Shooting Affray.—An exciting scene occurred on the Elephant corner, yesterday morning about 11 o'clock in which two benighted sons of Ham were the chief participants. One was a stalwart young bootblack, who plies his profession just east of the Elephant corner, the other an older and smaller individual, enveloped in a huge winter ulster reaching down his shoulders to the ground. The two were first observed in an altercation inside the stand, during which the knight of the shoe brush was heard to ask him of the ulster what he had been talking about him for. To this the other responded that he had done a muffin of the sort, and that he could not sufficiently express his contempt for the mendacious individual who was responsible for such a allegation. Other hot words and names followed in quick succession, and the next thing observed by the intelligent public was the smaller knave cutting down the street at as rapid a rate as his ulster would permit, closely followed by the indignant bootblack, who had drawn a revolver and was blazing away at the retreating overcoat. Four shots were fired in as many consecutive moments, but the ulster kept on running as though it were a coat of mail, or like Macbeth bore charmed life. Bystanders swore at every time the pistol went off the muzzle was placed directly against the little nigger's back, and at the enraged boot shiner actually thrust the weapon down the other's neck and fired perpendicularly at his heart. But all to no purpose. On, on the ulster went, and as each shot was fired the pursued was observed to stoop to the ground, grasp a handful of dirt and fling it backwards into the eyes of his pursuer. At length the corner was reached and just as the fourth bullet sped on its errand of destruction, the diminutive darkey suddenly wheeled around, knocked the pistol from the hands of his pursuer, and seizing him around the waist, brought him to the pavement with a thump that he won't forget if he lives a thousand years. Unluckily, however, the big fellow got the little one's finger in his mouth, "and mounched and mounched, and mounched," at the same time gouging his eye badly. They rolled and scrambled in the dirt for a few moments, and were then separated by the crowd, which finding bullet-dodging a very monotonous occupation, finally concluded that it would be wise to put an end either to the players or their wild little game. They were ruthlessly torn apart and the larger one was walked off to jail. On being asked what caused the affray, either manifested considerable reticence, but it leaked out that a white woman was at the bottom of the difficulty. It is said that the bootblack married a white girl and afterwards left her and went off to San Francisco, and that during his absence the owner of the heavy ulster stepped in and stole her affections. They were before the police court this afternoon. The small one was discharged, the other waived an examination and was bound over in $500 to await the action of the grand jury.

OMAHA, 9.—The Missouri is still rising slowly. It is 21 feet above high water mark. A vast flood from small lakes last night carried away two frame buildings at the smelting works, the railway embankments were damaged and the channel of the river cutting out of its course.

The Missouri river continued rising slowly all day, and at 6 o'clock this afternoon the water gauge showed 21½ feet above low water mark, having risen about one foot in 24 hours. The flood is now regarded at its height, and it is expected the river will begin falling some time in the night.

A dispatch from Blain, 50 miles north, by river, states that the river began falling slowly this afternoon.

A dispatch from Sioux City says the river fell there last night 19 inches, and is still falling fast. It has fallen 15 feet at Yankton, but reports from there this morning say that the big gorge, 20 miles below Yankton, and reported to be 50 miles long, has not gone out, and that it may cause another immense flood. The river at this point is six miles wide.

It is now believed that the railroad shops will escape without serious damage. The smelting works, however, will be considerably injured, but if they remain when the water falls, they can be put in good shape again. Several other breaks occurred during the night, and the levee from the Union Pacific shops to the railroad bridge, a distance of over one mile, is under water. Numerous freight cars, loaded with lumber and coal and other heavy material, are submerged almost entirely. This morning the Willow Springs distillery, below the bridge, was shut down on account of being flooded. Fifteen thousand head of cattle, which were being fed in the distillery sheds, were removed with great difficulty to the stockyard. The situation on the east side of the river, at Council Bluffs and along the Union Pacific depot, is fully as serious as it is at Omaha, and perhaps more so. About one-half of Council Bluffs is under water to a depth of from one to three feet, and many people have been compelled to leave their homes and seek shelter in a higher part of town. A broad and heavy stream coming in from the bend north of the town is now flowing through the place and runs down Broadway, the principal business street, past the Pacific House. The stream is said to be 18 inches deep in the vicinity of the Pacific House, and the water is within six inches of the Ogden House. The stream running west of the town flows past the west side of the Union Pacific transfer depot, flooding the bridges over Spoon

Lake, and inundating the entire vicinity, together with the Union stock yards and numerous residences and railroad buildings in the immediate locality. No eastern passengers or mail arrived in Omaha to-day.

The Union Pacific approach to the Missouri River bridge is flooded to such an extent at the lake just west of the transfer depot, that a transfer has to be made by boats and by shoving flat cars through the water over small bridges. Omaha is cut off in every direction except to the west. Possibly trains may get into Council Bluffs to-morrow and also leave for the east. The Kansas City, St. Louis and Council Bluffs track from Council Bluffs to the Pacific Junction, which is also used by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, and also temporarily by the Baltimore and Missouri in Nebraska is also under water and washed so badly that trains cannot run over it.

It is expected to accommodate the above roads with outlets to-morrow. Several hundred freight cars at Council Bluffs are submerged.

St. Joseph, 9.—The Missouri River, at this point is 17 feet six inches above low water mark. An additional rise of several inches is reported, which will reach here to-morrow.

NEW YORK 9.—The reason why the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe road has withdrawn for the present the tariff for freight to California, Oregon and Washington Territory, is on account of the arbitrary proportion demanded by its connections. The Southern Pacific demands the largest proportion of the rate on goods destined for Arizona, although the distance carried by them is much less. The result of this is that with high local rates Arizona merchants will be obliged to purchase their goods in San Francisco, and already San Francisco merchants have sent east for different tariffs, classifications, etc., upon which to base their prices for Arizona points. Although this action on the part of the Southern Pacific Railroad is in a measure arbitrary, it for the present inures to the benefit of California, and Arizona merchants, to use an expression of one of them, are "wild over it," as they prefer to buy in this market, but they cannot stand the increased rates.

Denver, 9.—The Denver and Rio Grande Company is extending the Corpus Christi and Laredo Railroad, which the company, a short time since, purchased, and which reaches 60 miles west of Corpus Christi to a connection with the Mexican National, at Laredo, Texas. The final object is said to be the extension of the Rio Grande's Colorado system to Laredo, thus giving them direct connection with the Gulf of Mexico and Pacific Coast.

WASHINGTON, 9.—There is again said to be 150 nominations pending before the Senate, and the President is credited with a disposition to keep on sending others, without regard to the deadlock. He reasons that each appointee will turn himself into a lobbyist in favor of a change of programme in the Senate, and hopes that in time the effect of this pressure will be seen in some sort of compromise, by which some attention may be paid to public business. Rumors already come from Washington that a compromise is likely to be reached next week.

IOWA CITY, 9.—Miss Hattie Duello still lives and appears stronger than any time for the last three days. She was persuaded by her friends yesterday to admit other physicians than her brother-in-law. To-day she admitted Dr. Coworthwaite, who says she is much stronger than he expected to find her. Pulse about 140, quick but weak; respiration 44, temperature 94, tongue slightly moist and covered with thin white covering; eyes unnaturally bright and wide open, showing some appearance of insanity under excitement of visits from strangers; but the symptoms have been so variable the last few days; that it is impossible to tell how long she can live. This is the 46th day of her fast.

CHICAGO, 9.—A medical commission is now sitting to consider the expediency of covering the rubbish in the fortress with earth, as there is no hope of saving any lives, and the disinterment of the dead might produce an epidemic. It is now believed that throughout the whole island, which consisted of 70,000 inhabitants, 6,000 or 7,000 were killed and 25 per cent. of the survivors wounded. French, British, United States and Austrian gun vessels in the harbor are doing all in their power to assist the authorities in the work of relief. Only ten of the inhabitants of Chesme were killed, but many houses are in ruins, and 30,000 people are without shelter.

At midnight last night a destructive fire occurred at Mount Vernon, O. Loss $15,000.

J. J. Harrison's elevator at Burlington, Iowa, burned early this morning. Loss $16,000; insured.

A WISE DEACON.

"Deacon Wilder, I want you to tell me how you kept yourself and family so well the past season, when all the rest of us have been sick so much, and have had the doctors running to us so long."

"Brother Taylor, the answer is very easy. I used Hop Bitters in time and kept my family well and saved large doctor bills. Three dollars' worth of it kept us all well and able to work all the time, and I will warrant it has cost you and most of the neighbors one to two hundred dollars apiece to keep sick the same time. I guess you'll take my medicine hereafter." See other column.
