Besignating Thursday, November the 29th, as the Day for Showing Gratitude to Almighty.

Governor Wells has issued the folowing proclamation designating Thursday, the 29th inst., Thanksgiving

Therefore, I, Heber M. Wells, Governor of the State of Utah, by virtue of authority vested in me by law, do hereby proclaim the said Thursday, the 29th day of November, 1900, a legal holiday in this State, and do recommend its observance by the people as a day of general thanksgiving to the Almighty for the innumerable mercles and bless-ings He has showered upon us during this, the closing year of the nineteenth

"No portion of the Union has received greater manifestations of the divine goodness than our own beloved commonwealth; no people should be more appreciative of the divine favor and guidance than the people of Utah Let us put away our secular affairs on that day and, meeting in our places of worship and in our homes, by public and private devotion, demonstrate the gratitude of our hearts for the rich abundance which is ours; and in our evotions let us not forget to minister to the sick and the afflicted, to relieve the wants of the poor and the unfortu-nate, and to lift up the hearts of those who mourn, by words of cheer and deeds of kindness."

FUNERAL HELD AT PROVO.

Large Congregation is Addressed by Prest Geo. Q. Cannon, and Elders Smith, Smoot, Farr and Others.

fSPECIAL TO THE "NEWS."] Provo, Nov. 20 .- The last rites over the remains of the late President Edward Partridge were solemnized yesterday afternoon. Many friends of the deceased were present from various parts of the State and county to pay their tribute of respect to the departed and his family, and in spite of very disagreeable weather the attendance at the services was large.

The funeral procession formed at the residence at 12:30 o'clock and proceeded to the Tabernacle in the following orer: Elders David John and S. L. hipman, counselors to President Partidge in the Stake presidency; mempers of the High Priests' quorum, mem-pers of the High Council, who acted as pall bearers, hearse bearing the re-mains, relatives and intimate friends, uorums of the Priesthood, general pub-

At the Tabernaele the speakers' stand was draped in white, and flowers and ootted plants were tastefully arranged, and on the handsome white casket were any floral offerings from friends of President Partridge and family.

On the stand were: President George Q, Cannon, Apostle Reed Smoot, Patri-arch John Smith, Elder Lorin Farr, Elders D. John and S. L. Chipman; and members of the High Council, Bishops, Governor Wells Issues a Proclamation to the People of Utah, and other prominent men of the Stake. The choir sans: "Thou Doest not Weep to Weep Alone, etc." Prayer was offered by Elder M. L.

Pratt. 'Rest, rest for the weary soul," etc.,

was sung by the choir.
Patriarch Smith spoke briefly of the early acquaintance which had existed between the departed and himself in 1839 and in a spirit of love and affection he spoke of President Partridge as one of God's chosen servants, one who had not erred or made any mistake, according to the knowledge he had possessed. The speaker invoked the blessing of the Lord upon the family of President Partridge, and all the Saints, that they might be worthy to meet him beyond

Elder Lorin Farr also spoke of his acquaintance with President Partridge. and of his acquaintance with Bishop Partridge and his wife, parents of the parted, for all of whom he held the highest regard, knowing that they were a family whose integrity and love for the truth could not be surpassed. The departed had been a model man, who needed no eulogy. He had gone to the spirit world, where he could accomplish a greater work than he could perform here. His family had cause to feel pleased that they were united with such man as Elder Partridge had been. Elder Farr quoted some of the sayings of the Prophet Jospeh Smith in reference to the dead and their condition in beyond, and expressed gratitude that the deceased had filled his mission honorably and had gone to his reward.

Sister Emma John Knudsen sang: "Take up thy cross, and follow me," in response to a wish expressed by President Partridge in his lifetime.

Apostle Smoot prefaced his remarks by reading the blographical sketch of President Partridge, published in Sat-urday's "News" He said he had learned to love President Partridge, in the years in which they had worked together in the Stake presidency, he had become acquainted with the man and with his object in life, which the speaker had ever found to be high and noble. President Partridge had been conscientious and earnest in all his labors; he had been born of goodly parents, had learned 'Mormonism' in his youth, and had no other desire than to erform all his duties in the church. He had expressed himself before and during his last illness as being ready to go to his reward, and had felt joy in the thought that he had so ordered his life that he was not ashamed to meet his Maker or his friends who have passed

Elder Smoot spoke highlyof the many noble qualities of President Partridge and his good example, and spoke of the pleasure and satisfaction it gave him (the speaker) to know that all the child-ren of President Partridge were faithfollowing in the footsteps of their father, which would insure them a place by their father's side when called to leave this life.

Elder Smoot then read the following telegram ! Fillmore, Utah, Nov. 19., 1900.

"Eider David John, Provo, Utah: "The intelligence of the death of President Partridge has reached us, and we beg to tender you and his noble family our heartfelt sympathy. He was known by us as one of God's noblemer

Elder David John testified to the truth of the many good things that had been said by Elder-Smoot and the other quakers, and to the love union which had characterized the bors of the presidency of the Stake during President Partridge's connecon with the quorum. He also spoke the resignation with which the deeased had met death, and of his de-ire that his funeral should be con-

without ostentation. Elder Stephen L. President Geo, Q.
