EVENING NEWS.

Monday, December 31, 1877.

BY TELEGRAPH.

THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH LINE.
EASTERN.

Philadelphia, 29.—Judge Pierce, to-day, gave a decision in the case of Brown, a negro laborer who, on Thanksgiving night, while intoxicated, shot and seriously injured a son of Hon. Wm. D. Kelly, Brown, on his trial, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to two and a half year's imprisonment, and one year's imprisonment after the expiration of his sentence under the condition that he should keep the peace for one year after the expiration of the sentence, for carrying concealed deadly weapons.

San Francisco, 29.—Jacob Harris was hanged, to-day, for the murder of Jack White, on July 15th, 1865, by twice shooting him and decapitating his body after death. Harris was 53 years old and served in the Federal army and Mexican war.

Pittsburgh, 29.—Wilhelm Hesse and John Leffer were killed, today, at a coal mine in the mines, today, the former at Mahoning and the latter at Brookside colliery.

Washington, 29.—The Workingmen's Congress, in open session today, elected McGraw, for joining the republican party, and censuring President Strasser of the International Cigar Makers' Union, for suppressing the dispatch, sympathizing with the New York cigar-makers' strike. The name of the organization was changed to the Socialist Labor Party. The platform adopted declares the workmen's party necessary, because the other parties offer no relief, recommend the formation of trade unions and labor organizations throughout the country, and favor the repealing of all laws against labor organizations, conspiracies and strikes. A resolution was adopted asking importation of Coolie laborers.

Washington, 29.—The accuracy of our Washington correspondence relative to the Mexican relations is fully vindicated by the significant utterances at the recent dinner of the New England Society, and by the just published diplomatic correspondence.

Clear from these there was war with Mexico is contemplated, and that the recognition of the Diaz government is intended to be postponed until it shall manifest its own conviction of its ability to fulfill Mexico's international obligations, by entering into specific treaty relations providing for the same.

The New Tariff Bill.
Nothing more definite is yet known regarding the shape in which the new tariff bill will be reported.
Rolling in Congress by different propositions, rather than variably leads to the utter destruction of the method and system of any tariff measure reported. It is suggested in order to avoid this cause of the country and indecision in tariff legislation, when completed, leading to interminable misconstruction and litigation, that the House rules should be amended so as to require the acceptance or rejection of the bill reported by the committee as a whole. In such cases, if the House disapproved the bill in whole or part, it could refer back to the committee for revision in such form as to meet the views of the majority and in such time as to secure its consideration.
It is doubtful whether this reform can be immediately effected, but it is worth agitating.

Arrival of a "Mollie Maguire."
WILKESBARR, 29.—Thomas Dunlin has been arrested, charged with being one of the "Mollie Maguire" who murdered Supt. Smith, at Jeannville, in 1863.

FOREIGN.
GREAT BRITAIN.

The West India and East India Company, in a struggle with the Government of India and England.

LONDON, 29.—Give no credence to the rumors of early peace on any terms short of the extinction of the Ottoman power. The British government is determined to continue abundant that Russia intends to gain this point even at the risk of war with England herself.

That the meaning of the Car's call for another quarter of a million of men, if Derby, in his attempt at mediation is able to offer such terms, Russia may possibly yield his purpose to negotiate directly with Turkey or not at all, but the organizing by the Car of an army of the Baltic indicates his intention to be ready to bring the coast in the event of a war with England. This is significant evidence of his intention to meet the possible contingency he anticipates and of his ultimate purpose of conquering Meantime, private information is that factive operations are to be pressed as rapidly as the weather permits, and that the new campaign, but a prolongation of the present until Turkey falls irre-trievably.

The British leading statesman says:
The announcement that the Sultan has invited Her Majesty's government to approach the Car with a view to bringing about negotiations for peace will tend to calm some fears which have been exciting the country, and to hold out the hope that the dreadful war may be brought to a close more quickly than by the shock of battle. The Sultan has taken the only course consistent with a calm review of what the war has already done and what it must do if it should last much longer. His circular to the powers showed that the peace policy he had adopted was a line got the upper hand. It proposed terms which would no doubt have been admissible even before the war, and which would have been admission after the terrible battles of the last six months; but the port did not intend the circular to be taken at the word. Now that all the Powers have consented to the line of policy to approach Russia with impossible conditions, the Sultan has wisely advised his country to use its good offices to bring about negotiations for peace. It is important that government should conduct the negotiations in a spirit absolutely free from partisanship.
We are not parties to the present contest. As mediators our essential duty is to convey a message from one power with which we have no quarrel to another power with which we have no quarrel. We have doubtless great interests at stake, political as well as commercial, and they will be urged at the proper moment; but meanwhile, it is our duty to act as a friendly intermediary and not as rulers of the Indian Empire. We take side with one of two parties which we must bring into contact which would simply be to make our mission useless and destroy the prospect of peace. Our government will have to ascertain whether Russia is willing to open negotiations, and what are her conditions of peace. It will then have to offer Turkey such advice as may seem proper, and present her answer. It may have to reason in an earnest split with both belligerents, in order to secure common ground; it may be obliged to urge the Porte on the one hand, and Russia on the other, to make concessions which mand such terms as would lead the Turks to desperate courses and thus multiply the perils of Europe.

While the mediator may seem to act as an advocate now of one power and now of another, argument must be dictated to both purely by spirit of conciliation.
No doubt government would have to consider the interests of England, but the presentation of them would come in good time, and there is not the slightest reason to fear that they will be neglected.

The Daily News says: The Ottoman government declares that its desire for negotiations for peace may be brought about on the present basis of facts, and as its primary object is to secure the peace the public will wish it success in its new policy. It cannot be necessary to point out that, even upon the lower limit of interpretation of the office it has assumed, the Queen's government has assumed a task of great delicacy. The present crisis is primarily one of Russia and Turkey, but the Eastern question is one which must be considered by Europe. By its present action, our government has taken the character of mediator, and not of one unfortunate belligerent, while acting also officially for Europe, but it has to harmonize the new character with the considerations which it has repeatedly made and with the whole course of conduct of which the least that can be said is that it has now prepared the world for the part it has undertaken to play. On Her Majesty's ministers, very much depends whether the Eastern question shall be now settled, at least for many years to come, or this war be followed by more true, the prelude to a war far greater and more dangerous than that of which we are now spectators. We are bound to hope they will prove equal to their responsibilities.

The Grasshopper is a Burden.
The grasshopper is a plump bug.
He is likewise a nuisance. He is green for color, and has several legs, or more, I disremember which. They can fly, walk, wall, sit still, or run, and are born of eggs, a dozen from each egg, probably. They are an inch and a quarter in length, and are every green thing on the earth.
They are laid, hatched out, and grow manhood, and die off in 75 days, this is actual business, and shows enterprise, in a lofty degree. What they say I do not know, but they do not seem to be very wise reason-ers, but the evil they can commit, is sometimes equal to a famine. I have seen every green thing on the earth, or of the earth, for 50 miles in diameter, set up by them, and millions of them besides starting to death. I have seen the air filled with them like a shower of sand, and nothing but stone fences, and McAdam roads proof against their appetites.
They set up by grasshoppers, to be consumed by me, and nothing but the three debts that I have owed against. But as much as I fear the bug, I fear the grasshopper, a half mile square or there, all alone, in the month of August, or I had rather cross the Newark marshes bimoontide, in July, with muskets, than to be in their company, or to even fondle the sportive meadow to have a newspaper critic, who saw a grasshopper, a week, glister in—Josh Billings: Allingham.
