LIVELY SESSION OF CITY COUNCIL

Solons Much Divided Over Viaduct Franchise, Which is Referred Back to Committees.

FUNERAL OF LOUIS HOLTHER.

District Court Cases—Death of Mrs. Ann C. Mortensen of Ogden Valley.

Ogden, Dec. 2.—At last night's session of the city council, a long and heated discussion followed the introduction of the viaduct franchise report from the committees, to which it had been referred a week ago, with several amendments attached. Strong objection was made to several features of the ordinance, and it was referred back to the same committees, with the railroad committee added, for further consideration and report next Monday.

The first amendment provided for increasing the length of the east approach from 156 to 172 feet with a six and a half instead of a seven per cent grade. After a short discussion this amendment was killed, Flygar and Craig voting in its favor. The second amendment provided that the city repair and maintain the railroad people stand the expense of maintaining the road over the viaduct. Councilman Thomas led the opposition to this proposition, and after considerable wrangling the whole thing went back to the committees on his motion.

The councilmen appeared to be radically divided on the matter. Some entertain the opinion that the city should maintain the walks and the driveways, and the company the remainder of the structure, while others believe that the railroad company should keep in repair the entire viaduct. Those who argue in favor of the latter believe advance the information that the respective railroad companies maintain their own viaducts at Cheyenne, Pueblo, Omaha, Milwaukee and other cities, and that this is nothing more than just or proper in view of the fact that the city virtually turns the wagon road over to the company seeking to build the viaduct.

Browning and Thomas did not relish the idea of "taking what the railroad people wish to give us," in spite of the critical condition alleged.

An ordinance repealing the ordinance creating parking districts 1 and 2 was passed after the recommendation of the law committee was read. The law committee also reported on the application for a franchise to operate the Ogden Gas, Light & Fuel company more than a year ago. The report said that after the application had been made those interested asked that it be held until later and that up to the present time nothing had been heard from the promoters. The committee's recommendation that the application be tabled was adopted.

Paid rolls amounting to $1,164 were allowed.

The child was a boy, not a day or so old and had evidently been placed there by someone but a short time previous, as it could not have been dead long. The theory is that the babe was placed there by some wealthy person, as one of the trappings as the furs and clothing around it would cost at least $200.
