day Saints think they are the only people favored of God, said the speaker, is false. The Latter-day Saints were once of the world; they were once "Gen. tiles," and they have accepted the truth, so now it must go to others, and those who accept it will enjoy the same blessings. The Latter-day Saints are looked down upon by most people who think themselves disgraced if their relatives join the Mormon Church. What is the reason of all this? Simply that the Latter-day Saints believe that God has revealed Himself from the heavens in the present age. The very foundaday Saints is the fact that they claim that God has revealed Himself. It is precisely the same as it was in the Latter-day Saints. President Cannon was sorry to say that nearly all the persecutions against the Latter-day Saints had originated with men who professed to be ministers of the Lord Jesus Christ. "Will this continue? Will there be a cessation of hostilities? Let the Saints not deceive themselves, for it will continue as long as Satan is a power in the world

President Cannon said that he id not believe that a more onest, charitable and truth did loving people lived in the world than the Latter-day Saints, their history bears out this assertion, continued he, for they have exemplified in their career the pure principles of Jesus Christ, He could assert without the fear of successful contradiction that there no people who were taught as much or as often the profound and exalting truths the Savier taught to His disci-

President Cannon read from the 15th chapter of Paul's Epistle to the Corin-thians, whein Paul is reasoning on the subject of the resurrection of the dead. The passage emphasized by the speak-er was the following: "Else what shall they do which are haptized for the dead, if the dead rise not at all, why are they then baptized for the dead?" The speaker said he would like to ask the Christian world what that passage means. The reasoning was plain to the Corinthians, and it is plain to the Latter-day Saints. The speaker also read from the 3rd chapter of Peter's First Epistle, 18-20 verses; also the 4th chapter of the same epistle, 6th verse. commented on these passages, tablishing the fact that while Christ's body was lying in the tomb, His spirit was preaching the Gospel to the spirits in prison, whose bodies were destroyed by the deluge. The Lord, he said, has revealed the plan of salvation for the dead, but the world will not believe yet they cannot explain these passages. The speaker explained the doctrine of redemption for the dead, characterized It as a Godlike doctrine that appeals to the judgment and justice of men. The services were closed by the cholsinging the anthem: "Heavenly Father We'll Sing Try Praises," Solo and duet by Mrs. Lizzle Thomas-Edward and Miss Mabel Cooper. The benediction was pronounced by

The conference was adjourned for three months.

Saturday Afternoon.

After Elder John Henry Smith finshed speaking, as reported in the "News," President George Q. Cannon addressed the conference. He read addressed the conference. He read from the Doctrine and Covenants a revelation from the Lord in which the authorities of the Church and all the leading Elders were commanded to in order their own households. He then dwelt upon the necessity at the present time of following out the instructions contained in this revelation. proper," he said, "for us to attend to our own families and not spend our entire time on the care of others to the neglect of our own. It is a sad thing to see that the families of some of our most faithful men and women of the past are not among us today, and we should all take it to heart and give offspring our best care and attention so that we may not have the sorrow seeing them stray away from the paths of truth. President Cannon advised parents to inquire into the personal habits of their children, and said if some fathers would find out the ways and conversation of their boys' companions, even of their school associates, they would be aston-ished. He impressed upon all parents the duty devolving upon them concerning their offspring. Prof. J. H. Paul spoke briefly in report of the Latter-day Saints' College He stated that there was a good spirit attending the work in that institution at the present time, and the youth of Zion are receiving proper spiritual as well as temporal education. The present quarters of the college commodious as he should like. was not enough room to properly handle the classes and at the same time maintain order when the students moved from one class room to another and the speaker hoped that in the near future a place might be obtained large enough to accommodate the present
