PRESIDENT JOHN R. WINDER. First Counselor to President Joseph F. Smith. JOHN REX WINDER. he saw to it that his work was done in the time allotted him. In May, 1893, he was set apart as first assistant to Who Has Helped Build Utah. For over forty-five years John R. Winder has been prominently associated with the ecclesiastical and industrial history of Utah. From the very day he arrived in the city of Salt Lake there has always been a conspicuous place for him and he always filled it to the satisfaction of his friends and to his own increasing honor and credit. He has grown up rapidly with the country and near the age of eighty years he is possessed of a youthful progressiveness and energy that are truly remarkable. John Rex Winder, son of Richard and Sophia Winder, was born at Biddenben, Kent, England, on December 11, 1821. His parents belonged to the Church of England into which organization he was christened when au infant, At the age of fourteen he was con firmed a member of the Church of Eng-land by the archbishop of Canterbury. His education, or rather his schooling, was meager as the limited means of his parents necessitated his working to sup-port himself. When he was about about twenty years old he went to London where he obtained employment in a West End grocery store. In the great metropolis he met Miss Ellen Walters, and on November 24, 1845, she became his wife. It is said there is a certain house standing on the shore of lake Michi-gan, and if a rain drop happens to fall on the north slant of the root it will go into the lake and eventually be carried into the St. Lawrence river and out into the Atlantic. But if it drops one foot further south, it will find its way into the Mississippi river and ou Thus is illus. into the Gulf of Mexico. trated how slight a thing turns the whole current of a human life. Such was the case in the career of John R. Winder. Two years after he was married a gentleman by the name of Collin-son stepped into the store in search of a man to conduct his establishment in Liverpool. Mr. Winder was finally engaged, and in 1847 he went to Liverool and assumed charge of the store. While casting about the store one day in July, 1848, his eyes fell on a frag-ment of a letter that was lying on the floor. On picking it up he saw the words "Latter-day Saints." on i He had never heard of those people and naturally became curious to know what the words meant. In following up th promptings of that curiosity he learned f the Mormons, and of their wonderful Prophet who were in America, but branch of the Church was in Liverpoo and held meetings in the Music hall, on Bold street. He attended a meeton Bold street. on sold street. He attended a meet-ing and it was being addressed by El-der Orson Spencer. He was very deeply impressed by that sermon and began investigating. The result was that on September 20th, 1848, he was baptized by Elder Thomas D. Brown, and on the 6th other the second and on the fifteenth of the following month his wife was baptized by Apostle Orson Pratt. He remained in Liverpool and was ac-tive in the Church until February, 1853, when he and his family sailed for Zion on the ship Elvira Owen. It was a assage fraught with much misery for him and for some others. Five pas-sengers contracted the smallpox and he was one of the smitten victims. The officers on the ship thought he ould not live, but he knew better. Recovering he arrived in sound health at Keekuk, Iowa, and joined Elder Joseph W. Young's company, and with his family crosed the plains, arriving in Salt Lake City on the 10th of Octo-His active nature and quick intelligence soon took in the situation and he became a partner of Samuel Mulliner in the manufacture of saddles, and shoes, and also in the operation of a tannery. He entered into partnera tankery. He entred into partners ship with William Jennings, in 1855, who was proprietor of the meat market, tannery, saddle, boot and shoe factory, etc. He continued in this business unil after "the move," in July, 1858. In the meantime he had connected himself with the Nauvoo Legion in which he evinced an ideal martial Kind, gentle and full of merspirit. yet he was ready to lay down hit life in defending his people against their foes. During the fall and winter of 1857-8 he was left with fifty men to guard Echo canyon after Johnston's ar-my had some to Fort Bridger for the winter. He held the position of captain with signal honor. President Lorenzo Snow in charge of the Temple, and has held that position ever since. It was during the dedi-cation services that President Joseph 7. Smith took occasion to make known his admiration of the man he has now called to be his counselor, by speaking in terms of high commendation of his faithfulness perseverance, efficiency etc., and pronouncing a blessing upon his head for time and all eternity. President Winder was ordained a Seventy in 1854 and was made one of the presidents of the Twelfth quorum the following year. He was later or-dained a High Priest by Bishop Edward Hunter and acted as Bishop of the Fourteenth ward while Bishop Thomas Taylor was performing a for-eight mission. In April, 1572, he was ordained a member of the High Coun-oll of the Salt Lake Stake cil of the Salt Lake Stake.

He has always been a power in the business life of Utah, and it would be impossible to compute the value of his patriotic services, devoted to the growth and development of the state. He was made a director in the Deseret Agricultural and Manufacturing society n 1856, and its president in 1872. He held that position with an interruption of three or four years, until 1900. He was chairman of the territorial and county central committee in the People's party days, but dropped out of active politics when the division on the Ogden Sugar company. quietly took possession of a corner of the house and commenced to peruse the pages of the Old Testament. There was an interesting sequel. The uncle was not angry this time. On the contrary he was decidedly pleased and told the young Bible student that he could read the scriptures thereafter as much as he desired. Being without brothers or sisters, and fond of books he made them his com-panions and all of his spare change was spent in the book stores. It was in 1850 that Erastus Snow carried the Gospei to Scandinavia. An uncle of Anthon accepted its truth and his grandmother soon followed. Her home had an abundace of "Mormon" litera-ture within it which the young man read with interest and in the course of time, he too, was baptized. When graduation time came in the public school it was ascertained that he had far outstripped all of his fellowstudents and the bishop of the diocese said: "I have not heard a boy answer so well in any of the two hundred schools in my jurisdiction." Elder Lund was called to begin his missionary labors when but thirteen years of age. His particular duties were to teach migrating Saints the English language, to distribute tracts and help the Elders hold meetings. The boy preacher soon became well known throughout the entire conference. He traveled without purse or scrip and friends were raised up on every hand. His ability go pleased a wealthy Dane that the latter said. "If you will study national party lines came. He is a di-rector in the Utah Sugar company, also the Ogden Sugar company. In 1874 he was appointed a member of the High Council of the Sampete Stake. In 1877 he was made Stake clerk. In 1878 he was appointed sup-crintendent of the Ephralm Sunday chool. In 1883 he was salled to fill another mission to Scandinavia. During his absence he was elected a mem-ber of the Utah legislature and on hi return took his seat in that body. In 1888 he was re-elected. In this year also he was appointed vice-president of the Manti temple. In 1831 he be-came president. At the organization of the manufic thus he beard of add a came president. At the organization of the general church board of educa-tion he was chosen to a place upon it. In October 1889 he was called to the Apostleship. In 1893 he was again called to the ministry abroad, this time to preside over the European mission. He remained away for three years and a half. In 1897 he was called on a mission to Palestine and Syria. In the fall of 1898 he removed from San-pete to Salt Lake City where he now resides. In April 1900 he was app int ed superintendent of religion classe and in August, 1900, he succeeded Franklin D. Richards as Church historian

BRIGHAM YOUNG.

Son of the Great Pioncer of That Name, Now President of Twelve.

Brigham Young, a memoer of the Council of the Twelve Apostles since 1868 and now the President of that leading quorum of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, was born in Kirtland, Geauga (now Lake) county Ohio, on December 18, 1836. He is the son of President Brigham Young and Mary Ann (Angeli) Young, who were married in Kirtiand in 1843. The future Apostle was the third child born his parents and was also a twin, his sister, Mary, having died when she and Brigham Jr., were seven years old. The Church was not only in its infancy at the time Brigham Young Jr. was born, but it was just beginning one of the most critical and the darkest and most turbulent periods of its existence. President Brigham Young was absent from his wife and children much of the time attending to the calls of the Church and part of the time in traveling to avoid those who sought his life. During the infancy of Brigham Jr., be-ginning with the flight from Kirtland soon after his birth the Young family were on the move much of the time, mobs driving the Saints from one place to another. The family moved to Quin-cy and from there to Commerce, again moving in 1829, soon after President Young, then one of the Twelve, had the river. The following year the family moved to Nauvoo and in 1845 Brigham Jr., was baptized in the Mississippi river by his father. The young boy, who was de-scribed as being merry, kind-hearted and courageous, was perfectly devoted to his father and to the Prophet Josoph Smith and young as he was, felt deep ly the death of the leader. However with his father's accession to the Pres idency came work in abundance. Th march westward had begun and the boy Brigham, then ten years old, was left behind. He soon overtook the Saints under the direction of his fathe and proceeded with them to Winter quarters, Nebraska. After a stay there until the spring of 1848 the party continued westward, Brigham Jr. driving two voke of oxen.

placed on guard to watch and soon after went out to meet a hand cart company of emigrants, at that was called to act as a member of the High Council of the Salt Lake Stake.
