

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

FROM FRIDAY'S DAILY

"Some one, who can just manage to write the telegraph alphabet, came into the office, at Stockton, Utah, at 12 o'clock, and reports that the operator, J. Ross Warren, was killed, this morning, by falling down the shaft of the 'Silver King.' Can get no further particulars at present.

PORTAGE.—M. W. H. Anderson, writing from this place, under date of the 24th inst., says:

"The health of the settlement is good. The weather is cool; we had three inches of snow on Saturday night, but it was all gone by Sunday at noon. Grass and grain are growing fine and we have a fair prospect for a good crop, providing grasshoppers and crickets keep away."

MILLARD COUNTY.—The following is extracted from a letter from John Williams, dated Scipio the 26 inst: "The people of Scipio are doing well. The greater part of our crops are in the ground and are looking fine. The weather lately has been very stormy, which has somewhat retarded the progress of sowing and planting. We do not anticipate any destruction from grasshoppers this season. There has been considerable sickness here lately, caused, I believe, by the cold, damp nature of the weather."

THE OMAHA HERALD ON BRIGHAM YOUNG AND HIS WORK.—The following is taken from the Herald, of 25th inst:

"The Herald is much abused for saying kind words of Brigham Young and the Mormons. It is charged with upholding Polygamy and defending the Mormon religion, because, and only because, it contends for the right of that people to enjoy their religion as we do ours. But Brigham Young is a great man, and, aside from his religious vagaries, has done a great work in his generation. Men who abuse and denounce him are constantly compelled to do him honor. This was the case when, against the slanders of the world outside, he threw his whole army of laborers upon the Union Pacific railroad, and rendered its completion possible years before it could have been otherwise accomplished. In these connections we notice the following, which was found in the special telegrams of the Tribune of yesterday:

Brigham Young is now at Provo visiting Lay's woolen factory, just completed. It cost upward of two thousand dollars.

"Two thousand dollars" is good. It may have meant two hundred thousand dollars, which was the actual cost of the woolen factory at Provo. That factory is purely a Mormon production. It is the work of Brigham Young, the greatest living organizer of human industries. That Provo woolen factory has 3,000 spindles, and will give employment to 500 operatives. It is these things that this much-abused Brigham Young and his people are doing. These are the works they are performing in a land which was, twenty-two years ago, an arid desert, and which bad men from the worst of motives are seeking to destroy."

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY.

UTAH SOUTHERN RAILROAD.—The ceremony of breaking ground for this line took place at 10:50 a.m. to-day, at the north west corner of the Old Fort Block, 6th Ward. Among those present were Prests-Brigham Young, George A. Smith and Daniel H. Wells and Elder George Q. Cannon; also of the officers of the road: F. Little, General Superintendent, William Jennings, Director, Jesse W. Fox, Chief Engineer, George Swan, Secretary, and a number of the leading private citizens. The dedicatory prayer was offered by Elder George Q. Cannon, and ground was broken by Prest. Young, followed by D. H. Wells, Wm. Jennings and F. Little.

Contractors and operatives are ready to commence work on the road immediately. Four miles of the road are already contracted for.

OUR DELEGATE.—A special train left this afternoon for Ogden, on which were Presidents Brigham Young, George A. Smith and Daniel H. Wells, a number of the Twelve Apostles, a party of leading citizens and a brass and string band to welcome home our honorable Delegate, William H. Hooper.

ESCAPE OF PRISONERS.—We were informed, on Saturday, by an orderly from Camp Douglas, that the garrison was suddenly alarmed on Friday night by the calling of the "long role" which means for every man to turn out under arms. The cause of this was soon made apparent; half a dozen prisoners, who had been under confinement at Camp, had broke jail and escaped, the sentry who was on guard going with them. On making this discovery Gen. Morrow at once dispatched a message to Marshal Patrick, who with his deputies, assisted by Captain Burt and the city police, made an effort to discover the whereabouts of the runaways. The General also sent a company in pursuit. We have not heard that any of the men have been recaptured. Among the six were Heath, the mail robber, and a man named J. Harrington, accused of murder.

DEAD BODY FOUND.—The dead body of a man was found on the military reservation, on the bench east of the 10th Ward, on Saturday, in an advanced state of decomposition. The following is the description of the remains given by officer Hampton, who was sent to the spot as soon as information reached the City Hall of the discovery of the body:

The man appeared to be about fifty years of age, hair partly mixed with gray. He had a white, high-crowned hat, rather old and with stiff brim; light pilot cloth coat, with large plaid linings; dark pants, of Kentucky jeans, light blouse of jeans; new "home-made" shoes; gray socks; gray knit undershirt; light woolen overshirt; "home-made" vest, sheep's gray, lined with blue jeans, and with brass buttons having a red dot in them; and black silk neck-tie. In his pockets were a rubber pocket-comb, part of a fine comb, two tailor's thimbles, a pair of spectacles with brass bows, and two pieces of pink calico made into handkerchiefs. No marks of violence were visible on the person.

BRIGHAM CITY.—Our correspondent, A. C., writing from that place, April 29th, says: "The fields and orchards here are now looking promising for good crops. We have discovered no grasshoppers yet in this county. It will be remembered that, four years ago last fall, these pests came in clouds from the north and reached Cache and a part of Box Elder Counties before winter set in. I think only a few spots of them can be found in the north, whereas Southern Utah, a part of California and Arizona have received the main body of them. They seem southwardly bound.

We are at work—establishing a co-operative dairy, and a sheep herd. We are favored with health and peace. Our mining prospects are yet indecisive.

UNDULY EXERCISED.—The Central City, Col., Register thinks that there is imminent danger of Brigham Young and the Mormons being completely broken up at an early date. This, it argues, will be the inevitable result of a combination of causes which are fast bringing matters to a climax. It is a curious fact that people at a distance can see danger to the Mormons looming up on every hand while they themselves are unable to perceive it. The most amusing part of the Register's article is where it puts forth the projected Methodist camp meeting in this city as among the most formidable causes that will conduce to the breaking up of the Mormons. It says:

"And now the Methodists, these great pioneers in religious efforts, threaten them with a camp-meeting attack. A number of celebrated divines connected with this large body of Christians are about to make a missionary trip to California, carrying with them a big tent capable of holding 4,000 people, and on their return propose to pitch their missionary tabernacle on the sacred ground where stands the Mormon temple itself. It is reported that a great many Mormons were formerly Methodists and that they are anxious to return to the old fold."

We do not know of anybody hereabouts who has any objection to the Methodists coming along with their big tent, and should they succeed in convincing a few people that they can feed and fatten upon the chaff instead of the substantialities of religion, we presume they will be perfectly welcome to all such. We think that the Methodists will not find Salt Lake a very prolific field for missionary enterprise. However, they can come along and try. Their efforts will, doubtless, have the effect of causing the Mormons, by contrast, to more fully appreciate the light and blessings they enjoy.

PREPARING.—Brother Mark Lindsay is busy making preparations to accommodate the large number of pleasure seekers whom he expects to visit his pleasant summer resort on the bench north-west of the cemetery. In addition to his cold spring bath-house he has had another erected and fitted up for the exclusive use of ladies. He has also built a new ice cream saloon on the grounds, planted out a large number of shade trees and is otherwise providing for the comfort and pleasure of those who will visit his grounds during the coming summer. Should the grasshoppers not visit him he will have an abundant crop of strawberries, the beds being now white with blossom, so that his visitors will be able to luxuriate in that exquisite dish; strawberries and cream. Mark's is an excellent place for picnic and school parties to go to to spend a day of recreation and amusement, and for strangers who wish to have a fine view of this city and valley. The swings, whirligigs, &c., on the ground, are great attractions for the juveniles.

BEING BUILT UP.—Among the various portions of the city that are being built up, not the least prominent is the bench lying north of the Twentieth Ward, beyond the city wall. Five years ago, that part, from City Creek canyon east as far as the cemetery, was a sage brush waste; now it is dotted all over with pleasant, comfortable dwellings. It bids fair to become one of the pleasantest places in the city. It has the advantage of a commanding view and soil that is well adapted for the raising of fruit. A large number of shade and fruit trees have been planted out this spring and many very respectable looking residences are now in course of erection.

LINES

Suggested by the death of ELDER P. MAUGHAN Presiding Bishop of Cache Valley, who departed this life April 24th, 1871.

Another hero's fallen on the plains—
The battle-plain of human warfare. Yes,
Another Chief-tian in the cause of Right
Has passed away from this poor mundane sphere
From life? Nay, passed from death to life,—
Light, joy and immortality.
A Saint, a Soldier and a Champion
Struck down by the relentless hand of Death
As he cried "Victory."
While here—sojourning in this gloomy vale,
He bore affliction's trying crucible;
And still he nobly fought for truth and stood
Among the foremost in the ranks of those
Who have enlisted to defend and teach
Those holy principles, which are divine:—
Truth, Liberty and Justice: and to preserve
Those sacred ties that bind the hearts of men
Unto their fellows, and to plant on earth
A universal brotherhood.

Such was his mission here. From day to day,
True to his duty, to his God and to
His comrades,—those with whom he toil'd
Shoulder to shoulder 'midst the furious rage
Of the great conquest of the "powers that be,"
His motto ever was:—"God and my Right."
God's Kingdom,—Priesthood with their Keys, and powers

He held to be more dear than aught on earth;
He faced their foes, and valiantly withstood
The enemies of Righteousness and Peace,
Dispelling error and combatting wrong;
Checking folly in the giddy youth,
Imparting words of wisdom to their mind,
Strengthening the weak, encouraging the strong.
E'er zealous, generous, loving, faithful, kind.
A father, brother and a friend was he,
And more than this,—a man of men, whose soul
Was filled with the nobility of heaven.
Then who should weep when such a one is called
To cast aside his tenement of clay
To fill a higher station? Weep no more!
His earthly pilgrimage is o'er. He filled
Near three score years of man's allotted time
In this terrestrial state:—he's cross'd the stream
Of human life;—passed through the vale of death

And gained admission to a better life.
Behind the veil, he'll mingle with the hosts
Of Saints and martyrs who have gone before;
He'll join the armies of the Just and, there
With them, win greater laurels and await
That glorious time,—the Resurrection Morn
When, at the summons of the trumpet's sound
The Worthy shall come forth arrayed in white,
And each receive a never-fading crown
Of glory and eternal life: controlled by laws—
Laws changeless and eternal as the Gods.

The Great Improvement in ROOFING

H. W. JOHNS' PATENT

ASBESTOS ROOFING

This Improved Roofing Material is entirely different from any other, and is TEN TIMES STRONGER than any other Portable or Composition Roofing in use. It is adapted for steep or flat roofs in all climates, and can be readily applied by anyone.

From Certified Report of Judges' American Institute, Exhibition of 1870:

This Improved Roofing "is strong and flexible, unaffected by the sun's heat, practically fire-proof and water-proof, and is really an article of the first order of merit."

HORACE GREELEY, President,
Signed, GEO. PEYTON, Recording Sec.,
SAM'L D. TILLMAN, Corresponding Sec.
From Report of American Institute Farmers' Club, Dec. 6, 1870:

"This material constitutes one of unusual merit, much superior to any of the class previously brought to their notice, and worthy of trial by those who desire a durable, easily applied, comparatively inexpensive and safe roofing, the material having, in addition to the other merits claimed for it, that of being practically fire-proof."
