

gave him until next Wednesday, July 7, to plead. The bonds were placed at two thousand dollars. His sureties were Hon. D. H. Peery and H. S. Young, Esq. You will remember that Brother Brown is but recently home from the pen, where he has already served six months on a similar charge. Doubtless he is one of the persons against whom the grand jury presented indictments at an earlier stage of the court proceedings this afternoon. The dates of the offenses charged are: First, between the 1st and 10th of May; second, between the 11th and 20th of May; third, between the 21st and 30th of May; fourth, between the 31st of May and 9th of June, all during the year 1886. The will, as you will see, grinds, not slowly, but swiftly, and as crushingly as the crusaders can make it.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

When the names of the grand jury were called in court this morning, among the three absentees was John Miller, of Plain City. He came to Ogden early this morning and proceeded to the establishment of H. M. Bond & Company, on Fourth Street, with Mr. Dix, to unload some produce. Mr. Miller held the lines and took charge of the team while Mr. Dix unloaded the garden stuff. The vehicle was a covered wagon. The cover was loose and was flapped about by the wind and struck against the sides of the wagon. At this the horses became startled, but by speaking to them kindly Mr. Miller quieted them for some time. Subsequently Mr. Dix jumped from the platform, to fasten the cover, when the off horse was frightened. The team started to run, and jerked Mr. Miller down between the platform and the horse. He was thrown to the ground; his head and face were badly bruised; one wheel ran over his left breast and shoulder, crushing them severely. Dr. John Driver was called in, and dressed the wounds, but thought that no bones were broken, although his patient suffered very acutely. He was placed in a carriage and taken to his home by Rev. Mr. J. Unsworth, pastor of the Episcopal Church in this city. About 9 o'clock this morning one of the prisoners who was working on the street, made

He darted off to the west, and was followed by an officer, who pursued him until he reached the railroad depot, when the runaway dashed through the ticket office and waiting room and was soon lost to sight, although to memory I think he will not be very dear. It is thought he made his way to the brush in the river bottoms, where he will conceal himself until nightfall, when possibly he will make good his escape. WEBER.

FROM SATURDAY'S DAILY, JUNE 26

Escaped.—At 9:20 this morning a prisoner at Fort Douglas escaped by running away from the sentry who was guarding him. Eckdorph, the prisoner, was under sentence for theft. He is about 25 years old, 5 feet 8 inches high, has brown hair and blue eyes, and weighs about 160 pounds.

The July "Contributor."—The Contributor for the current month has come to hand. The following table of contents shows that the number is an excellent one: The Missouri Persecutions, B. H. Roberts; Edinburgh, Graphite; The Whole World at War, Publius; Jerusalem Once and Now, Julius Debricke; Logan Temple Lecture, History of the Holy Scriptures, James A. Leishman; Editorial: A Tour of Palestine; Comments of the Day, Joseph F. Smith; Publication Received; Life's Answer, Ruby Lamont.

Working at It.—Mr. George M. Ottinger, superintendent of water-works, is in communication with firms in the East in relation to the pipes needed for the "bench" system, and negotiations will soon be consummated. Work will shortly be begun, and the water be conveyed to the high lands of the city not later than the approaching fall. We can assure that portion of the public directly interested, that Mr. Ottinger is deeply interested and in real earnest, but there is a certain amount of negotiation and preparation required that cannot be dispensed with. The Mayor and others of the City Fathers are embued with the same disposition.

Rehearing Denied.—In the application made on behalf of the Territorial Treasurer and Auditor, James Jack and Nephi W. Clayton, for a rehearing of the case before the Supreme Court, the following decision was rendered this afternoon:

In the Supreme Court, Utah Territory. The People ex rel. W. H. Dickson, etc., vs.

Nephi W. Clayton and James Jack.

OPINION OF THE COURT:

Powers, J. The defendants in the above cases petition for rehearings. Nothing is suggested in the petitions but what was fully considered on the argument. We have time and again decided that such petitions show no ground for the allowance of rehearings. The petitions of the defendants are therefore denied.

The Lake Point Row.—Yesterday afternoon a number of hoodlums, chief among them being "Jack" Powell, "Tom" Condie and "Billy" Counsel, engaged in a protracted fight at Lake

Point, greatly to the annoyance of those in attendance there for pleasure. The parties were the worse for liquor, and the row originated over a dispute about a foot race, on which Powell and Counsel had been betting. Blows were freely exchanged and the most shocking language used. It was with considerable difficulty that the combatants were separated.

In justice to the Sixth Ward Sunday School, who were on a visit to Lake Point, it should be stated that the parties named have no connection whatever with the organization, the members of which, with their friends, conducted themselves in a becoming manner. Nor can the hoodlums be classed as "Mormons," as they hold no membership in the Church. They are of that class who have adopted the "struggling upward" tendency advocated by the chief anti-"Mormon" organ.

As the disgraceful occurrence took place in Tooele County, the local peace officers here have no jurisdiction in the premises.

PRIESTHOOD MEETING.

The regular monthly meeting of the Priesthood of the Salt Lake Stake of Zion convened in the Assembly Hall to-day at 11 a. m. All the wards of the Stake were properly represented excepting the Union Ward. There was a large attendance of the Priesthood. The usual business of the meeting being dispatched, remarks were made by Apostle H. J. Grant and others.

The first speaker dwelt upon the importance of obedience and rectitude among the people and Priesthood of God; upon consistency of belief and practise. Example was a loud preacher, and the young could not be reformed until those who are older, whom they take as their exemplars, have been formed. Fathers and mothers must practise what they preach to their children and watch over them continually and keep them virtuous and pure. He did not wish to be uncharitable, but he did wish to see Zion purified and freed from trouble and persecution which would not be until her children learned obedience. We had been commanded to set our houses in order and cleanse out iniquity from the Church, but to-day there were men walking our streets as latter-day Saints who were a disgrace to the calling. Those who knew of the existence of wickedness in the Church and did not take steps to eradicate it, if such was their duty, would partake of responsibility with the wrong-doer.

The subject of placing correct information before strangers who visit us, instead of leaving them to be stuffed with falsehood and slanders by our enemies who live in our midst and make their living by abusing and maligning us, was also touched upon, as well as the importance of sustaining home industries and patronizing those who are the friends and not enemies to the people and their prosperity. The leaders of the Church must have the confidence of the people, and disunion should not prevail. The Saints must learn to love God and His kingdom better than they do dollars and cents, or they will go back into the world from whence they came.

Other speakers dwelt upon kindred topics. The excess of gaiety and frivolity among the young was strongly deprecated; lake excursions with fighting and drunkenness were referred to, and the inconsistency of rejoicing and making merry in times like these, when many are suffering from persecution and are imprisoned or in exile. The Saints should rather humble themselves in sackcloth and ashes at such times. Until this people gave their hearts to God and purified themselves and kept His commandments, these persecutions would not cease. It was in the power of every man, woman and child to do something towards purifying Zion and delivering her from bondage, and those who poured money into the laps of her enemies were forging fetters for themselves and their friends. Class distinctions and classiness were also deprecated, and union and equality enjoined upon the people. Adjourned until the first Saturday in August.

ARREST AT TOOELE.

JOHN W. TATE HEED TO ANSWER ON A CHARGE OF UNLAWFUL COHABITATION.

Yesterday morning Deputy Marshal Vandercook went out to the Lake, where he remained several hours, and then continued his journey to Tooele city. About half-past eight last evening, in company with Deputy Scott, he called on Mr. John W. Tate, Sen., of Tooele, and served a warrant of arrest on that gentleman. The accused, with a number of witnesses, was brought in this morning, and taken before Commissioner McKay.

The complaint, to which Mr. Tate entered a plea of not guilty, alleges that the defendant lived with his wives, Ann Tate and Emily Green Tate, contrary to the provisions of the Edmunds law.

Two witnesses from the Nineteenth Ward, Mrs. Greenwall and daughter, were subpoenaed, but at the examination it was developed that they were not even acquainted with the defendant.

Mrs. Ann Tate was called as a witness and testified—I live in Tooele; the defendant is my husband; I know Emily Green; she used to live in Tooele, about a block and a half from where I live; she had been living there about five years; when I first met her she lived in Salt Lake City; about a year and a half ago she went away, and I have not heard from her since; she had no children; she stayed at my house when she first came to Tooele; my husband lived in the same house; we all lived together; I do not know that he lived with Emily; she was recognized as his plural wife; after she moved from my house the defendant lived with her part of the time, up to when she went away.

Cross-examined by Mr. Young—Emily Green left Tooele about February, 1885; my husband lived with her before then, and with me ever since. Joseph Tate testified—The defendant is my father; I do not live with him; I have seen Emily Green; she is perhaps 25 or 30 years of age; she never lived in my house; she has lived at my father's; that was about three years ago; she then went to another house belonging to my father; my father lived with my mother so far as I know; I took no particular notice of his actions; I last heard of Emily Green about 18 months ago; I do not know where she went to, or why she went away; she was reputed to be my father's wife.

Mrs. Fanny Tate was called—I am the defendant's daughter-in-law; my husband's name is Charles; I have seen Emily Green, but have no acquaintance with her; I do not know what her relation to the defendant is; I do not know where the defendant lived; I have seen him at his house; I do not know of Emily Green having any children.

The Commissioner held Mr. Tate in $1,000 bonds to await the action of the grand jury.

Mrs. Ann Tate, Mrs. Fanny Tate and Joseph Tate were each held in $200 bail to appear before the grand jury on August 6th.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE

OF THE Y. L. M. I. A.—THE ASSOCIATION IN A FLOURISHING CONDITION.

The Quarterly Conference of the Y. L. M. I. A. of the Salt Lake Stake was held Friday, July 2d, in the 14th Ward Assembly Rooms under the direction of Stake President Mary A. Freeze. During the forenoon session the reports of the different associations of the Stake were given. These reports were of an encouraging nature and showed the associations to be in a better condition than ever before. Nearly every city ward was represented and many more county wards than usual.

At the afternoon session there were more of the young ladies of the Stake present than have ever attended a previous conference. All were deeply interested in the excellent instructions of the speakers, who were Sisters E. S. Taylor, Maggie Y. Taylor, Mary A. Freeze, Matilda Y. Dougall, Nellie Colbrook, Ellis R. Shipp and Elder McKay. These speakers referred to the subject of health and gave good practical advice to the young, to aid them in the preservation of their bodies. They urged the young ladies to attend their last meetings, keep the Sabbath day holy, associate only with the people of God, and in short, to live the lives of Saints.

The meetings were interesting and instructive, and it is only to be regretted that every young lady of the Stake was not present.

Says the New York World: Introducing food into the stomach horizontally has not until recently been thought feasible. The experiment to that end became necessary the other day in the case of a woman in Buffalo whose esophagus had become fully blocked by a tumor. A new street, so to speak, was opened up to her stomach from the outside just under the cartilages and the wants of nature are now supplied regularly by this means with good results. The main objection to this plan is that though it provides the human engine with fuel it fails to gratify the palate, and thus lacks the power to give the pleasurable sensations commonly connected with the absorption of food. On this account it is not likely to be popular, and will only be resorted to when strictly necessary.

According to an exchange a farmer near Cheyenne met with a terrible experience. He had just bought a new sulky plow. His little girl came to the field to bring his dinner and he took her in the seat with him to ride around the field. It didn't work right and presently he threw the share out of the furrow, stopped and asked the little girl to get down and see if anything was broken. She stooped down in front of the plow point and just then the horses became frightened and impaled her on the sharp plow-point. The frantic father tried in vain to stop the horses and the child was killed and frightfully mangled. The horses kept on madly and presently dashed over a steep precipice and were instantly killed. The farmer was crushed to death.
