

BIG MUTINY IN FEDERAL PRISON.

One Man Killed, Three Wounded,
Twenty-Six Convicts Escape.

OCCURS AT LEAVENWORTH.

Secured Two Secreted Revolvers and Attacked Guard—Armed Guards in Pursuit of the Escaped.

Leavenworth, Kan., Nov. 7.—One man was killed, three others dangerously wounded and twenty-six desperate convicts are at large, as a result of a mutiny late this afternoon at the site of the new United States prison two miles southeast of here, where 400 prisoners from the federal prison, in charge of thirty armed guards, were at work.

When the trouble began the rebellious prisoners had only two revolvers. These revolvers had been secreted in one of the walls of the building by some unknown person. There are two walls partly completed and the rest of the site of the building is surrounded by a high wooden stockade.

Gus Parker of Ardmore, I. T., one of the ringleaders of the mutiny, under pretense of a necessity, walked to the corner of the stockade, where the convicts were concealed, and, under cover of some weeds, secured them without being detected. He returned to the gang and passed one of the revolvers to Frank Thompson, a negro from South McAlester, I. T., who secreted it about the prison.

When E. Hinds, superintendent of construction, and three unarmed guards prepared to round up the men at the end of the day's work, the two convicts covered them by the other two revolvers and, encouraged by the mutinous convicts, forced the men to walk before them toward the northwest corner of the stockade, where they expected to make a rush through an opening.

The outside of the stockade was guarded by armed men, and when the convicts appeared at the opening they were met by C. E. Burrows, a guard, who fought them back but who received two shots in the neck.

The convicts then rushed over to the south wall to another opening, and were met by Arthur Treford, an armed guard who is in charge of all the convicts. Treford resisted the convicts and was shot twice, but not dangerously wounded.

Defeated in their attempt to escape at this point, the men rushed to the guardhouse, a temporary frame structure, where the arms were kept. The guards from the outside rushed in at this point and drove the convicts away from the guardhouse. J. P. Waldrup, a guard, shot and killed Ford Quinn, from Ryan, I. T.

Twenty prisoners then made a grand rush for the main entrance, and twenty-six of them succeeded in escaping. Most of the escaped men are from the Indian territory. Closely followed by the guard, the men ran to a nearby forest and succeeded in evading their pursuers.

The men went in the direction of Easton, Kan., and it is reported here that they have held up many farmers, riding horses and clothes on route. Max B. W. McClellan, warden of the penitentiary, was in Kansas City at the time of the outbreak making arrangements for the congress of prison wardens to be held there next week.

T. B. Waldrup, shot in the head, and is in a precarious condition. C. E. Burrows, shot twice in the neck, serious.

Arthur Treford, shot in the leg, slight.

Andrew Leonard, broken leg. He was hurt as the prisoners were escaping through the main entrance of the stockade.

One of the fugitives, named Otter, tried to shoot, but he was able to go with the others, and the extent of his injury is unknown.

The convicts, in their flight, compelled F. E. Hinds, superintendent of construction, to go with them, and he was not allowed to return until they had gone almost two miles. W. F. Peaslee, one of the fugitives, who has but fifteen months more to serve, deserted the band a few moments after sunset. Hinds was released.

The two men reached here almost the same time. They reported that the fugitives, after holding a consultation, decided that they would form themselves into several small parties, so that some might escape through others should be captured. It is the intention of all of them to attempt to reach the rough country southeast of here.

Twenty-four members of the Fourth cavalry hastened to the scene of the trouble, but when they arrived the convicts had escaped and the soldiers could not participate in the chase without orders from their superiors.

Forty armed guards from the federal prison are in pursuit of the fugitives. Twenty-five men are in the prison hospital.

To Boycott British Trade.

New York, Nov. 8.—The Amsterdam dockers, says the Brussels correspondent of the London Times and the New York Times, stick to their idea of boycotting British commerce. A meeting of political and other societies was called by them to discuss measures to help the work of propaganda. The meeting passed a resolution that a committee be appointed to decide on means to help the dockers morally and financially "should the proposed boycott enter into a practical phase of action."

FRANCO-TURKISH DISPUTE.

Attempt in England to Work up a Scare Over It.

New York, Nov. 8.—According to the London correspondent of the Tribune in some quarters there is an endeavor to promote a scare over the dispute between France and Turkey. The Express says it is impossible not to connect Lord Rosebery's resolve to re-open public life with the descent by France upon Mytilene, while some of the Berlin papers consider France's action a direct challenge to England and a set-off to Fashoda. In the leading articles of the principal journals in this country, a trace of nervousness is certainly noticeable, but not much serious attention is paid to the hints from Germany that the interests of England are gravely compromised. The view is that England is not likely to suffer should France insist upon Turkey fulfilling her legitimate obligations.

RUSSO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE.

Basis Would be a Free Russian
Hand in Manchuria.

New York, Nov. 8.—The Tokyo correspondent of the London Times and the New York Times says the leading Japanese journals have been earnestly discussing the overtures to Russian newspapers looking toward a Russian alliance with Japan. The proposed basis of the arrangement is that the Tokyo government refrain from all measures impeding Russia in Manchuria. Russia, in return, would pledge herself to leave a free hand to Japan in Korea, but Russia should be allowed to appropriate a convenient naval station in southern Korea.

None of the Japanese journals approve of the plan, the papers objecting that two powers cannot divide supremacy in the far east. They also oppose the proposal as pointing to the permanent absorption of Manchuria by Russia.

The Times correspondent says Japan wants Korea to remain Korean but also wants the world to recognize that Japan's interests there are too vital to allow her to remain an inactive spectator of Korea's absorption by another power.

During the past two months the companies owning oil producing property in Kern county have held meetings and considered the propositions of the Associated oil company. The work of appraising the oil land and improvements was completed last week, the aggregate being between $21,000,000 and $22,000,000. The only remaining question is that of the relative valuations of the valuations of the properties absorbed are paid for with the stocks and bonds of the Associated Oil company.

SCHLEY COURT OF INQUIRY CLOSED.

Capt. Lemly Presents Side of Navy Department.

NO MORE PUBLIC SESSIONS.

Never Thought for a Moment That Admiral Was a Coward, But That
He Was Unsteady of Purpose.

Washington, Nov. 7.—After sittings covering forty days and with a record which, when completed, will cover 2000 pages, the Schley court of inquiry, at 2:45 this afternoon, adjourned its last public session. To Capt. S. C. Lemly, the judge-advocate, had been assigned the duty of making the closing argument in the case, and soon after he had finished his speech, Admiral Dwyer, bringing his gavel down on the big flat table, said: "There being no further business, the court is adjourned."

As was the case yesterday when Mr. Raynor spoke, the attendance was large. There was only one session during the day. It began at 2 o'clock, and the entire time was taken up with Capt. Lemly's address. He read his speech in clear and distinct tones and was given careful attention. The speech in the main was an analysis of the testimony, but occasionally a conclusion was drawn, and frequently there was criticism of the course pursued by Admiral (then Commodore) Schley.

SCHLEY'S COURSE CRITICISED.

Speaking of Commodore Schley's conduct, Capt. Lemly said: "From my knowledge of the man, having served under him as commander on two cruises, I have never believed, nor do I claim from the evidence that personal misconduct, or to call a spade a spade, cowardice was exhibited by Commodore Schley in any part of his career as commander-in-chief of the flying squadron. But I submit with respect that in the passage from Key West to Cienfuegos, while at the latter port, en route to the southward of Santiago without settled destination, in the retrograde movement, in the return to the vicinity of Santiago, and in the affair of May 31, the commodore exhibited unsteadiness in purpose and in push and failure to obey orders."

This statement was made toward the close of Capt. Lemly's remarks. After the adjournment, the members of the court, Admiral Schley and counsel lingered for a time about the hall in which they recently have spent so much of their time, and there were many affectionate words of farewell spoken. Admiral Schley, as usual, was called upon to receive the greetings of a number of admirers, and a hundred or more people waited at the door of the hall to bid him adieu.

LEMLY READS ARGUMENT.

Capt. Lemly used no formality in beginning his address when the court convened, but rising quietly from his seat opposite the tribunal, began to read. He said at the outset that his plan contemplated first a response to certain statements of Admiral Schley's counsel, and then a presentation of the subject in hand on an independent basis. He requested to be corrected if he should make any errors of facts. He then entered upon a careful analysis of the testimony brought out at the hearing.

M'CALLA SIGNALS.

Referring to the McCalla signals, he said it was clear that the Maribhead had not arrived at Key West when the flying squadron sailed, and therefore that these signals could not have been communicated to Commodore Schley there. "There is little doubt, however," he said, "that if the commodore had upon meeting the Maribhead, directed Commander McCalla to report on board the flagship he would have been fully informed as to the signals, notwithstanding the material effect of which it is impossible to overestimate."

Continuing in this connection, he said: "It matters not what Capt. Sigbee or Pilot Nunez told Commodore Schley. If Nunez is correct there is no greater reason than when before this court, the information he supplied should have been given little weight. Whatever opinion he may have given #### the commodore as to the presence of the Spanish squadron in the harbor of Santiago (and I believe that the captain never said that the Spanish fleet was not there), the commodore was alone responsible for the retrograde movement. It was his duty to ascertain to a certainty whether the Spanish ships were in the harbor, an obligation which no negative information of Capt. Sigbee could remove or even modify. And it is inconceivable that a positive statement as to the contents of a harbor of the well known conformation of Santiago could have been made by Sigbee."

DETAILS REHEARSED.

The details of the retrograde movement were rehearsed as were those concerning the delivery of the dispatches by the Harvard, and the proffer of Lieut. Beale to go ashore and communicate with the Cuban insurgents. Capt. Lemly contended that the dispatch conveying positive information of the presence of the Spaniards must have been delivered to Commodore Schley notwithstanding his denial, because he considered it "inconceivable that having it, Capt. Cotton should have not communicated its contents to the commodore."

RETURN TO SANTIAGO.

Bringing the squadron back to Santiago, the judge-advocate said that nothing was done toward attacking the enemy until the 31st of May, when the reconnaissance or bombardment was made, the total time of all firing then being three minutes and thirty-five seconds. The Colon was not destroyed or disabled; and with the possible exception of one shot, all fell short. Only three vessels of the fleet available were employed in this affair. It has been claimed that the object of this affair of May 31 was to develop the enemy's batteries, and that this was accomplished.

"There is, however, a great deal of doubt in view of the varying signals and statements made by the commodore, both before and after the action as to what was the real object, whether a reconnaissance or an attempt to destroy the Colon."

BATTLE OF JULY 3.

Coming to the battle of July 3, Capt. Lemly said: "I have never doubted and the evidence advanced confirms my view in this respect, that the Brooklyn as a ship, did conspicuous duty in this battle. On the other hand I submit that the evidence shows that it was a captain's fight, and without disparagement of Commodore Schley's personal conduct on that occasion, that there was no such concerted action of the vessels as to indicate their control by any one person. All evidently strove to do their utmost, and thus was accomplished one of the greatest naval victories ever won. Of course, the vessel stood in toward the harbor entrance when it was discovered that the enemy's vessels were making a sortie. Such was not only their prescribed du-

Will Celebrate Hugo's Birthday.

New York, Nov. 8.—The government has decided to celebrate the 100th anniversary of Victor Hugo's birth by a national commemoration, says the Paris correspondent of the Tribune. There will be imposing ceremonies in which all French writers, painters, sculptors, dramatic and lyric artists are to participate.

British Trade Still Declines.

New York, Nov. 8.—British trade returns for October show a further decline in the volume of the nation's commerce, says the Tribune's London representative. There is a drop of $750,000 in exports as compared with October, 1900, while ten months of the year give a diminution of nearly $10,000,000. The fall in the last month was due mainly to the diminished value of the coal exported. In metals, machinery and new ships there is a considerable decrease, which is balanced by a great increase in the value of textile exports. Imports show a marked reduction, of no less than $4,000,000. The general impression produced by the figures is that trade is distinctly on the down grade.

"Last winter an infant child of mine had croup in a violent form," says Elder John W. Rogers, a Christian Evangelist, of Filadelfia, Mo. This remedy not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the first symptoms appear, will prevent the attack. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by all Druggists.
