FLOATING FRAGMENTS.

A foul outrage was committed in the 19th Ward on Friday evening.

The Assembly Hall was again densely crowded yesterday, and the day being warm, the air of the room was somewhat oppressive.

Everybody was beginning to think the weather was settled and we

It was beautifully rendered, and the composition itself is excellent, having some very telling effects. We are pleased to learn that it is a home production, Brother Stephen's being the composer, so we are informed by a member of the Tabernscle choir.

A Brutal Assault .- This morning an Italian was walking around with his head and its appendages in a fit condition to be carried in a aling. It appears from what we could learn as to the manuer in which he suffered the damage to his cranium that he was attacked yesterday, at the Danver and Rio Grande railroad depot, by a couple of his country. They first committed mayhem on his person by biting off a large sized piece of his ear, and finished the brutal assault by pound-

boy residing in the 18th Ward, son of Brother George Saville, who keeps a boot and shoe establishment on Second Bouth Street, has developed quite a mechanical turn of mind. Some time alnos he purchased a machine, which he ordered from Boston, for cutting out ornamental scroll work in wood, and with its aid he makes numbers of neat brackets of various patterns, for which he finds qui te a ready sale. He is now putting up a little workshop on his father's lot, for the purpose of carrying on this work a little more extensively than heretofore.

When boys manifest a disposition for usefulness they should be encouraged. It is a good trait. We recommend all the boys of the community to read the book by Samuel Smiles, called "Self Help, one of the best works that was ever published for encouraging boys to be industrious and persevering. After reading that, then diligently peruse the work by the same au-thor, entitled "Character," the first giving an impetus in the direction of industry and perseverance and A Double Desceration.—An eye-witness informs us of a disgraceful cometery yesterday.
