The office of the Bean Mill and Lumber company at Bean, Nevada, was entered on Saturday night by burglars, who, with a charge of common black powder, blew the safe door all to pieces and secured about $60. The explosion aroused the watchers at both ends of the route. There is no clew to the robbers.

The oldest telegraph operators in San Francisco are said. John Lonnis, one of the oldest operators in the state, died on Saturday morning. He was 67 years of age and had been actively engaged in the telegraphing business in California and on the Pacific slope for forty-two years. He was one of the first to start a operating room in San Francisco, and was engaged by the old California State Telegraph company when it started in 1853. Lonnis was also the first operator in California to send by south. For many years he was connected with the Western Union Telegraph company.

A gentleman of Atlanta, Idaho, arrived in Boise City, Idaho, reports an accident which happened recently to an Atlanta lad named Charles Graham. Last week he went hunting in the mountain canyons, and while looking for deer was caught by a large snowslide and carried down the mountain side for fully half a mile. The avalanche was started, it was supposed, by the report of his gun. At the place where the accident happened the mountain is so steep that it is almost impassable. After lying in the snow and debris for eleven hours he was rescued by a party from Atlanta and was brought home, partially frozen and almost blind, on a hand sled. He is still in a precarious condition. Gustave Hilzer was killed in a snowslide about four years ago.

John Burke, of Tacoma, banker, merchant and capitalist, with interests all over the northwest, has arrived at Spokane, Wash., in charge of Deputy United Sheriff Hugh Boyle, having been indicted by the Spokane grand jury on a charge of aiding a prisoner to escape. The offense with which Burke is charged occurred at the Pacific hotel, Spokane, July 15, 1893, when Wm. Mackey, a mining promoter, was lured, and Deputy United Sheriff Whitney shortly was severely wounded, while Burke had his party and each by using his skill a gun. Burke and two other deputies arrived in Spokane on their way to Colfax, having in charge Ed Hanlin, a notorious horse thief and Mackey's assailant. Mackey and Burke met the party at the depot and accompanied them to the hotel. They had no sooner entered the room than Burke turned out the light and continued to turn it out when the officers neighed it. Hanlin then pulled Mackey down and Burke to leave, when Mackey pulled a gun, which the deputies took from him. Burke then drew a hand in the struggle and fired another point to Mackey's left hand, when the latter began shooting, hitting Hanlin twice while Burke and the officer. Burke then hurried to the hotel, followed by Mackey, who was met with a pistol. Mackey was killed. Hanlin's wife witnessed the tragedy. Owing to Burke's prestige the case against him was not pushed, and after several months he got off with a five thousand dollar bail. The present grand jury is the first which has convened here since the tragedy occurred. Hanlin escaped from the penitentiary a few months ago and is still at large.

Mrs. Mary Smith, who styles herself the "trumpet medium," is about to have a rude fall. She met the 17 spirits set for by her friend, Mrs. Mary Lennon, the old lady who died in Alameda, Cal. Rudolf Orell, a cousin of the deceased, has made a new move in the contest and has an additional complaint in court wherein she makes broader charges against the persons to those originally made. Dr. William Jeffers, a nephew of the deceased, has just arrived from Indianapolis and has employed attorneys to make a contest on his behalf. He is to pass to allege that will is by undue influence was used by the medium. It is charged that Mrs. Smith claimed to be a spiritualist medium and stated that she was able, through the agency of spirits, to communicate with the dead of various mediums in Baltimore and others, to send to the dead to her presence and obtain messages and communications from them. These messages sent to be read by the dead. Lonnis, and the family believed that they came from the spirit land. It is asserted in the complaint that Mrs. Smith is not only a medium, but she is a consistent and by profession, and that at various times she used her powers on Mrs. Lennon successfully that the latter gave Mrs. Smith a property. It is said that Mrs. Smith did many things in order to weaken the mind of the old lady so that she could obtain her estate. The new move is because some very strong charges against the medium. Mrs. Neal says the court is not aside the deed executed by Mrs. Smith by Mrs. Lennon on the ground of fraud.
