March, 10, 1875. News 3021 2-110 2018 20 Wholesale About Alfalfa IMMEDIATE SALE The month of March in most portions of this State, all things considered, is the best time to sow alfalfa seed. If sown in the fall, so as to come up after the first rains, and the winter is favorable, with but little frost, an advantage for the next summer will be secured in one particular—a greater growth. But this advantage will, under most favorable circumstances, be counteracted to a certain extent by the more vigorous growth of a larg-er quantity and greater variety of weeds. Those whe sowed their seed last fall may many of them find it to their advantage to resow now. We have not personally ex-Drop Letters, t ngle rate,..... THE DESERET NEWS DAVID O. CALDER SEMI-WEEKLY. We have not personally ex-amined any ifields sown last fall, but from the fact that we had in December and January a long spell of frosty nights and cold weather, we conclude that a great many of the small plants are killed out, and if so, weeds have doubt-less filled their places. If the stand of clover is too thin, and weeds are think and fuxuriant, the best plan is to replow and reseed; but if there is half a stand, and the surface of the soil is not too hard and too weedy, then the better plan will be to sow directly on the present surfand other MERCHANDISE. If stock of any kind be turned into a field of young and tender alfalfa they will eat it greedily, cutting it off too close to the ground, while they will not interfere with the weeds with which it is struggling for the ascendancy. This gives the weeds the start of the young plants, and between the stock and the weeds even a good stand of alfalfa will most likely be greatly injured and damaged, if not ruined.
