FARMER JOHN.

BY J. T. TROWBRIDGE.

Home from his journey Farmer John
Arrived this morning safe and sound.
His black coat off, and his old clothes on;
"Now I'm myself," says Farmer John;
And he thinks, "I'll look around."
Up leaps the dog: "Get down, you pup;
Are you so glad you'd eat me up?"
The old cow lows at the gate to meet him;
"Well, well, old Bay!
Ha, ha, old Gray!
Do you get good food while I am away?"

"You have not a job," says Farmer John:
The cattle are looking round and sleek;
The colt is going to be a roan,
And a beauty too; how he has grown!
We'll wean the calf next week."
So says Farmer John, "When I've been off,
To call you again about the trough,
And watch you, and pet you, while you drink,
Is a greater comfort than you can think!"
And he pats old Bay,
And he sighs old Gray;
"Ah, this is the comfort of going away!"

"For after all," says Farmer John,
"The best of a journey is getting home.
I've seen great sights; but would I give
This spot and the peaceful life I live,
For all their din and fame?
These hills for the city's stifled air,
And big hotels and bustle and glare,
Land all houses, and roads all stones.
That deafen your ears and batter your bones?
Would you, old Bay?
Would you, old Gray?
That's what one gets by going away.

"There money is king," says Farmer John,
"And Fashion is queen; and it's mighty queer
To see how sometimes, while the man,
Raking and scraping all he can,
The wife spends every year
Enough you would think for a score of wives,
To keep them in luxury all their lives!
The town is a port Babylon
To a quiet chap," says Farmer John.
"You see, old Bay,
You see, old Gray,
I'm wiser than when I went away.

"I've found out this," says Farmer John,
"That happiness is not bought and sold,
And clutched in a fife of waste and hurry,
In nights of pleasure and days of worry;
And wealth isn't all is gold,
Mortgage and stocks and ten per cent,
But in simple ways and sweet content,
Few wants, pure hopes, and noble ends,
Some land to till, and a few good friends,
Like you, old Bay,
And you, old Gray;
That's what I've learned by going away."

And a happy man is Farmer John,
O, a rich and happy man is he;
He sees the pears and pumpkins growing,
The corn in tassel, the buckwheat blowing,
And fruit on vine and tree:
The large, kind oxen look their thanks
As he rubs their forehead and strokes their flanks;
The doves light round him, and strut and coo;
Says Farmer John, "I'll take you, too,
And you, old Bay,
And you, old Gray,
Next time I travel so far away!"

Last Night's Dispatches.

EASTERN.

Andy Johnson Paralyzed.

NASHVILLE, 30.—A special to the papers from Greenville, Tenn., reports that ex-Prest. Johnson was stricken with paralysis on Wednesday evening, at the residence of his daughter in Carter Co.; he is lying in a very critical condition, and his recovery is extremely doubtful.

Immense Damage to Crops.

CINCINNATI, 30.—Reports from all portions of Southern Ohio, tonight give gloomy accounts of the crops, on account of the damage by rain. The Big Miami river at Cleves is rising at the rate of six inches per hour, and the bottoms are all under water. Three thousand acres of corn, between Cleves and Lawrenceburg, are flooded. At Morrow, Ohio, a terrible rainfall occurred this evening. The Little Miami river is reported to be flooding the town and vicinity. At Marietta the damage done by the storm on Wednesday night was immense. The wheat and oat crops are reported to be entirely washed away, and the Muskingum river is full of floating grain. Rain is reported to be still falling, and great damage is now apprehended from a further overflow of the rivers and smaller streams. The crops are considered lost.

A Strange Case.

NEW YORK, 30.—Jno. J. Burrough, aged 45 years, who lately arrived in this city from California, was found sick this p.m., on the sidewalk in front af No. 82 West 25th St.; he was taken to the 30th St. police station, where, on being searched, $10 30 in gold and silver coin was found in his boots; he was removed to the Bellevue Hospital.

More Consolidation of Monopolists—Deposits at Duncan, Sherman & Co's—Mail Contract.

Vice President Green of the Western Union Telegraph Co., is said to have reported this afternoon, relative to the rumored consolidation with the Atlantic and Pacific, that he was not authorized to say anything definite about consolidation; he believed that the terms of a contract looking to a union had been submitted to the officers, but he could not say whether the contract was acceptable or had been ratified.

It is rumored in Wall Street that the deposits in Duncan, Sherman & Co's amount to $2,000,000.

The Tribune says that the sensational reports about the pending absorption of the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Company by the Western Union gave a fresh excitement to Wall St. Jay Gould is credited with this latest combination, and he does not deny that such a plan is contemplated, but he says the details of an adjustment have not been reached.

A cable telegram from Australia announces that the Australian Parliament has ratified a contract with the P. S. S. Co. for regular service for eight years, at $500,000 per annum.

Damage to Crops.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., 30.—Special telegrams from eighty out of ninety-two counties in Indiana and twenty-five of the eastern counties of Illinois, furnish an account of the condition of the crops. The details of damage are remarkably uniform, the best show for wheat being in the extreme northern tier of the Indiana counties; elsewhere but a small portion can be saved, it having sprouted in shock, and at least two-thirds is already ruined.

A Race Horse Applauded.

CLEVELAND, 30.—At the close of the second race to-day, Occident, the California wonder, was led before the grand stand for the edification of the spectators, and was received with great applause.

WESTERN.

Nominated for Congress—Five Men Killed.

SAN FRANCISCO, 30.—The Democratic State Convention of Oregon nominated Lafayette Lane for Congress; he is a son of General Joseph Lane, is a young lawyer of some ability, and a Democratic politician of the most radical stripe.

A dispatch from Eureka, Nevada, reports a cave in the Eureka Consolidated mine, Ruby Hill; five miners were killed, two of whom had been recovered, and a search was being made for the others.

Murder in the First Degree — $40,000 Fire.

A Santa Barbara dispatch says that Jack Cotton, indicted for the murder of Norton, some weeks since, assisted by Norton's wife, with whom he then ran away, was found guilty, to-day, of murder in the first degree; the punishment is imprisonment for life. Mrs. Norton's trial commenced this morning.

A fire in the Bay Sugar Refinery, this a.m., damaged the building and contents to the amount of forty thousand, covered by insurance.

FOREIGN.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Lord Mayor's Ball.

LONDON, 30.—The grand ball by the Lord Mayor of London to the mayors and other civic dignitaries from abroad, took place to-night at Guildhall; it was a magnificent affair. Nearly 3,500 persons were present, including all the distinguished guests at the banquet yesterday. No member of the British ministry attended.

"Vicksburg" Report.

The report made by the Board of Trade of the inquiry into the loss of the Vicksburg, of the Dominion line, is published. The court's opinion is that if, when the ice was reported at night on both bows, the master of the Vicksburg had hove to until daylight, according to the Co.'s instructions, the catastrophe, in all probability, would have been averted. The evidence shows neglect of practice in manning the boats, and had the instructions in this respect been carried out, the boats would have been lowered earlier, and the court strongly believes that every life might have been saved. Further delay is attributed to the natural reluctance of the captain to abandon his vessel while a hope of saving her remained.

Cassagnac Challenged but Afraid to Fight.

The Times reports that Henri Rochefort, on the 10th, sent a challenge to L. Paul de Cassagnac, calling him to come to Geneva at once, with seconds. The cause of the challenge was a certain article which appeared in Le Pays in 1872. M. de Cassagnac replied, with an excessively abusive letter, giving Rochefort the choice of weapons, and appointing Prince Alexandre D. Wagron and Count Harrison his seconds. Rochefort's seconds have met those of Cassagnac in Paris, to arrange fer the duel. They claim that as their principal is the insulted party, he has not only the choice of weapons, but the right to determine the distance, and they demand that the men meet with pistols at five paces, and shoot at the word of command. M. de Cassagnac's seconds said this was simply murder, for when the arms of the combatants were extended the muzzles of their weapons almost touched. M. Rochefort's aids refused to admit these objections. They said their principal, considering the importance of the case, had been very particular about the conditions. The friends of Cassagnac then proposed that the distance be thirty paces, and that each combatant be allowed to advance five steps after the word is given, the time of firing to be optional, and the shooting to continue until one fall. Rochefort's seconds declined this, and the matter rests there.

The Daily News has a dispatch stating that a minute has been drawn up, signed by the seconds of both parties, declaring it impossible to settle the conditions of the duel.

THE PREVENTION OF CRIME.

The extraordinary prevalence of crime in this country is a thing that must appeal to the most serious attention of statesmen, public guardians and thoughtful people of every class. Not a newspaper but brings news of some rape, highway robbery or terrible murders. This is becoming the age of crime, and that, too, of unpunished crime. The most horrid outrages known to man are committed, the criminals often escape detection, and go for years, and sometimes forever, unknown. A dozen murders have been committed within the last two years, the perpetrators of which are still unknown; an hundred outrages on females, and the scoundrels undetected; a thousand robberies, and the stolen property unrecovered.

Nor is this all. When the malefactors are arrested and brought into the halls of justice, the chances are even that, by some legal quibble, they will escape the punishment due them. The case may be so plain that even the friends of the criminal admit his guilt, but he is by no means condemned on that account. A clerk may neglect to dot an "i," or cross a "t," a fault in the indictment is found, and the accused, already condemned by public opinion, may, and often does, escape to repeat his diabolical crimes elsewhere.

Take a notable case. A little boy is playing with his mates. Two men come along, and persuade him to go with them. He does so, and that is the last known of Charlie Ross. If the earth had opened and swallowed him, he would not have been more completely lost. Two men have baffled the utmost efforts of an hundred detectives, and after a year of search are forced to confess themselves as much in the dark as ever. Take another. An old man, living in a densely peopled part of a large city, is struck down by the hand of an assassin. His murderer opens the front door, goes out, perhaps brushes by the arm of a policeman, walks down the street in the glaring light of the gas lamps, turns a corner and is gone. That is all; the world knows no more who he is, whence he came, and whither he has gone, than if he had never been born. The coroner's jury comes and sits with owl-like gravity; the police come, pry and smell in every corner, go away, investigate, and accomplish nothing.

Take the Gad's Hill affair as a type of the other daring railroad robberies lately committed. Five men stop a crowded passenger train, rob the mails, steal the express money, rob the road agents and the passengers, mount their horses and ride off, and that is all. By this act it is clearly demonstrated that five men may, and with impunity do, dare the anger and defy the power of a traveling public, a rich railroad corporation, an express company, a State's authorities, and the United States Government.

Let the kaleidoscope turn again, and another scene comes to view—one that touches the heart of every father, mother and brother in the land. A little child lies silent in her coffin. Flowers are strewed around her, the solemn words of the funeral service are heard, amid the weeping of a disconsolate mother and the sobs of a stricken father; the little cold body is laid away to everlasting sleep, the clods cover the coffin, the turf is laid over the grave, and the sad act is over. Painful enough it is, if the little one has died in her mother's arms, if she has peacefully breathed out her last sigh on the loving breast of a father, and whispered her final words of love into his attentive ear. Sad enough when the patient hand of a sister has wiped the death-damp from the innocent brow, closed the eyes that never looked on iniquity, and composed the tiny limbs for their last resting place. But the little one has met a different fate. She knew no sin, and yet was made the victim of a human devil. She was subjected to the most damnable outrage that can be conceived, and then strangled to prevent its discovery. Every father, deserving the name, will feel his heart burn and his hands quiver if he thinks how he would feel and act if the case were that of his own innocent child.

How long are such things to continue? Is there any efficiency in our police, or any justice in our courts? If so, why are not demons who perpetrate such outrages caught and hanged, as they ought to be? If such occurrences take place often, who can blame the people for taking judgment in their own hands and administering a swift and terrible justice on such offenders? At this moment, every father who reflects on the circumstances would uphold and defend the action of any set of men who would summarily lynch such an offender, and nine hundred and ninety-nine out of every thousand in the nation would say, well done!—St. Louis Globe-Democrat, July 24.
