Terry McGovern Secures Decision Over Jimmy Briggs at Boston.

LOOKED BAD FOR "TERRIBLE"

In the Early Part of the Fight But He Recovered and Delivered The Goods.

Boston, Oct. 20.-Terry McGovern, former featherweight champion of world, was given the decision over Jimmy Briggs of Chelsea tonight after a hard 15-round battle before the Criterion Athletic club. For 10 rounds the ex-champion seemed to have lost his old-time cunning seemed to have lost his old-time cunning and even a favorable decision for him seemed doubtful. Toward the end, however, superior ring generalship told the story, and he had the Chelsea boy completely at his mercy.

During the last four rounds McGovern administered terrific punishment, but he was unable to land a decisive blow, and as the final bell found both men on their feet a decision was given on points. At the start McGovern invited in-fighting, rushing into clinches whenever possible, but he fared badly at this game and received a severe pummeling during the early part of the battle. Briggs was at his best at this style of fighting and rained blow after blow on McGovern's wind and neck in every clinch. In the breakaway also McGovern seemed weak and well directed blows in the fourth and ninth rounds sent him to the floor.

At the end of the teath, when it seemed that the ex-champion had an almost insurmounable handicap to overcome, he adopted an open style of fighting and had everything his own way until the end.

"I knew this Downey was an easy mark," said Bishop, "but I can't see where I am to blame for picking up a little easy money, Herrera did his best and no one could accuse us of faking. Mulvey made the match and it was his business to see that it was a good one, Herrera fought on the square, and if it was a poor match the cleic manager had only himself to blame."

Wee Will Hoffer Here.

"Wee Wille Hoffer," otherwise known as "Bill," well known to Salt Lake fans, and now a citizen of Logan, came down for a brief visit yesterday. "Bill" said that Loganites were all swelled up over the result of the football game there Saturday when the "Aggles" walloped the champs by a score of 17 to 0. He said the result was as much a surprise to Logan people as it was to the 'Varsity boys.

GAME CALLED OFF.

All Hallows Will Not Play Collegiates But Will Meet Soldiers.

The proposed football game between All Hallows college football team and the Collegiate Institute eleven, which was billed for Saturday afternoon, has been called off for the time being, and the college boys will take on the soldiers team of Fort Douglas instead. The reason the game was called off is that several of the Collegiate players are not in proper shape for the strenuous work required of the gridiron.

Oldfield May Not Race.

If Barney Oldfield decides a stop off in Sait Lake on his trip to the coast, the probabilities are that he will no give an exhibition with his famous racing car unless he concludes to do so just for the fun of the thing. The Utah Automobile club decided last night that it would not be wise to make an offer of a certain amount for an exhibition. The reason given for this action is that the weather cannot be depended upon. But if Barney cares to give an exhibition, the weather permitting, a program of auto-races may be arranged for.

WILLARD BEAN IS COMING BACK.

Salt Lake Athlete Has Been Engaged by the L. D. S. University.

AS MEN'S PHYSICAL DIRECTOR.

Will Return from California to Take Charge of Gymnasium and Field Sports.

Willard Bean, the well-known athlete from Utah, is about to return to this state, in order to take charge of the athletic practise and games at the Latter-day Saints' university of this

Mr. Bean has been engaged as physical director for men. He will also have direct charge of the track team, and oversight of all athletic games, practises, and contests.

The former Utan athiete has been in Catifornia for some time past, where, at Arcata, he has been conducting a school of physical culture. He will be here as soon as he can close up his business affairs in that city, and is expected to be at the university before ected to be at the university before many days.

The matter of Mr. Bean's engage The matter of Mr. Bean's engagement has been pending for some time before the faculty, who, in committee of the whole, considered the advisability of recommending to the board of trustees that the position of physical director be offered to him. There were numerous other applicants for the place, including the director of a large physical culture establishment in this place, including the director of a large physical culture establishment in this city. The question was raised con-cerning Mr. Bean, whether the fact that He had engaged in public boxing exhibitions and contests in the past should debar him from being offered a place on the faculty as physical train-er for men, and after a prolonged diser for men: and after a prolonged dis-cussion it was decided that nothing in Mr. Bean's past record constituted any real bar to his employment by the uni-versity.

Mr. Bean has been distinguished in the past as much by his clean record as a gentleman in all his private work and public exhibitions as an exponent of the manly art of self-defense, as by his devotion to the cause of physical training. He occupies a unique position among athletic sportsmen, because of his firm stand in religious matters. is not only a trained boxer, but a first-class preacher; he is fond of religious meetings and is addicted to missionary labor. He is, in fact, an exponent of the strenuous life in mat-labor. He is, in fact, an exponent of the strenuous life in matters of religion as in anything else, and is a good type of that "muscular Christianity," which many people extol. It is understood, however, that Mr. Bean discontinues all exhibitions and kinds of training that are not approved by the trustees of the university, upon taking this position on the teaching force of the institution.

Willard Bean is well known in Utah and has hosts of friends in this part of the country. He was born in the year 1869 in Richfield, Utah, and has spent the greater portion of his life in this state. He spent two years in the Sevier Stake academy and over two years on a mission to the Southern states. In 1894-5, he attended the B. Y. academy, where he became known as an athlete. He graduated from the Eclectic School of Physical Culture in San Francisco, and afterwards became an instructor there. Though he has always had a strong liking for athletic training in all its lines, he has always consistently lived up to them. His work in the L. D. S. U. will comprise military calisthenics and tactics, apparatus work, vaulting, ladder, dumbbells, clubs, tumbling and outdoor games.

A WISE UMPIRE.

Admiral Schley is a frequent guest in Philadelphia of the noted editor, Col. A. K. McClure. The striking figures of these two, tall, erect old men are often to be seen on Chestnut street. A Philadelphia reporter one day interviewed the admiral at Col. McClure's Spruce street house. He tried to get the famous sailor to talk about the ingratitude that the best of governments will sometimes show. But Admiral Schley would not talk about that subject. He told a story, though, that the reporter enjoyed.

"A man," he said, "went into a'cook shop and ordered a meal. Then he waited for it to be served. A long while he waited—half an frour at least—but not so much as a slice of bread was brought to him. Finally the meal came, but the man refused to take it.

"I have waited so long in here,' he said, 'and the air here is so thick and heavy with food odors that I have lost my appetite. The fat and grease in the atmosphere must have penetrated my pores; nourishing me, as it were, by be made. They argued. Finally they agreed on, as umpire, an old man, and agreed on, as umpire, an old man, and the umpire, after hearing the case, said:

"The one who ordered the meal must take the money that it cost, and he must put this money between two plates. Then he must jingle the coin between the plates. The jingle will be the cook's payment, and with it he must be satisfied; for the smell of the food satisfied the guest, and therefore the sound of the money must satisfy the cook."

AN APPRECIATIVE REVIEW.

We Met," the other day. Thinking it was up to him to say something about it, he wrote: "As the editor of the paper doesn't know a demi-semiquaver from a diapason, or a bass clef from a bone tumor, he will not be expected to give an extended notice of the production. We can say, however, that the type used in printing the song was clear and plain, and the paper seems to be of the best quality of rag. The design on the front page is artistic, and the words are as tender as a year the words are as tender as a veat steak, and as poetic as a song of a meadow lark on a May morning. The melody is sound and all right, with no wind galls or collar marks. The harmony seems to be in a health condi-tion, with no patent defects or notice-able blemishes. The tonality is clear and resonant and rests on harmonic relations and melodic elements. We will sing the song to any subscriber of the Star-Sentinel who will pay his subscription three years in advance, throwing into it all the tender pathos and unctuous emation of our cabbage-flavored soul."-Kansas City Star.

DRINKING AND SMOKING.

"The prevalent idea that drinking and smoking are companion vices is altogether wrong," said a physician, who has made a special study of dipsomania. "I find, on the contrary, that the habitual drunkard is not abnormally addicted to the use of tobacco. He may use the weed as a lesser stimulant when not strongly under the influence of alcohol, but when the drink gets firmly intrenched in his system he cares nothing for tobacco, for then it has lost its force and its influence upon his nerves. Of course, I mean in extreme cases.

"On the other hand, it is a rather curjous fact that in the case of the moderate drinker, who also smokes, the cutting off of his supply of tobacco will increase his appetite for alcoholic beverages, and while at first the liquor will not affect him nearly so much as when he is smoking, in the end it will do him up. Consequently, it is safe to assume that the man who always used ilquor and tobacco in moderation will, if he gives up tobacco, take more strongly to liquor. In fact, this is no assumption: it has been demonstrated on numerous occassions."—Philadelphia Record.
