

Prince arrived yesterday morning and was received with great enthusiasm. The streets were gaily decorated. The German squadron were saluted by the Italian man-of-war. The Prince left for Rome in the afternoon.

Khartoum, 17.—A well known native with Hicks Pasha's army, has returned from El Obeid, whence he was enabled to escape because of his black color and because he wore no uniform. He says Hicks Pasha fought like a lion, and was the last officer to fall. Members of his staff fell in one group. After the fatal battle 150 soldiers were found wounded. El Mahdi gave orders that none of the wounded be ill-treated. The bodies of Egyptian and English officers were decapitated and their heads hung over the gate of El Obeid. The Arabs are determined to erect a monument for Hicks Pasha, on account of his great bravery. El Mahdi forbid on that account that Vitzelly, Graphic artist, be ill-used. El Mahdi threatened to punish Zargallas because he failed to join him. The sheik sent a defiance, saying he has 15,000 warriors and seven years provisions.

DUBLIN, 18.—Joseph Poole was hanged for the murder of John Kentey within the walls of Richmond prison at 8:05 o'clock this morning.

Poole rose at 5:30. The priest visited him at 6 and administered the sacrament at 7:15; both remained in the prison chapel until nearly 8. Poole stood the ordeal of preparation for execution with remarkable fortitude. On the gallows he frequently kissed the crucifix, and with calm demeanor and in a firm voice repeated the prayers until the drop fell. Death took place in three and a half minutes. He made no public statement. A small crowd gathered outside the Richmond Bridge which dispersed as soon as the black flag made known that the execution was over. A large force of police and military was present. The weather was raw and damp. The executioner was a man from the north of Ireland called "Jones." It is believed that Abax Blinn, who hanged O'Donnell was unable to reach Dublin in time to hang Poole.

Calro, 18.—Baker Pasha started for Suakin; he will reach Suez tonight and will have supreme command in Soudan. The Khedive instructed him to endeavor to conciliate the tribes before resorting to force.

Rome, 18.—The Pope yesterday gave audience to the American prelates in the city.

London, 18.—Police are closely watching the houses of leading Irish Nationalists. It is reported that the Lord Mayor has received anonymous letters threatening to blow up London Bridge and Newgate. Detectives who were withdrawn from the prison after O'Donnell was hanged, have returned there. Extra police are on and about the bridge, watching the arches and examining all craft passing and scrutinizing all persons crossing. In consequence of threats to avenge O'Donnell's death, armed policemen are guarding Hawarden Castle, the residence of Gladstone.

London, 17.—One hundred and fifty artillery men have gone to Egypt.

Queen Victoria has gone to Osborne, Isle of Wight.

Rome, 18.—The Crown Prince of Prussia paid a visit to the Pope today. The Pope received the Prince with great cordiality and affability. The Prince was visibly affected, and expressed in the name of the Emperor his gratification at being able to manifest his respect for his Holiness. The private conference lasted an hour. The Crown Prince upon leaving the Vatican appeared deeply moved.

LONDON, 18.—Extensive precautions are taken in consequence of information of the arrival of Fenian Daley, concerned in the storage of arms at Clerkenwell, for which offense Walsh was convicted. A special corps of police, many of whom speak the Irish language, are placed wherever it is thought mischief is likely to occur. All prisons, public buildings and docks are carefully watched.

Special corps of police have been detailed to guard Parliament buildings, Westminster Abbey, government offices, National Gallery, the German Embassy, Mansion House, Stock Exchange and the Bank of England. The luggage of all passengers landing from Atlantic steamers is carefully scrutinized.

Paris, 18.—The Deputies voted the supplementary Tonquin credit of twenty million francs for the first six months. The vote was 312 for, 180 against.

A Saigon dispatch states that the French residents at Hue do not recognize the new Anam government, and have broken off relations.

Prime Minister Ferry, replying to Lackroy, who criticized the government's Tonquin policy, said the real question at issue was decided by the chambers by its vote of confidence on the 10th inst., which could not remain a dead letter. The government could not remain in a contemplative attitude. The vote had baffled the tactics of the Chinese diplomacy. Nothing would be changed in the wise policy which the Chamber had sanctioned.

The reinforcements proposed to be sent to Tonquin are calculated to insure a termination of the Tonquin expedition within a given time, and give France satisfaction.

Ferry continued: "No fresh expedition is sent to Hue, because we are already there. We must, however, be prepared to support the French residents and French soldiers at Hue, if threatened. The King of Anam died a violent death. There is no revolution at Hue. The French legation there is not in danger. The French Resident is not officially recognized by the new government of Anam, but is negotiating informally with it. Admiral Courbet has gone to Sontay, and on his return will state whether or not reinforcements are necessary. The government cannot be asked to publish its plans. It is necessary to place confidence in the Ministry, and allow it to conduct its operations with the necessary secrecy, otherwise the House will have to choose another government." The Prime Minister said he would fail in his duty if he should disclose the plan of the Tonquin campaign or the Tonquin negotiations. General Camponon would state he would be answerable concerning the question of mobilization. General Camponon would allow no doubt to remain regarding his solidarity with the Cabinet.

Garnet opposed the credit, and declared it impossible to support a government which made the principle of equivocation and not loyalty to the Chambers its object. At this point the president of the Chambers called Garnet to order.

Ferry also spoke against the credit and the House agreed to close the general debate.

The clauses in the bill were adopted, after remarks. Subsequently the entire bill was adopted. In the course of the debate, Ferry's reference to Admiral Courbet as the "brave Admiral," caused laughing in the gallery. The President thereupon ordered the gallery cleared.

General Millot starts for Tonquin on Wednesday to take command of the French troops.

The Senate committee on the Tonquin credit presented a report unanimously approving the credit; considers it impossible to abandon Tonquin; declaring a retreat would destroy French prestige in the East, compromise Cochinchina, and dishonor France in the eyes of Europeans. The committee propose to act with vigor and rapidity. Debate on the credit will be held Thursday.

Eight thousand officers have offered themselves for service in Tonquin.

The German Crown Prince received the grand dignitaries of Italy, Presidents of the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies, and the diplomatic body. He frequently expressed himself as being deeply impressed by the cordiality of his welcome. A State banquet is given in the Prince's honor this evening, at which were present 124 persons, including members of the royal family. The Prince departs from Rome Thursday evening. The length of the Prince's interview with the Pope is much remarked upon.

The Moniteur de Rome says the visit is the outcome of Bismarck's project for federating the Conservative forces against the audacious democracy, and the place of honor in the alliance has been assigned to the Papacy, as first in influence in the world.

Lisbon, 18.—The government dock-yard, several warehouses and the training brig Cameoous are burned. Damage £100,000. No lives lost.

Rome, 19.—The Crown Prince and King Humbert were present at a grand review of troops to-day; there were 20,000 in the ranks. The weather was fine and large crowds manifested great enthusiasm.

Edinburgh, 19.—At the trial today of McDermott and others for complicity in the dynamite outrages at Glasgow, Dr. Dupree, adviser on governmental chemical subjects, testified that the materials in the box of Deasey, who was arrested at Liverpool, were similar to those found in the box that was exploded at the canal bridge over Possel Park road. A Glasgow policeman testified to finding in the house of the prisoner several newspapers and documents showing that he was sympathizing with the Irish agitation. William Lamier, who testified in Dublin against his brother-in-law K. Poole, who was executed yesterday, explained the nature of the Fenian oath and the object of the Fenian organization. The case for the prosecution closed with Lamier's testimony. The declaration of the prisoner was a general denial of the charges.

If nutmeg is grated and mixed with the ginger in hard gingerbread, a piquant flavor is given to it.

Poisonous washes applied to the foliage of trees, vines, etc., are of no avail against those insects which suck the juice of plants instead of eating the leaves of buds.

The London inventor of the wire book-sewing and stitching machines, now so well known, has, we hear, invented a thread book-sewing machine, which does not require the books to be saw-cut at the back.

It is said that weeds may be destroyed for years by copious watering with a solution of lime and sulphur in boiling hot water. This, if effectual will be highly important to such as have garden gravel walks, pavements, etc., through which grass and weeds grow up.

An excellent pudding is made of tart apples stewed and then put in layers with fine cracker or bread crumbs. While the apples are still hot stir sugar and a little butter in with them. This should be baked for half an hour. A little sweet cream is a great addition, but it is good without any sauce.—New York Post.

Some thoughtful person has taken the time and trouble to make this calculation: If a young man commences at 15 to drink two glasses of beer per day, costing 10 cents, by the time he arrives at the age of 65 he will have drank 38 hogheads. Whereas, if he puts his money in bank for that length of time, he will have $7,000 on deposit.

When thistles appear in oats their tops may be worn off a week or two before the oats shoot up into heading. At this time the thistles are several inches higher than the oat leaves. If cut then, blossoming and seeding are not only prevented, but the short stubs of thistles fall out of the bundles in binding and leave the straw clean.—Detroit Post.

A writer in the Springfield (Mass.) Republican has found, during long experience a small chain tether, 20 to 25 feet in length, every way preferable to rope. "One end is toggled around the neck of the animal and the other, with a ring in it, is planned to the ground with a short sharp, pointed flat-headed iron bar. The chain should have a swivel and two or three heavy links about two feet from the neck end, in order to keep the animal from snarling up. The chain grows brighter with use and will last for years, rain or shine."

A Russian statistician has amused himself calculating the distance traveled in a year by the hand of a printer. He takes the position that a skillful compositor, working ten hours a day, allowing for distributing and correction, sets up 12, 000 letters. In counting the year at three hundred working days, he makes them a total of 3,600,000. Consequently the distance from the case to the stick and from the stick to the case being estimated at two feet makes in all 7,200,000 feet; there being 23,500 feet in a geographical mile, so that the distance made in a year under these conditions by a printer's hand is in the neighborhood of 300 miles or a mile a day.

A gentleman in Edinburgh, Scotland, has just patented an invention of interest to lithographers. The stones used in such printing are liable to wear, and when reduced below a certain thickness can no longer be depended upon to sustain the pressure to which they are necessarily subjected. This gentleman proposes to strengthen stones which have thus been weakened, by applying to them a backing of granolithic. The material, it appears when placed in contact with a roughened surface, adheres with such tenacity as to form with the stone it is attached to one solid mass. Its capacity for sustaining pressure is known to be great, and if additional strength should be required, bars of steel can easily be introduced while the material is in a soft condition. Treated in this way a lithographic stone of an inch in thickness, becomes thoroughly serviceable and will, it is said, continue so till worn almost to a film. Blocks of the ordinary thickness thus become capable of furnishing the material for two or three lith. stones, while slabs that would otherwise be too thin for use can be turned to profitable account.
