As foreshadowed in these columns the Republican and Democratic members of the Legislature met in party caucuses on Saturday evening and selected their presiding officers and employees as set forth above. As is well known the Democrats are in the majority in the upper branch while the Republicans have the same distinction in the lower.

The Democratic caucus was held in the Commercial block, being first called to order by Chairman J. W. Burton in his firm's law office and later adjourning to the offices of the Mutual Life Insurance company on invitation of Manager Rulon S. Wells, who, later in the evening, was chosen the minority leader of the House. Senator O. F. Whitney, of Salt Lake, was made chairman of the caucus and Senator Tamm of Beaver, acted as secretary. It was unanimously decided that the members during the balloting for United States senators would cast complimentary votes for the party caucus. The caucus began with Hon. A. W. McCune. The question of organization then came up, and the senators and representatives going into different rooms. The question of the distribution of patronage was discussed with marked animation at times, according to subsequent statements of members. When the Senate caucus adjourned it was with the above result.

Representative Holshouser presided over the deliberations of the House caucus and Representative Wells acted as secretary. It was decided to support the following ticket in the house on the organization of that body: For speaker, O. F. Hatch of Davis; chief clerk, J. E. Bagley, of Platte; minute clerk, Simon Epperson, of Wasatch; docket clerk, O. J. Sitterud, of Emery; engraving clerk, William Houchen, of Iron; sergeant-at-arms, Beverly Harper, of Juab; committee clerks, Royal Smith and Miss Kate Perkins, of Juab; messengers, Joseph Patrick, of Salt Lake, and J. A. Twelves, of Provo;

ROBBED BEFORE HIS EYES.

James W. McHenry of South Cottonwood encounters Two Thieves.
James W. McHenry of South Cottonwood, and foreman at the tiding office yards in this city, had an exciting time with a couple of thieves and would-be hold-ups, while returning home Saturday night. He was driving in his buggy, which he had loaded in the rear with several dollars' worth of groceries and other household articles. On reaching Fairchild's saloon, on the half-way between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, he saw a man in a dark coat and hat, who was walking in the same direction as himself. When he turned back, he saw two other men, one of whom was short and stout, and the other was tall and thin. They were both armed with pistols. The man in the dark coat stepped forward and said to McHenry: "Get out of the buggy, or we'll shoot you." McHenry got out of the buggy and the two men searched him. They found nothing on him, so they turned back to the buggy. McHenry then drove off, but he was still trembling with fear.

doorkeeper, Edwin Thomas, of Davis; chaplain, Willard G. Smith, of Morgan. A special committee on business was also named, consisting of F. H. Holzheimer, of Juab, Seth Langton, of Cache, and J. F. McGregor, of Iron.

THE REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

Like the Democratic Conference it lasted until nearly midnight.

It was well on towards midnight when the Republicans concluded their deliberations. There had been much earnest debate over the distribution of offices. The exciting feature, and perhaps the principal effort was to keep Salt Lake from getting the patronage it, as the largest county in the State, asked. The effort was eminently successful as Salt Lake got but three subordinate positions.

The caucus was held in Judge Hall's court room and Representative Cutler of Kane was chosen chairman on motion of Glasmann, of Weber. During the discussion over patronage Mr. Cutler vacating the chair said, sarcastically, that he was willing to admit that Salt Lake had all the brains but he was not willing to admit that it had all the votes. This salty caused considerable applause from the outside members and when the battle was over Salt Lake was given the three minor offices named.

A Republican senatorial caucus was held at which it was decided to present the following at the time of the organization of that body today: President—Joseph Howell, of Cache. Secretary—Thomas Hull, of Salt Lake.

Minute Clerk—Jacob Larson, of Cache.
Docket Clerk—(To be named by Senator Alder).
Engraving and Engraving Clerk—Joseph Macknight, of Salt Lake.
Sergeant-at-Arms—Gilbert R. Bebee, of Platte.
Chaplain—William Spry, of Tooele.
Doorkeeper—M. L. Sheffield, of Wayne.
Watchman—Thomas A. Kerr, of Cache.

running rapidly toward the buggy. His first impulse was to whip up his horse and get out of the way, which he could easily have done, but he said he would see the thing through out of curiosity. He felt the man grasp hold of his buggy and he tried to look down through the little window, but he could not see him. The other man had returned to the track. McHenry then stopped his horse, jumped quickly from his buggy and ran around in the rear, but the man and the goods were gone. He turned around and went back, but after a futile search for some time, he gave it up and drove on home.
He says he will be prepared for them the next time.

WOMAN GOES INSANE.

Mary Ann Wilson, who was recently released from the city jail, was picked up by the police last night, while she was bumping her head against a telephone pole. The woman is believed to be insane. She imagines that certain persons are trying to kill her with electricity, and she said she was trying to get a shock to see how it felt. She was removed to the county jail, where she will be held pending an examination as to her sanity.

LOTTERY SWINDLE.

How a Smooth Stranger Defrauded Hundreds of People.

A successful lottery swindle, worked by A. H. Curtis, alias J. E. Meyer, came to light Saturday afternoon, and now Mr. Curtis is much sought for. Curtis came here several weeks ago and rented a room at 247 south Main street. Soon after his arrival, he began to receive a great amount of mail. The more mail he received the better appeared to be his circumstances. He paid his room rent sometimes with postoffice money orders and express money orders. Just before Christmas he informed his landlady that he was going to Ogden, and instructed her to send his mail there in care of J. E. Meyer. He said that he owed some money in the Junction city which he could not pay just then. For a few days his mail was forwarded to Ogden, but after that it was sent back to the post-office.

Curtis sent circular letters all over the country, representing himself to be manager of the original Little Louisiana Lottery company, making a proposition to establish agencies in the different towns. He offered tickets for the January drawing upon receipt of $12.50. Strange as may seem, hundreds bit at the glaring fake. Curtis made a big wad of money, and when the time came ripe, departed for parts unknown.

AMUSEMENTS.

There is plenty going on in town to-night from which the visiting stockman can make their selection. The only fear will be as to the ability of either house to accommodate the throngs. At the Theater, Louis James and Kathryn Kiddie open with what is everywhere proclaimed as a sumptuous production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

At the Grand the famous American actress, Mrs. Fiske, will present for the first time here the play of "Becky Sharp." The Cummings company renders "A Gilded Fool" in Ogden this evening.

Mr. Stephens states that there is a surprising amount of interest taken in the stockmen's concert Wednesday night at the Tabernacle. He says he was bawled out of bed this morning by people who were anxious not only to secure tickets but to pay for them.

THE BIG MEN OF THIS WEEK'S CONVENTION.

Maxwell, Chicago; Hon. R. S. Hinds-koper, Washington, D. C., and Prof. F. B. Lindfield, Logan, Utah.

At the afternoon session the report of the special committee on Land Leasing, followed by a discussion, "Should the United States Lease the Public Domain," in which the affirmative will be taken by Col. John R. Irish, California, and the negative by Hon. John M. Carey, of Wyoming.

In the evening Mr. R. C. Judson, of Oregon, will deliver an interesting lecture in the Assembly hall upon grasses, illustrated with lime light views; the lecture will be interspersed with musical selections and singing by some of the leading solo singers of the city. On Friday the day will be taken up with addresses and the reading of papers, to conclude with one of the most exciting incidents of the week—the selection of the next place of meeting for the convention, January, 1902.

This will practically end the convention. In the evening the delegates, their friends and all those lucky to be able to obtain an invite will adjourn to the big hall known as Christensen's, where they will participate in an old-time smoker under the auspices of the fraternal society which has 11 as its motto and an elk head as its emblem.

BIG STOCK DEALS.

While the convention is in session and after the big gathering is over there will be numerous committee meetings held behind closed doors. There will be also numerous heavy cattle deals which will involve thousands of dollars, which will be transacted. The convention is brought together for practically that purpose and as each year rolls around it sees an increased volume of business transacted and thousands of head of fine stock change hands by the means of contracts signed for spring and summer delivery.

Not the least important thing to transpire during the convention will be the selection of the next place wherein to hold the convention in 1902. The cities which have had similar events transpire within their corporate limits before are anxious to repeat the prescription. They realize that the presence of several thousand cattlemen spells dollars (with an upper case "D") and are anxious to repeat the experiment. With the end in view of securing the next convention there are a number of cities which will be heavily represented which will strain every nerve in order to capture the convention. Denver is going to make a big bid, Omaha means to make the effort of its life while St. Joe and other towns—not forgetting Chicago—will make every effort to outbid the others. The convention finally adjourns for a year.

WOOL GROWERS CONVENTION.

Official Program of the Meeting of Sheepmen on Saturday.

The convention of the National Wool-growers' association, which will be held at the Assembly Hall on Saturday and Monday following the big National Live Stock convention, promises to be a big affair. Already Acting President Bennett, and Oliver B. Monroe and Charles B. Ladd of Boston, delegates from the New England Wool Growers' association, have arrived on the scene, and are working on the convention.

Quite a diversified number of topics of vital interest to the sheepmen will be discussed at the convention, as the following official program, which has been made public, will demonstrate:

Revision and installation of officers.
Miscellaneous business.
Adjournment.

CONVENTION NOTES.

The saddle contest for the most popular stockman will be closed Friday at 3 o'clock. After that hour until 6 in the evening open balloting will be conducted in the citizen's committee rooms, 215 Progress block; the polls will then be declared officially closed. During the process of balloting there will be a blackboard set up in the committee rooms, upon which will be recorded the votes for the various candidates as they are received. At the present the votes are being withheld, and it is said that at the last moment there will be some big surprises in store.

The Wyoming legislature will arrive in town on a special train at 6:30 tomorrow morning. Chairman Leary has named Hon. Thomas Kearns, Judge O. W. Powers, John R. Foulks, M. K. Parsons and John H. White as a committee to meet the legislators at the depot and escort them to their headquarters. Special badges have been prepared for the visitors.

The convention will see the advent of a number of newspaper men in this city. A. G. Dawson, staff correspondent of the Galveston Daily News, and the Dallas Morning News, was the first out of town man to appear on the scene. He brings word with him that the Texas delegation is coming in a bunch. Polly Pry, staff correspondent of the Denver Post, was expected to arrive at noon today, while L. M. Wilcox, of Field and Farm, at Denver; Fred P. Johnson, of the Denver Daily Stockman; T. W. McCulloch, managing editor of the Omaha Bee; Bruce McCulloch, of the Omaha Journal and Stockman; and A. C. Halliwell, of the Chicago Live-Stock World, will come in today.

The New Mexico delegates arrived yesterday afternoon and are quartered at the Knutsford. They are Sol Luna, of Los Lunas; H. W. Kelly, of Las Vegas; W. S. Prager, of Roswell; H. P. Lee, of Albuquerque; T. J. White, of Roswell, and J. H. Reddon, of Liberty.

The hotels are beginning to realize that this is to be a stock convention held in this city tomorrow. Ever since Saturday night every train has brought in a host of delegates and visitors until by noon today it began to appear that the limits of the various hostleries were beginning to show symptoms of being severely overstrained. There are more coming and several thousand yet to be heard from.

The committee on arid lands held an informal discussion at the Knutsford last night. Owing to the fact that there was not a quorum present no business was transacted. Those present were: F. R. Gooding, of Idaho, who presided; E. P. Snow, of Wyoming; Jesse M. Smith, of Utah; Solomon Lunas, of New Mexico; E. S. Gosney, of Arizona; John P. Irish, of California; H. M. Dougherty, of Nebraska, of the committee, and President Springer and Secretary Martin, of the association.

Here is a sample of the advance notices that are being received by wire from the various delegations by Chairman Leary. This one is signed by G. W. Ballantine, general manager of the Denver Union Stockyards: "Just been fired through the Grand canyon of the Arkansas. If you love us, head us off before we hit the lake."

The following delegations have secured headquarters at the Kenyon: The St. Joe delegation has two parlors and four suites; the Kansas delegation has four suites; Mallory & Co., of Chicago, and Omaha, have one parlor and eight suites; Matt Daugherty, for the Omaha club, has two suites, and the Black Hills delegation has headquarters.

The Idaho delegation has chosen the Cullen as its headquarters.
There are now over 400 head of fancy stock comfortably quartered in the stalls at the Exposition grounds. They are beauties and consist of the finest lot of animals that have ever been on exhibition in Salt Lake City.

Matt Daugherty, of Sidney, Neb., a member of the Nebraska delegation, says that his State is going to make the effort of its life to secure the next meeting of the convention at Omaha.
The California delegation is at the Knutsford. It includes Col. John P. Irish and W. Mayo Newhall, of San Francisco; John Gilchrist, of Oakland, and F. C. Lusk, of Chico, who was appointed by the governor.

The hackmen in this city are already beginning to reap a golden harvest from the visitors. It begins already to look as though there were not enough vehicles of this description in the city to accommodate the stockmen who have a marked antipathy to walking anywhere.

The attention of all delegates to the National Live Stock Convention is called to the special announcement of the "News" on another page.
