Washington, 23.—There has been considerable discussion lately in the newspapers and elsewhere, as to whether the Bourbons should go to the rear or come to the front under Cleveland's administration. Southern Senators and Representatives generally seem to have confidence that they will be fairly recognized, not only in the formation of the Cabinet, but in the distribution of the Federal patronage in the Southern States. The views of Senator Butler, of South Carolina, who was a Confederate officer, and who has been elevated since the war as a type of the irreconcilable, irreclaimable and unregenerate red-shirted Bourbon, are a fair expression of the opinions held by the great majority of Southern Senators and Representatives in Congress. to Pry Into Futurity. Southern Senators and Representatives in Congress.

Senator Butler said: I have the utmost confidence in President Cleveliand's giving the South the political recognition to which she is entitled. The South does not demand one cabinet officer, or two, or say other number. She does not demand anything. I presume, when Governor Cleveland gets reay to make up his cabinet, its members will not be all taken from the East, or the West, or the South. Each geographical division will he given the representation to which it is fairly entitled. The South will make no immodest nor inordinate requests. The Southern people pay their proportion of the taxes and bear their share of the burdens and responsibilities of the burdens and responsibilities of the government. They would like their share of its honors and emoluments. I am perfectly contented to let the President determine What these honors and emoluments shall be. I see that some of the Northern newspapers say that under a democratic administration the South will control the Government. Gentlemen control the Government. Gentlemen who express such views pay the vast population, intelligence and wealth of the North a very poor compliment. Under ordinary circumstances one would hardly expect that the small population of the South should dominate the government and people of the North and West. This might come to pass in the event that men of competence and ability could not be found in the North, but I do not believe that the prophets to whom I have alluded would be willing to concede this to the possible."

Senator Jones of Florida said: "The South is a portion of the United States; her people are faithful and isw-abiding citizens, and no sensible man can doubt but that Governor Cleveland is aware of that fact. He will do what he believes to be just and fair towards the South, and the South will support his administration."

the South, and the South will support his administration."

A Southern representative of prominence said; "Nearly a quarter of a century has elapsed since the way, and the south has not had, in that time, one representative man in the Cabinet or in the Supreme Court. There is not to-day a representative Houtheyn man in the army or navy above the rank of lieutenant. We have been treated as though we were outcasts or members of foreign States. Our people expect recognition from President Cleveland. We do not ask nor expect, however, one whit more of consideration than would be given such a population or territory as ours situated in the north or west. The idea that the South will make demands is absurd. The President knows what is due the Bouth, and if we do not get all that some of our people imagine belongs to them, there will be no trouble. People from the North and West are sometimes disappointed. They bear their burdens philosophically. If we are alike unfortunate we will be calm."

Senator Lamar, of Mississippi, would think it an unbearable loss if no Cabinet officer should be chosen from the South. He, in common with a majority of the Southern men, think it is of the first importance that they should have the selection of the men to fill the federal offices in their respective States.

The admission of Dakota into the

G. F. Culmer & Co., Barnes & Davis, Moore, Allen & Co., E. Alf, S. P. Teasdel, Geo. M. Scott & Co., Cunnington & Co., Clark, Eldredge & Co., Sears & Liddle, The admission of Dakota into the Union is getting to be a more and more pressing question. The World's Washington special says: Successive Republican administrations have looked ington special says: Successive Republican administrations have looked upon the Territories as so much free range for impecunious, dishonest, incompetent and obnoxious members of their party that they felt obliged to take care of. The evils arising out of the appointment of disreputable citizens of States to hold responsible offices in the Territories have so repeatedly forced themselves upon the attention of the public that both parties in their national conventions at Chicago, last summer, felt obliged to make very positive declarations on the subject. But so strong a hold has the system got on even the present otherwise respectable administration that Arthur recently made a number of Territorial appointments that were in defiance of the resolution on that subject adopted by his party at their national convention. No better evidence could be addiced to show the imperative necessity of turning the republican party out of power than the fact that its best President sings Lincoln flads himself utterly unable ip spand the pressure of Territorial marauders.

After reviewing the lives of several Territorial Governors the World's correspondent proceeds: In these and the reward and proceeds in these same Territories till the new administration comes in and has an opportunity to clean out the vermin that now infest government offices in these same Territories? It is not believed that there is any pressing necessity for the adminision of Dakota; it has been too much bepured, and a collapse has come. The chimate has one product, wheat, and that is now selling out there for less than 50 cents a bushel. A regular stampede from the northern part of the Territory has set in; everybody is selling out who can get enough to go away with, and there is no prospect for improvement for years to come. It is a country fit only for Scandinavians, Russians and Esquimaux. It is sharing the fate of Nevada, that most ridiculous monument to unseemly haste in admitting a Territory into the Union, Nevada cast only 13,000 votes; yet it has as many senators as New York. It is actually decreasing in population, and I predict that Dakota will soon begin to go the same way. Intelligent

Albany, N. Y., 23.—At the reception of Gov. Cleveland to-day, all the counties in the State were represented. The time designated for the reception was between the hours of 9 and 12, but the guests were, in the main, late in arriving. After the reception and a collation, the President-elect received many congratulations. It was long after midnight before the last of the guests took their departure.

Whereling, W, V., 23.—The second horrible outrage and robbery by hooded burglars in the past three days has greatly excited the people of this city. On Sunday six masked men entered the house of Mrs. Workenur, and, after horribly beating the family, stole about $5,000 in gold. Last night four men, evidently of the same gang, broke into the nouse of Elijah Marling, a bachelor miser, and finding only $182 on his person, put him to the most horrible torture, to force him to reveal the hiding place of his gold. He was tied to a bedpost, stripped, and a red-hot poker applied to his back and thighs in no less than twenty places. Hot oil, was also poured down his back, and his misery and sufferings were terrible in the extreme. He evidently had no money concealed. In their anger at their failure, a burglar struck him a heavy blow on the head and left him hanging, insensible, in his own fastenings. He was found six hours later, nearly frozen and half dead, and his condition is dangerous. He is nearly $60 years of agg. The robbers work with seeming impunity, and all efforts to locate or capture them seem useless. The county constabulary is powerless, and dwellers in isolated houses are in constant dread. WHERLING, W. V., 23 .- The second CHEYENNE, 23.—Leader specials from all over the Territory indicate that the present is the first real cold wave of the season. At Fort McKinney, in the midst of a cattle region, it is 28 below, and snowing hard. The cattle are well prepared for the storm, and damage so far is slight, if any. Indications are that the weather is moderating.

Denver, 23.—Reports from the mountains show that the snowstorm which has been in progress for several days still continues; thus far without unnusual or serious lesults. The storm was most severe in Blue and Eagle river counties, where the snow is several feet deep and drifting. The mountain roads are considerably blockaded. It will probably be two or three days before the Salt Lake train will be able to make Marshall Pass. The weather in the mountains is warm, and indications are that the storm will soon break.

Portland, Ogu., 23.—The snow has considerable and the snow plays ancreeded. Winter in the Wide West.

Portland, Ogu., 23.—The snow has ceased, and the snow-plows succeeded in moving to-day. Sheuld there be uq additional snowfall, the blockage on the Northern Pacific will be broken Thursday afternoon, Anti-Mormon Mosting in Chicago, CHICAGO, 18.—A meeting was held here to-night to give expression to the sentiment of the city on the subject of Mormonism. Ex-Senator J. R. Doolittle presided. In opening the meeting he touched upon the Missauri troubles, the Danies and the Mountain Meadow Massacre.

Rev. Mr. McNeice, of Utah, said the Mormons claim the balance of power in idaho and Arizona, and that in Utah the Gentiles were practically disfranchised. chised.

Resolutions were passed calling on Congress to pass the anti-Mormon bill introduced by Senator Cullom.

She had "dreamed that she could hear and her busband had enchanted her by singing beautiful music." This dream and I predict that Dakota will soon begin to go the same way. Intelligent members of Congress are disgusted with the perpetual tales of rascality and dirty wrangling that come from the Territories, and with the ignorant and vulgar creatures that are almost universally sent as representatives of the Territories at Washington.

In another column a Texan writes the World from Washington: "The rads are trying to yank Dakota into the Umon. If they press the question too strongly, we will split Texas in the middle and make two States of her. We have 125,000 democratic majority, and enough population for another State."

Wedding of a Strange and Remarkable Pair.

There was a quiet but remarkable wedding in the city Sunday morning, but which was not written up in the society columns of the daily papers and which might not be aunounced now but for the most remarkable sequel. The contracting parties were Hugh Blackbern, aged 39, of Scotch parent-wed by the parties became acquainted at Yonkers; State." her parents seven years ago. The parties became acquainted at Yonkers; but in January, 1883, the Johansen family moved to Chicago and settled here and since then Mr. Blackbern has made several flying visits to the city. New York, 23.—Harrigan & Hart's Theatre Comique, on Broadway, opposite the New York hotel, was destroyed by fire this morning. The theatre cost $125,000; no insarance on the building or contents. The interior decorations of the theatre cost $00,000, and the scenery for the 'Majore,' which was the opening play in the new house cost $5,000. Since that time scenery for ten plays has been added, which increased the value of the stage settings to $75,000. Besides this, the mountings of Harrigan's new play, 'McAllister's Legacy,'' which cost $10,000, were in the house. Everything was lost. The insurance policy ran out a short time ago, and in the press of business its renewal had been neglected. The total loss by the fire will be about $200,000.

at Yonkers and in a short time will take his wife to the pretty home he has prepared for her there. Mrt. Blackbern was born with all her senses except that of speech. When a child she fell a victim to the typhoid fever, or some dreadful affliction like it. Up to this time she had been very diminutive for her age. When she recovered she was deaf and her brain was so impaired that she was pronounced a hopeless imbecile. After two years in an asylum, however, she completely recovered her reason, and she accumulated flesh so rapidly and grew so large that her parents could hardly believe that the person returned to them was really their O'ga. Deaf and dumb, as she was when the marriage was performed, the "best man" and the bridesmaid acted as interpreters, and the questions were put to her riage was performed, the "best man" and the bridesmaid acted as interpreters, and the questions were put to her in the finger language and her responses were communicated in the same way, Mr. Blackbern is, of course, an adept in this silent language, having been deaf and dumb himself in his early years, and the couple seemed to converse even more quickly than their relatives and friends, who possessed all the senses.

Consumption. He says: "A neighbor's wife was attacked with violent lung disease, and, and pronounced beyond help from Quick Consumption. As a last resort the family was presuaded to try DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. To the astonishment of all, by the time she had used one half dozen bottles she was about the house doing her own work. I saw her at her worst, and had no idea she could recover."

THE WONDERFUL MUSICIAN.

The wonderful Musician.

The mirable of the marriage remains to be told, and it is this that the relatives and friends are most elated over. Mr. Blackbern is a great lover of music. He can hum or whistle the most difficult pieces after hearing them once and never having learned to play any instrument, but constantly whistling he has become most proficient in the art. With his lips alone he produces the loudest and the lowest sounds, and by doubling up his two hands and placing them at his mouth plays notes as sweet as a flute. The airs of the old masters are all familiar to him, and he plays them with an effect at once surprising and thrilling. He has a medley of his own which he calls "Life at Last," and whether original or not it is most entertaining. Pathetic, sad and sweet, it is full of plaintive, exquisite melody and has a rollicking, joyful finale. On the Monday evening following the wedding the bride's parents gave a little social party, at which a dozen couples of friends were present. During the evening Mr. Blackbern was asked to whistle for the aompany and he did so. "Come, Haste to the wedding," Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," "Ever Bright and Fair," and numerous other things were given in fine style, greatly edifying those present except the bride. Deaf and dumb she knew nothing of mu lo, and could not hear if she did. Her husband was the center of attention for the time being, and no one was looking at her. He commenced his medley, "Life at Last," and as he proceeded a quick Moyement by his wife attracted attention to her. She had arisen, her eyes were sparkling with delight, and she was standing gazing on the musician with an attitude full of rapture.

THE PIRST EVIDENCE OF HEARING. As the sweet, sad airs changed from grief to walling and to dispair, her excitement increased, and ominous glances were exchanged between the parents and friends. It was feared that ther head was giving way again." parents and friends. It was feared that "her head was giving way again." The husband saw all this, and would have ceased but for a whispered word from the clergyman. The sweet notes centinued, and the company said they never had heard such music before. In the midst of the joyful finale Mrs. Blackburn, in an ecstacy of happiness, flung herself into the arms of her husband and kissed and caressed him like one mad. She muttered and danced and raved, and flugged and kissed him again. He was kind and affectionate to her in turn, but looked troubled and distressed, and it was evident that he shared the fears of the parents and friends. The company dispersed in gloom and left the crazed bride," as they supposed, with the unhappy husband and sorrowing parents. It has transpired since, however, that the bride did not London, 28.—The English Blue Book has been issued, containing the correspondence between the English and German governments in relation to the disputed territory in South Africa.

Sorrowing parents. 12 has transpired since, however, that the bride did not go mad, and that, instead of a house of sorrow, the residence of the parents is full of joy. Mrs. Blackburn was laboring under such great excitement, and Washington, 23.—W. B. Thompson, late superintendent of the railway mail service, was to-day confirmed as Second Assistant Postmaster-General. He will be succeeded as superintendent of the railway mail service by John Jameson, present assistant superintendent, present assistant superintendent.

Yesterday morning the young wife woke up calm and collected, and the hopes of the family revived. During a conversation between Mr. Blackburn and old Mrs. Johanson a little later the bride's face brightened up, and she again became excited and caressed them both, making violent gestures the while. Then she hurriedly said in her finger language, "I can hear! I can hear! I can hear everything you say!" The truth flashed upon the mind of the anxious husband and mother, and they tested the matter over and over again by talking to her, she answering back with her fingers.

That there is juy in that household will readily be believed. There was another little party there last night, and a reporter was present, and the event of the evening was again Mr. Blackburn's whistling.
