

MARVIN HART MAY MEET JEFFRIES

His Manager William A. Pierce Sends a Challenge to Denver.

THE BIG FELLOW IS WILLING.

But Says He Would Like Hart to Meet Some Heavyweight on the Coast Before Signing for Match.

If there is ever another heavyweight championship fight in which James J. Jeffries, champion and actor, will be a principal, his next opponent will in all probability be Marvin Hart, the big, strong and clever Kentucky fighter.

Hart is willing to get a chance at Jeffries and he thinks he has made good enough showing to warrant a match with the champion. The latter concedes that Hart is a good man, probably the only available one in existence, but the only hitch is in the matter of dollars and cents.

That Hart and his manager, Bill Pierce, are sincere in their challenge, and that they are extremely anxious to get a crack at the big fellow, is made evident by the following received by Jeffries from Pierce while the champion was playing "Davy Crockett" in Denver:

"I have received no answer to the challenge recently issued by Marvin Hart to box any white man in the world, Jim Jeffries preferred.

"There can be no question relative to the sincerity of the Kentucky heavyweight. He journeyed to California at his own expense, and the one man whom he desires to meet in the championship has every qualification necessary for success in the ring—weights 230 pounds in condition, stands six feet high and weighs as much as a lion and has a knockout wallop in either hand.

Hart has been tried against the best men in America and he is looked upon as the only man capable of giving Jeffries a hard fight. He is willing to meet the champion, and if the big fellow is anxious to again risk his laurels, then he will find Hart not only willing but anxious to accept battle.

"WILLIAM A. PIERCE."

BIG RABBIT HUNT.

One is Now Being Arranged For New Year's Day at Nephi.

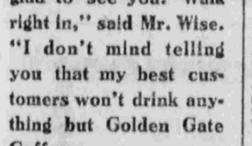

A big rabbit hunt is being arranged for the sportmen of Nephi, and it is quite probable that several crack shots from Salt Lake and Provo will take advantage of the invitation extended by Nephi citizens, and participate in the expected slaughter of the bunnies.

BOWLING CONTEST.

In a special contest that does not count as a league game, the Fugates beat the Nonpareils last evening, winning three straight games.

A WISE-GROCER

"Ah, Mr. Golden Gate, glad to see you. Walk right in," said Mr. Wise. "I don't mind telling you that my best customers won't drink anything but Golden Gate Coffee.

"And—now don't give this away—good coffee brings new, and holds old, trade. "Yes, you can make regular 30 day shipments so as to keep the coffee fresh. Good plan this packing roasted coffee in aroma-tight tins."

Nothing goes with GOLDEN GATE COFFEE but satisfaction. No prices—no coupons—no crackers. I send 2 lb. aroma-tight tins. Never sold in bulk.

ANAEMIA is thin blood. It causes pale faces, white lips, weak nerves and lack of vitality. A blood-enriching, fat-producing food-medicine is needed. Scott's Emulsion goes to the root of the trouble, strengthens and enriches the blood, and builds up the entire system. For anaemic girls, thin boys, and enfeebled mothers, it is the standard remedy. It builds up and strengthens the entire system with wonderful rapidity.

BILLIARD TOURNAMENT.

To Be Held at Chicago Next Month and Will Attract Experts.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—The national amateur billiard tournament to be held Jan. 30 under the auspices of the Chicago Athletic Club, promises to attract to this city many of the best known players of the country.

Regarding statements to the effect that discrimination had been shown against players from certain sections of the country, Louis M. Hamburger, chairman of the committee in charge of the tournament, denied emphatically today all such stories.

ON THE RACE TRACK.

Christmas Handicap Main Attraction at Oakland—Won by Claude.

San Francisco, Dec. 26.—The Christmas handicap was the attraction at Oakland today and the crowd was one of the largest of the season. Twenty-nine hicks were in operation. Some of the races had an open look; others looked like morales, and the holiday speculator invested his money in the most judicious manner.

ARRANGING FOR FIGHT.

Offer Made to Kid McCoy to Box Morgan Williams.

Victor, Colo., Dec. 26.—Negotiations have been started to arrange a match between Kid McCoy and Morgan Williams to be fought in this city at the Grand Opera House. McCoy has been made a good offer, and it is thought that possibly he may accept. McCoy was seen this morning in a boxing outfit on the Fourth of July six years ago, when he and several other boxers gave exhibitions in the open air while a big snow-storm was in progress.

Willie Lewis of New York Defeats Him in The Ninth Round.

Portland, Me., Dec. 26.—Willie Lewis of New York, defeated Martin Canole of Fall River in a boxing bout at a scheduled twelve-round bout at the Auditorium tonight.

LOVE'S SPEED.

Gabriel, the noted racing automobilist, was describing in New York the joy of speed.

"Whoever," he said, "has once driven a racing car is a devotee of racing thereafter. He finds that nothing in the world equals the mad, fierce delight of speeding along firm, white roads at the rate of 70 or 80 miles an hour.

"In Paris last year I met a young American millionaire who had just bought a six-horse power car. He and I went out into the country together to try this new car's paces. We had a superb time. The machine was a fine one. We flew so fast we left the birds behind.

"At the day's end we congratulated each other on the sport we had had. It was agreed between us that there was nothing on earth to equal motor-ing.

"Can you come out again tomorrow?" I said, eagerly. "Can you come out tomorrow and try my car?"

"Well," said the young man, slowly, "I was to be married tomorrow, but I can put it off."

THE BRIDEGROOM'S SONG.

I'm sick of the song of the bride and her groom; Just harken to me for awhile—I'm the groom. I know I've no rights in the case, but alas!

That's right—all I get in the case is a lass. I know I'm supposed to be silent and dumb. But, dash it! I'm bound to get reckless and speak.

They're busting about what the bride is to wear; They're worrying about how she'll do up her hair; They're quarreling over the bridal bouquet.

I listen in silence to all that they say. They treat me as though I was chained to my doom—Alack! What am I? I am only the groom.

Sing on of the beautiful bride and her bloom. But don't mention me—I am only the groom. Just say, "He was dressed in conventional black."

Then kindly forget me and hasten right back. To rave o'er the bride till you're black in the face—I'm only the groom, and I'm learning my place.

THE FAIR AMERICAN.

"I believe the real attraction of the American girl for Englishmen lies in her complete contrast to the women of their own country," writes an English-woman who seems to be jealous. "She can talk, she can amuse and she can stimulate his faded senses by picturesque slang and impudent raillery. She is free and easy, yet holds him in bounds should her by accident—inciting to confuse her with a less discreet personality. She can talk on anything and everything—and does. She knows all about sports and games. She can dance like a ballet girl and sing comic songs with any variety stage prima donna.

She is all energy and life. She has nerves of steel, yet a frame as fairylark as Titania's. Above all these charms, she has—dollars. * * * But there are not wanting critics keen as herself to point out that her cleverness is very superficial, that she possesses no universal knowledge due to memory, no research, her beauty as short lived as her youth and her conversational charm due to its novelty in forms of expression, slang and quaint phraseology. A day may come when we will also find that we could have done without the self-glorified importation of the American woman!"

OLD NEWSPAPERS.

The uses of old newspapers are manifold, as they should be a fully kept. Directly anything bolls over on the stove the cook should wipe it up with a pad of newspaper, for thus she will save herself much trouble in keeping the stove clean and nice. Newspaper is also excellent for window cleaning, producing a good polish.

WHEN BABY GOES OUT IN HIS GOCART.

It is a very difficult matter to keep the legs of a tiny child covered when it is out of doors, and it is more difficult even in a gocart than in the ordinary perambulator. Little legs kick off light rugs, and heavy ones are undesirable. The best plan is to make what is often called a "pram sack" to take the place of a rug. It can be made of a variety of materials and is a simple bag with a drawing string run into the hem at the top. The baby's legs are put into the bag, its clothes are comfortably smoothed down and then the ribbon string tied round his little waist. Then his legs are free to kick about, and yet all the time he is kept from cold.

THE CHINESE WAY.

When a Chinaman wants to have a tooth drawn he feels no nervous apprehension of pain for the excellent reason that he knows his dentist will not inflict any. The latter simply rubs a powder over the aching tooth. After about five minutes the patient sneezes, and the tooth falls out. Many attempts have been made by Europeans to obtain the recipe for this mysterious powder, but no one has yet succeeded.

Business that she has been discussing in the periodical of late, Miss Corelli said:

"A typically selfish modern man was a farmer who visited my Stratford dentist last week.

"This farmer, as soon as he entered the operating room, blurted out his business.

"A tooth to be pulled," he said, "and I will pay nothing extra for gas. Just yank it out, if it does hurt."

"The dentist smiled.

"You're pretty cool, sir," he said "Let me see the tooth, please."

"Oh, 'tain't me that's got the tooth-ache," said the farmer. "It's my wife. She'll be along in a minute."

A JAPANESE WIDOW'S HAIR.

When a Japanese woman becomes a widow it is customary for her to cut off a part of her hair and bury it in the coffin with the body of her husband, but as she may please herself about it this sacrifice is not often large enough to spell her pretty fortune, unless, indeed, she determines to wear forever the badge of widowhood and give her life in complete devotion to the memory of the departed, in which case she cuts it all off and thenceforth never permits it to grow. There are a great many women in Japan, and especially in the heart of the country, where foreign influence has never reached, who wear their hair bobbed like a small boy's, and oftentimes parted jauntily on the side; and by this sign one may be sure that they are widows, and that they hang many prayer-slips at the temple doors and give their passing days in patient sweet devotion to the family and the home wherein they are sure to be much loved.—Ladies' Weekly.

HOW THE JAPS CELEBRATE.

On the evening of Sept. 4 messengers went from house to house with their instructions. On the morning of the 15th the entire country broke out into a blaze of banners, flags, large and small. Here and there was an American or English flag, but the air was fairly alive with the Japanese red sun in a white field, or the war flag with its red rays streaming. The colors were only red and white, and the bunting, wound about poles everywhere, was set off by the green of the immense arches. Innumerable lanterns lined the street and hung from tall poles in long festoons. No wonder that the price of lanterns went up from 2 1/2 cents to 25 cents, and that finally none were to be had. All through the next day the people were busily engaged in completing their preparations for even a grand display in the evening. Transparencies were prepared displaying notions of congratulation, or scenes from the war or humorous pictures of falling bears and eagles, on their backs, tumbling through space with wings outspread and claws clutching at the air. And when the night came the panorama baffles description. In the light of the paper lanterns everywhere one saw the red sun in its white field on flags and banners and bunting and transparencies. And then the processions! Those who have seen a torch light procession in America, with the air filled with smoke of the torches and the grimy tin lamps dripping their oil over their bearers, know nothing of an oriental procession with its thousands of pretty lanterns of all shapes and sizes, borne aloft upon bamboo sticks, each lantern decorated with the Japanese flags or some fanciful design—a veritable river of fire growing and rippling till lost in the distance.—The World Today, for December.
