C. J. MCNITT IS NOW AN INVENTOR

Auditor for Oregon Short Line Strikes a Good Thing for Travelers' Comfort.

THIS STORY CARRIES MORAL

While Suffering He Did Not Swear But Simply Thought Out Plan to Head Off Cinders.

Did you ever go to sleep in one of those absurd Pullman berths and lie like a warrior taking his rest with well, not exactly a martial cloak around you—simply divers strata of cinders. Did you ever get up in the morning and pry carboferrous specimens from your ears, eyes and nose and say unkind things about the railroads? If you have traveled in the west.

C. J. McNitt.

where steep grades prevail and the locomotives snort like live creatures, you have.

The news that the day is not far distant when you will no longer be reminded of boyhood's days when you were a stolen soda cracker to bed with you and writhed throughout the night on the crumbs, will be welcomed by all travelers, for if a Salt Lake man's invention performs all that is claimed for it the days of cinders in the Pullman sleeper are numbered.

No more awful nights, but plenty of fresh air coming through the windows of the car seems almost too good to be true. Now it only some Salt Lake man will invent a scheme whereby your head will not be driven nearly through the berth partition every time the locomotive makes a flying couple of the millennium of railroad travel will be dawning.

THE ONE EXCEPTION.

Now, everybody knows Clarence John McNitt, auditor of the Oregon Short Line and allied lines. Mr. McNitt is built upon the Taff model, wears a 56-inch necktie, and is a kind smile, except when he is traveling, when he loses both avoirdupois and his chronic cheerfulness—simply because he has to crawl into one of those absurd berths and keep the window down and the temperature up.

Last summer Mr. McNitt had occasion to go to Pocatello in his official capacity. He started out on the midnight train from Salt Lake and hung out as long as he could in the smoking room of the Pullman until fatigue eventually drove him to his berth.

THE USUAL CINDERS.

The porter had placed a screen of the common or garden variety in the window of his berth. Mr. McNitt looked at his bed and then regretfully imagined the porter to close the window and take his sheets and blankets, more or less, into the aisle. Then he climbed into his berth, and tried to imagine himself enjoying his Turkish bath and slow death by asphyxiation. As Mr. McNitt is a pillar of the Baptist church, he did not indulge in profane thoughts, and he thought hard. Why should man be doomed to suffer so? As he tossed in his berth a bright idea struck him and the sequel came a few days ago, from the city of Pocatello, Idaho, at Washington of a very imposing document nicely fastened with blue baby ribbon and an imposing red seal.

PONDEROUS DOCUMENT.

The ponderous carried pictures which at first glance might pass muster for anything between a rabbit hutch to a screen for tallings. The document asserted that the inventor of a ponderous looking affair that started out with:

"To all whom it may concern: 'He it known that I, Clarence John McNitt, a citizen of the United States, residing at Salt Lake City, in the county of Salt Lake and state of Utah, have invented a new and useful door, window and transom screen, of which the following is a specification: 'I followed a mass of print that at first glance looked like a problem in algebra and which upon perusal proved to the average man who does not patronize Pullman cars about as dry as Utah will be when local option goes into effect. But this is a long story. In brief it told all about the screen invented by one of the leading officials of the great railroad system in the west."

IT IS SO SIMPLE.

Like a majority of inventions which have brought men fame and fortune, it is so simple that everybody who has investigated it is now saying "why didn't I think of it?"

It you have tried to sleep in a Pullman berth on a hot night you have noticed how the cinders fly against the wire screen like bullets, and fragments are forced through the finest mesh. The description is as issued by the patent office of patent No. 881,908, serial number 342,657, which is Mr. McNitt's invention, covers two newspaper columns.

In brief, the invention consists of a double screen so that when the cinders and dust hit the first screen, they lose their momentum and fall to the bottom and drop through a slot outside the car to the ground, while the passenger sits fresh air and no dust or cinders. It sounds too good to be true, but those who have seen it work aver that it is all Mr. McNitt claims for it.

ALL AHE TAKING NOTICE.

But what is more to the point? Mr. McNitt is receiving letters from the heads of transportation companies throughout the United States for information and models while W. H. Hallcraft, vice president and general manager of the Oregon Short Line is having one of the leading officials of the great railroad system in the west.

THE DINING CAR SERVICE ALSO IS INVESTIGATING AND WHEN THE SCREENS ARE INstalled one wonders what the inventors' patent will do when he misses the usual coat of alkali dust that heretofore has accompanied his porthouse steak by way of dressing and which has become an acquired taste with some indefatigable western travelers. In the meantime Mr. McNitt and his numerous friends are entertaining visions of fabulous wealth in the form of royalties culled from India's coral strands and America's alkali deserts, and then some other lands where cinders and dust prevail.

A BABY SHOW IN SALT LAKE CITY would have many contestants, but it's safe to say that the healthiest baby would win the prize. Mothers, don't attempt to raise children without White's Cream Vermifuge. Price 25 cents. Sold by Z. C. M. Drug Dept., 115-114 Main Street.

WALL PAPER. Midgley-Bodel Co., 33 E. First St.

TO ALL TO CREMATORY.

City Sanitary Inspector William Margetts will apply to the city council for an appropriation of $500 for the purpose of building two additional garages for the crematorium. The crematorium, which is now being built, has doubled in this city during the last two years, and that it is rapidly increasing this spring. An attempt to build a $10,000 addition to the city crematorium was made some time ago by the board of public works, but this was turned down by the city council. The sanitary inspector says that by working on the crematorium he can dispose of the garbage provided the extra bins he asks for are allowed.

"ONE TOUCH OF NATURE MAKES THE WHOLE WORLD KIN."

When a rooster finds a big fat worm he calls all the hens in the farm yard to come and share it. A similar trait of human nature is to be observed when a man discovers something exceptionally good—he wants all his friends and neighbors to share the benefits of his discovery. This is the touch of nature which makes the whole world kin. This explains why people who have been cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, write these letters to the publisher for publication that others similarly ailing may also use it and obtain relief. Behind every one of these letters is a warm hearted wish of the writer to be of use to someone else. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

MUCH TIMBER AVAILABLE.

An amendment to the articles of incorporation of the San Vicente Lumber company was yesterday filed with the county clerk, providing that 6,500 shares of the treasury stock of the company may be used for the purchase of a 50-year lease on certain timber lands in Santa Cruz county, Cal. The land is said to cruise more than 200,000,000 ft. in redwood and 60,000,000 ft. in fir. C. W. Nibley of this city owns one-third of the stock of the company, while others interested are F. S. Murphy, C. E. Murphy, George Stoddard and Joseph Stoddard.

TEMPLE NOTICES.

The St. George temple will close on Friday, March 27, 1908, and re-open Tuesday, April 14, 1908. DAVID H. CANNON, President.
