Zion's Savings Bank Building,

NO. 1, 3, 5 EAST TEMPLE ST.

HISTORY.

ZION'S SAVINGS BANK & TRUST COMPANY was organized August 18, 1875. A meeting for the purpose of considering the subject of the formation of such a Bank was held at the President's Office, July 1st, 1875, President Brigham Young acting as chairman. At that meeting the name now borne by the institution was adopted and the articles of association considered. The organization was perfected by George A. Smith being elected president. On death of President Smith, he was succeeded by George W. Wallace, and he in turn by President John Taylor. President Woodruff, who was one of the original incorporators, and at that time elected a director, succeeded President Taylor as President of the bank, and holds that position at present. The present officers are:

DIRECTORS.

Wilford Woodruff, president; George Q. Cannon, vice-president; Joseph F. Smith, Lorenzo Snow, Franklin M. Lyman, Heber J. Grant, Ammon H. Lees, Almon D. Cannon, T. O. Woodruff, James Jack, H. B. Clegg, George Reynolds, L. G. Hardy, George M. Cannon, cashier.

OBJECTS IN FORMATION OF THE BANK.

In all communities of intelligent human beings the birth of the mass of wealth, and the accumulation of wealth, every year for the future is shown. Among those who are addicted to the use of paper or the use of credit, habits all restraint and self sacrifice for future happiness or the happiness of those dependent upon them is thrown aside for the pleasure of present gratification. This is a natural result of the growth of society and civilization. With this knowledge before them, the original Incorporators of Zion's Savings Bank felt that in a short time such an institution would be a most important addition to the community, and save losses. Statistics show that wherever a bank is located it is a great source of wealth.

The growth of the bank has shown that its operations were not mistaken. More than 10,000 people have deposited their wages, or their wealth, in our bank, and are still doing so to-day. The bank receives deposits in our bank from one dollar up to $1000, and in quantity, or four times each year. If this interest is not drawn when due it is added to the principal, and extra interest from that time as if it were an original deposit. You can understand what a little saved each day of each week places at your disposal. The bank receives deposits weekly for fifty weeks and places at your disposal $5000 dollars, which is enough to live on for a month. In addition the bank receives deposits quarterly, or four times each year, and at the end of that time leaves the depositor a sum greater than that left by any of the present citizens of Utah at time of his death.

ZION'S SAVINGS BANK & TRUST COMPANY, since its organization, has been a great and useful service to those who are full of energy and ambition.

Second. To pay the highest rate of interest coincident with conservative banking.

Third. The accommodation of those who are busy until after usual banking hours. The bank is open for deposits every Sunday and 1/2 hour. In addition the institution has strong and ornamental auxiliary savings bank, safe deposit boxes, and when they are allowed to take house with them, returning same to the parent bank when they are to be opened to deposit their savings.

A Japanese Society.

There are so many English people who have visited Japan or who have fallen in love with it from reading the enlarged pages of Mr. E. B. T. Arnold, Mr. X. R. and others, that the society which is to come into existence for the encouragement of the study of Japanese art, science and industries, of the cinema-metre and frames, the social life, the literature, the language, history and customs of the Japanese, might be a success.

Considering the present interest in Japan, the group, with no lack of comprehension, for almost any one of the subjects enumerated would be sufficient to keep an ordinary society going.

The remaining members, constituting and maintaining the society, will be the country, vis-a-vis Japan. Dr. W. Anderson and Professors Church, as well as those of leading Japanese residents in England. Very shortly, the headquarters of the society are to be at 10, New Bond Street, in London. Liverpool and Glasgow, for the present, are more anxious to spread a knowledge of Japan abroad than the Japanese government.—London Chronicle.

A Fair Place to Be In.

It is not a place to live in, nor anywhere else, unless within reach of a doctor, and another should be available with the physician at a remote side of the sea. On a Thursday morning recently the inhabitants of Great Meadon, a large and populous village, were greatly alarmed by a fire which began in a single dwelling, a timbered house, situated in a quiet street. The fire was blinding and the smoke rising high above could be seen miles away.

On that evening a physician accompanied by a nurse, a woman and a boy, reached the village in a flying ambulance.

Fifteen of the sick individuals were sent to the hospital and kept in a quiet room, while the rest were sent to the doctor, the Rev. Mr. Hartshorn, and his wife. They were all rapidly killed excepting the physician, who managed to get away. All the women were dead.

A most unfortunate accident was never known. There is not a single nail or piece of timber in the building which the physician, Rev. Mr. Hartshorn, did not touch. Not only the building, but the garden, the fence around it and even the trees were destroyed.

The doctor, Rev. Mr. Hartshorn, was a man of great tact and skill, and his efforts in saving the lives of the patients were successful. The physician, Rev. Mr. Hartshorn, was a man of great tact and skill, and his efforts in saving the lives of the patients were successful.
