Progress Toward the End is Gained Through Development in Accordance With Divine Law,

The large congregation that assembled at the tabernacle yesterday afternoon was addressed by Elder Joshua

H. Paul, who chose for his text the words of the Savior, as recorded in Matt. v; 48: "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." The services were presided over by President John R. Winder. The invocation and benediction were offered by Elders Seymour B. Young and President Anthon H. Lund, respect-ively, and the selections rendered by the choir were "Glorious things of Thee are spoken," "O My Father," and "Rouse, Oh, Ye Mortals."

ELDER PAUL'S REMARKS.

His subject at the services in the taber-nacle will be "The Eve of a New Spir-itual Era." itual Era." On the evenings of the week fol-lowing Mr. Mills will give a series of free lectures at Barratt hall on "The Modern World" and the "Ser-mon on the Mount." In this series Mr. Mills explains his new philosophy and his new religion. On week day afternoons Mr. Mills will give a se-ries of lectures on the Bhagavad Gita, at Unity hall, which will constitute an exposition of the Vedanta philos-ophy. "Rouse, Oh, Ye Mortais." ELDER PAUL'S REMARKS. Referring to the text Indicated, Elder Paul said in part: "This passage of Scripture seems to be, to the Christian world, a stumbling block, a veritable rock of offense, and the misapplication or misunderstanding of this particular passage has been, in its way, as fruitful of evil and lack of progress in the Christian generations as perhaps any other one idea which has taken posses-sion of the minds of men. Many Chris-tians, referring to this passage, have asked the question: 'How is it possible for man to be perfect.'' Who can meet such a requirement?' And as they pro-ceeded to reason upon it they came to the conclusion that the divine law is impossible for us to fulfill and that we are saved, if at all, by the grace of God and not by anything which we may do or try to do for ourselves. Many passages have been interpreted to show that there is none perfect sive God, and because of the various passages of scripture which were misunderstood, it was easy for the early fathers of the church to come to the conclusion that the divine law requires something which men cannot do, and the idea as it was dwelt upon and preached came to be a fixed conviction in the Christian consciousness of early days—that man as descirbed by the Scriptures but that he is a degraded being, and that unless is a degraded being, and that unless is a degraded being, and that unless is a described by the Scriptures but that he is a degraded being, and that unless is a described by the Scriptures but that he is a degraded being, and that unless is a described by the Scriptures but that he is a degraded being and that unless is a described by the Scriptures but that he is a degraded being and that unless is a described by the Scriptures but that he is a degraded being and that unless is a described by the Scriptures but that he is a degraded being and that unless is a described by the Scriptures but that he is a degraded being and that unless i Opty. Mr. Mills comes to Salt Lake under no particular auspices but was in-vited to speak here by both the Mor-mon and the Unitarian churches. He comes from San Francisco, where he has been lecturing to large audiences for two weeks at Golden Gate hall. Benjamin Fay Mills is a man who has had a remarkable career. He first came into prominence as an evangelist more than twenty years ago when he became a rival in the successfulness of his meetings to Dwight L. Moody. He made thousands of converts to orthodox churches. He occupied the largest auditoriums in the largest cities and hundreds were turned from the doors. It came to be a part of the regular program in most cities to close business for an entire day in the middle of the weck and the term "mid-week" Sabbath, originated by Mr. Mills is still in use.

LANDS BECAME BENIGHTED.

"As Christianity spread over Europe, there descended upon those lands which are regarded as the most civilized of the nations today, a cloud of supersti-tion and ignorance, and because of misunderstandings, these very Christian countries became the darkest and most benighted. It was related how men who had in mind this idea of the sinful-Christian who had in mind this idea of the simil-ness of man, started to devise ways by which they could atone for this sinful-ness. They withdrew from the society of the world, lived as hermits and monks, denying themselves the pleas-ures incident to life, and even scourging and torturing themselves."

IDEA OF PROGRESS.

The speaker showed the effect of this theory in comparison with the beautiful teachings of the Prophet Joseph Smith that 'as man now is God once was, and as God now is man may be." Elder Paul discoursed at length upon this thought, showing that perfection is within the reach of man, if he will do the will of the Father and progress in accordance with divine law, striving at all times for true growth and develop-ment. This progress is not limited to this life, but man will rise in the resur-rection endowed with the truth and knowledge he gained through study and The speaker showed the effect of this rection endowed with the truth and knowledge he gained through study and experience in mortality, then will he continue his growth and development in accordance with the plan provided by the Father for the eternal progression of man, in righteousness before Him. The speaker considered briefly certain phases of perfection, as well as certain conditions that tend toward the devel-opment of man, illustrating the inopment of man, illustrating the in-fluence of obstacles met and overcome. In the course of his remarks, Elder Paul recited several beautiful verses bearing upon the subject. this Daily Telegram of Long Beach, Cal., of recent date, for a feat of swimming performed by the little tot. The Daily Telegram says: "An unusual feature was introduced in the course of Prof. Hans Vockeroh's exhibition of fancy swimming and div-ing at the bathouse Saturday after-noon. Emerson Root, the 6-year-old son of a lady who recently came from the east, has been taking lessons from Mr. Vockeroh for a short time and has made such advancement that his instructor decided to give him an op-portunity to show before a crowd what he could do. "The little chap lumped from the top platform at the west end of the plunge and swam to the east end of the pool, on the cement curb. The great crowd cheered him lustily, and his mother, standing at the east end of the plunge, clapped her hands produly, too, as the 6-year-old sturdily completed the long swim." BOMBS FROM RIVAL CAMPS.

Rumors in the Air of Charges and Counter Charges Involving Friends And Foes of Rival Factions.

Jake Raleigh will be assailed from every quarter tonight in the council hamber, L. J. Wood, "American" member from the Second ward, is about to charge Jake with doing about everything there is in the category of wrongdoing. Jake says he will be glad to have the charges filed in the open and to have an opportunity to meet them. Jake says he can prove himself inno-cent of every charge, because he says his official record is a credit to him and his party. Further than this, Jake has intimated that he has his sleeve filled with little matters in which the name intimated that he has his sleeve filled with little matters in which the name of Councilman Wood and others will appear and that following his exonera-tion he will spring them. SENSATIONS PROMISED.

Intimations are being freely made in and about the city and county building that when matters get well under way there are those "on the inside" who will spring some sensations. Among the bombs that are to be hurled from rival camps into the others are charges that will involve members of the present camps into the others are charges that will involve members of the present and past city councils. Some of the charges may say that money has been paid for votes. There is a hint of a rich story involving the purchase of the vot-ing machines. There are all sorts of obscure hints that the persons who are promising to spring the sensations will be able to prove their statements.

PRELIMINARY EVENT

But the council will probably hear none of this tonight. The only sensa-tional feature is the promised attack of Wood on Raleigh and Atkins. The streets committee will also make its re-port on the Atkins matter, if present plans carry, and there will be a lively session if nothing further comes up.

The routine matters will probably be The routine matters will probably be "tame." There is one, however, that may not. The minority may call up the Jim Taylor matter. However, President Davis being out of the city with Coun-cilman L. D. Martin, deprives the "American" side of the house of two votes. Councilman Oliver Hodgson may also be absent and this would leave an also be absent and this would leave an insufficient number of opposing mem-bers to take the action the motion to reconsider contemplated.

Honor, reverence and money were all piled upon him. He was sought after by churches in all the parts of the world. But he began to see some things which he thought did not en-tirely justify the creeds and dogmas of the churches for which he was working. One of the first things he did to break away from orthodoxy was to take part in the congress of religions at the Chicago world's fair. Moody had been asked to speak, but refused because of the many pagans who were to appear. Mr. Mills' address on 'Jesus, Savior of the World,' took the audience of 12,000 people by storm. The audience went into a frenzy of enthusiasm and for some time the progress of the congress was interrupted. The independence of thought which led Mr. Mills into this congress led him into a study of the religions of the world, and he soon began to rec-ognize the good in all of them. He agreed to preach in Edward Everett Hale's church in Boston, and this took him a little farther out of the orthodox evangelism. Finding no particular institution exactly suited to his new convictions and beliefs. Mr. Mills retired to Los Angeles four years ago and began to work out an expression of his religion in an organization known as The Fel-lowship. He staretd a magazine, Fellowship, and in January he started on a national tour to preach a religion of love and fellowship in the new evangelism of liberal reli-gion.
