WASHINGTON, D. C., Мау 9, 1882. The reception of the news, on Sunday morning, of the assassina-tion of Lord Frederick Cavendish, the new Chief Secretary for Ireland, and Under Secretary Mr. Thomas Henry Burke, was received in Washington with a shock almost equal to that experienced on the 22nd of July last, when Guiteau shot President James A. Garfield in the ladies' waiting room of the Baltinouncing the atroclous crime which had just been committed in Phoenix Park, Dublin, an inexpressable feelark, Dubin, ig of horror took possession.

In one of the bloody deed, there was a general feeling that the report was too feeling that the report of the said commission, in the prosecution of the commission shall make to the results of its indicated by the represented had been in the employ of the Utah deem advisable.

See, 4 That the commission shall make to see the feeling that the report of the results of its indicated bimself in an honest and industrious manner. That a short industrious manner. What a contrast. "Jumbo" is some 12 feet in height, and awk ward in proportion. The "baby" is about two feet in height, and 'playful as a kitten. The "show" financially must have been a great success to Barnum. Four performances were given in this city and it is estimated that 50,000 people pail for admission. If ever this circus reaches Salt Lake it will cause a sensation of the background of the design which appears in raised figures—is satin. The figure is a combination of the patterns of Trefalle and Irish lace, very beautiful and effective. The piece is twenty-two yards long, and, being nearly yard-wide, is enough to make two dresses for such a little lady as Mrs. Garfield. This item will doubtless be interesting to the ladies, more especially those connected with the Utah Silk Association, who in turn may yet be able to boa t of having produced a silk dress of equal value. Salt Late it will cause a sensation and will probably relieve the town of $15,000 of its cash; but the exhibition is a great one.

What in the world have the "Mormons" done to the great apostle of the sunflower? On his return to New York from the West he had, of course, to be interviewed by one or two representatives of the New York dailies; and it was only natural to expect that one so ardently fond of the beautiful would speak in glowing terms of what he had seen and experienced upon his extended western tour. This he undoubtedly did. He spoke glowingly of San Francisco. He had arrived of San Francisce. He had arrived there in the spring. He had been looking for something "green," and at last he had found it. The delight of his soul knew no bounds. Oh! dear, how "utterly to utter" must have been this man's feelings. "The peach-types," discoursed Oscar to the interviewer of the World, "were in bloom in the sight of the sight of the sight of his bounds. Oh! dear, how "utterly to utter" must have been this man's feelings. "The peach-types," discoursed Oscar to the interviewer of the World, "were in bloom in the sight of Mrs. Belva Lockwood for her plack, and after all it is only the more vulgar class that dare to ridicule her self-chosen mode of locomotion. To me the sight of Mrs. Belva Lockwood for her plack, and of the warm ocean, flooded with light, was pouring in through the Golden Gate. Oh! It was most beautiful, and for the first time. I understood why nature had so clothed itself in green. It is because it is the most resiful of all colors, and after yearning for it for three months. I found it in Ban Francisco." Now, was not this an alph it to utterly exquisite for one man to behold and live? He even offered an opinion on the Chinese question. He thought they had "a man to behold and live? He even offered an opinion on the Chinese question. He thought they had "a decided artistic value," and it would be well for Congress to consider this. Just think of it! I think it is very unjust, because, unless I am very much mistaken, only comparatively few "Mormons" attended his lecture in Salt Lake City. The audience, I am inclined to think, was, for the most part, made up of—well, no matter. Let Oscar go on his way rejoicing.

The petitioners represented that they felt warranted in making this petition in view of the heavy expense connected with the extension and the ultimate benefit which would accrue therefore to the city. THE TARIFF COMMISSION BILL. The debate on this question can e to a close on Saturday last. The bill passed the House by a large majority, and it has to-day passed the Senate. The House spent fully three weeks in its diagnosion and if the country is the west blewalk of said street. Rein its discussion, and if the country is any the wiser for it then I am mistaken. The public apparently have taken no interest in it at all. Yet it may be interesting to some of my readers to know what, the "Tariff"

Newspaper correspondents, who are located here by the score, canvassed the subject eagerly; but even Minister West, when a visit was made to the Britlegation, could thrown no light upon the matter—he had no opinion to offer. For cool deliberation on the part of the assissing, the orime stands unparalleled, and its awfulnature has shocked the whole civilized world.

Washington had several attractions during the past week, one of which was Barnum's great ofreus and London shows, which included the monster elephant "Jumbo." secently imported from Europe. So much has been written about this mountain of elephant thin flesh—how much he could eat and how much he co

HICYCLING.

Is a great stride, I know. Yet
Washington, with its beautiful smooth concrete and broad streets is a perfect paradise for bicyclers. If the Salt Lake wheelmen could only have streets as smooth as they are here, what a time they wou'd have! It sppears to me, however, that the tricycle is fast becoming very popular. I have seen some excellent specimens on Pennsylvania Avenue.

Tourt, your committee drove over and examined the proposed route, viz: Begining at the crossing of Second South and Fifth East street, runing south on the lat ter atreet to the Penitentiary road, thence west to the southern extension of West Temple street, thence north to the Continental Hotel; distance about six miles. It is proposed that eventually the city, county and committee of citizens combine to put this route in good traveling condition for a carriage drive, by grading the streets, putting in necessary culver's and bridges, and discourging travel thereon by loaded wagons.

The portion of this drive which will meet present requirements extends from specimens on Pennsylvania Avenue. It is this class of "carriage" that Mrs. Belva Lockwood drives through the town. The sight, of course, looks somewhat ridiculous; but Belva is one of those strong-minded women

WASHINGTON, 17.—A rumor was circulated to-day which created the greatest excitement about the Capitol, to the effect that Queen Victoria had been assassinated, and the tidings becoming known on the floors of the House, caused a lively stampede of Congressmen in search of particulars. The State Department was asked for information, and a reply received, stating that the Reput processor, twenty deep—Second South a reply received, stating that the story was rife in the department, but nothing corroborative had been received.
