Burglary .- About half an hour after last midnight, a burglary committed on the residence a gentleman living in the 18th Ward, but now absent in the Wood River country. His wife retired about 12 o'clock, and was reclining on her pillow reading, when in the mirror near her bed, she detected the reflection of a man in the next room, (the intervening door being open) in the act of rifling her wardrobe. Remaining still for s few seconds, she saw him cross to a bureau and commence fumbling about among the drawers. He next went to the door of her bedroom. when she grasped a loaded pistol from the table with her left hand and raising up the adjoining window rary should have this excellent and with her right, put her head outside and screamed "murder," and shouted for help. She endeavored several times to discharge the pistol at the robber, but in vain, as the lock was somewhat rusty; finally, however, it went off, but the burglar had done the same thing, just a few momentes before. A number of neighbors and several policemen were soon upon the scene, attracted by the cries of lady who was almost distracted from fright. It was thought at first on vestigation, that the villain had se cured no booty, but afterwards the lady of the house discovered that $25 in cash had been taken. No clue was found as to the identity of the midnight prowler. He entered through the back window of a room in the rear of the house, passed through the kitchen over the pros-trate form of a sleeping watch-dog, and thus entered the parlor. He undoubtedly made his exit by the same way. One of the amusing features of the circumstance, was the action of the faithful dog, who nored complacently away, while jumped up and began barking most furiously. Another was that the A Slight Misapprehension.-The people living in the next house did
