NEWS OF THE DAY.

There is no fear of Indian troubles in the West, as the explanatory account elsewhere.

Cardinal Manning of London, is seriously ill with nervous prostration.

The British question was extensively discussed at the British House of Commons on the evening of the 19th inst.

The telegraph wires east are reported all right this afternoon, but few telegrams had been received up to going to press. It is not expected that railroad cars will get over the break on the U. P. R. yet for ten days, as passengers, mails and other matter will be transferred by teams.

Life saving stations are to be erected this summer at various points on the coast in Florida, California, Oregon, and on Lakes Michigan, Superior, Huron, Erie and Ontario.

More raids are being made in Texas by Mexican robbers.

Another political crisis is imminent in Louisiana.

Over $2,000,000 damage in South Carolina, and immense crops in tobacco and fruit injury in Alabama and Virginia.

The Prussian Diet has passed the bill abrogating the clauses of the constitution which allow the independent jurisdiction of the religious societies with their superiors, and the freedom of clerical appointments.

A Chicago dispatch says that remarkably cold weather still prevails in the West, and there are reports of injury to fruit and winter wheat.

Hundred thousand dollars damage by fire at Elizabeth, N. J., this morning.

Bank examiners are to inspect all checks and vouchers requiring a two cent stamp, to be sent to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

The State Auditor of Louisiana is to be impeached for malfeasance in office.

The Beretta is to be conferred upon Cardinal McClosky on Tuesday next.

HINDOSTAN.

As a portion of the great Eastern Question, the condition of Hindostan and the British rule there is highly important. This whole Oriental question comes up periodically for discussion by the press when news of exciting topics grow scarce. One Mr. Robert H. Elliot has recently renewed the interest and controversy regarding the East Indian portion of the problem, by the publication of a pamphlet, in which he maintains a rather unorthodox position. He presents the Indian difficulties under eleven heads, as follows:

1. The British colonial policy, which has robbed India of her native manufactures, and compelled her to rely for support entirely on the soil.

2. Poverty of the country.

3. Financial mismanagement.

4. Russian proximity and intrigues.

5. Difficulty of recruiting the Indian regiments, while wages in England are high, and emigration to America, easy.

6. A native population increasing beyond the means of the soil to support them.

7. Danger from the spirit of inquiry and skepticism with which the native leaders have been imbued.

8. The financial existence of the British Empire depends on the fortunes of India, and that we are still able to force opinion on the Chinese.

9. Exploitation of the soil by neglect to manure, and by undue encroachments on the pasture lands.

10. Increasing difficulty of relieving famines that must, from the nature of things, increase in frequency.

11. Childish condition of the people, brought about by over-paternal government.

These constitute a rather formidable list of difficulties, but to them Mr. Elliot adds a few more, thus:

"We have stopped Suttee, legalized the remarriage of widows, forbidden child marriages, stopped human sacrifices, forbidden religious suicides, put an end to the Thugees, fallen with extraordinary vigor on tigers, wolves, panthers and even snakes."

In consequence of all these provisions in behalf of human life, Mr. Elliot contends that a great increase of population has come about in India, so that it amounts to-day $30,000,000 of inhabitants, increasing at the rate of one per cent per annum, and threatens to amount to 500,000,000 in seventy years more.

Mr. Elliot says that the natives are tillers of the soil, that all the cultivated portions of the same are occupied, that each person is reduced to the lowest limit of support, and that periodical famines cannot be averted.

Then comes the great question of M. E.'s pamphlet—what shall be done as the inhabitants increase? This momentous problem he does not solve. He rather claims that nothing can be done, but that things must have their course, resulting in a burst up, a violent change, a revolution, a social cataclysm, a social and political deluge. He thinks that the holders of $25,000,000 of Indian securities should sell out. Can you advise, for where are the buyers of so much questionable stock to come from, and what inducement have they to become purchasers of and investors in such questionable property? There are not many people anxious to purchase an interest in a volcano.

On the other hand, those who do not accept Mr. E.'s rather alarming views, assert that his startling statements are unsupported by proof, that there are no means of determining that the population increases, and therefore that Mr. E.'s argument is substantially baseless, that it is begging the point, and that his conclusions consequently are untrustworthy and cannot be received.
