Their golden wedding was celebrated by John Bergel, the great real estate owner of Dalsland, who was 75. The 51 couple were congratulated by numerous children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Erikson, of Lidingby, 47, for America the other day, taking 10 to Europe for her two daughters who are living in the United States. Two of the two daughters, who had made up their minds to surprise their mother, arrived home shortly after their mother's departure.

P. J. Peterson, of Moeber, the murderer of Sheriff Gavell and the Deputy Sheriff Votter, was executed in the jail of Gofte the other day. He died well during the night before the execution, and when he was to be hanged, he seemed very calm and willingly drew his hand on the gallows. The head was severed from the body with one sharp stroke by the executioner.

Nicholas Hyde, a sailor of Helsingborg, was arrested the other day when he was trying to board a steamer for Hull in the harbor of Helsingborg. Hyde had stolen more than 4000 cigars from his employer, who is a banker in Helsingborg. Nicholas, who had bought a first-class ticket to America, was found out by the possession of 3000 cigars, 2000 of which he had concealed in one of his shoes. He is said to have lived in America for seven years before. His father is a wealthy ship-builder.

On the island of Aggo and Hano, the province of Blekinge, is a small colony of Russian origin. These people differ greatly from the common Germanic type. Dark complexion, black hair, a very dry temper and some of their most conspicuous characteristics. This Russian colony in the Germanic sea is accounted for by the fact that Russian ships, through a northern Germany, a Russian army vessel in 1857 and had been in the above islands, which they have since with great security were since. They have not only become thoroughly assimilated, but they are as well pleased with their status, particularly because that emigration is a thing instead of among them.

SUMMARY.

The work on the legislation of the new political constitution of Sweden, the work of the constitution of Sweden has now commenced.

In the present political struggle it might be well to remember that as neither the king nor the government has the power under the constitution of dissolving the Riksdag before the expiration of its three years' mandate, the Riksdag have, with its right, the last have it in their power to create an absolute deadlock.

A society for the relief of poor cripples was organized at Christiana last month. The main work of the society will be to furnish a certain class of young cripples with tools and previous instruction and instruction.
