BENATE. Washington, S. - Morgan, in speaking on the bill prohibiting military interference at the polls, said the President arrogantly assumed that Congress had no right to form legislation in appropriation bills. (Shouts of laughter.) The present coinage law, unless modified, would certainly force on this country an exclusive sliver standard. He regarded the dishonored and justly imprisoned silver dollar of 412½ grains as the most disgraceful form of pplitical money. It was corrupt and as corrupting in principle as if it only contained 12½ grains. Why should resumption be broken down remorselessly now? This 'mon-

He referred to the recent pur chase of steel rails in England by Vanderbilt and asserted that under this bill, Vanderbilt assuming that he had given a note for $500,-000 for these rails, could purchase eilver bullion at a cost of $430,000 and have it coined into $500,000, thus saving $70,000 by the opens. thus saving $70,000 by the operation. The bill will oppress and rob the people in whose name it was ostentatiously brought forward. If silver dollars were made of hon-est weights he would not make a ments with General Stolyphine est weights he would not make a word of objection to it. He ridiculed the greenback propositions introduced by Messrs De La Matyr, Weaver and Wright. His prayer to congress was to let the currency alone, and to give the people rest alone, and to give the people rest and liberty to prosper. House adjourned.

Capital Notes.

Washington, 8.—A large ma-jority of the House of Representa-tives to-day astonished the advo-cates of the bill for the enforcement of the eight hour law by uncere-moniously laying it on the table, and subsequently by daring to go on record against it on a yea and nay record against it on a yea and may vote, upon a motion to reconsider the tabling. The effect of to-day's action is to leave the eight hour law a dead letter on the statute book. The vote was non-partisan, members representing agricultural districts being almost unanimously against the bill, while hearly all those from manufacturing centres and navy yard districts were very naturally eager to be recorded in the President will vet) the democratic caucus bill concerning the use of troops on election days. Senators Edmunds and Logan are especially emphatic in expressing this belief. The republican members of the House, on the contrary, are generally of the opinion that he will sign it, and the democrate seem to be entirely confident of the bill becoming a law with the President's approval, almost as as soon as he receives it. The vote in the Senate according to present indications, will be taken tomorrow evening, and unless unexpectedly delayed by its return to the House with amendments, the bill will be sent to the President on Saturday.

Twelve rounds were fought, lasting 12 minutes and 40 seconds. Elliott was badly punished almost from the first, and at the end of the last round was insensible. Returns from the interior confirm previous advices, and the instrument is adoptadvices, and the instrument is adopted by a majority of 6,000 to 10,000. The farmers seem to have voted almost solidly for it. The result has caused much bitterness of feeling in business circles, where it is looked upon to a considerable extent as an attack upon city interests by the interior. There is an avident determination to make the best of what is believed to be an important question. He still adhered to the whole of his programme. Dr. Forckenbeck, President of the Chamber, ruled that Lasker's attack on Bismarck was severe, but not insulting.
