FIFTY-SEVENTH YEAR

ANARCHIST SHOT BY CHIEF SHIPPY

Chicago "Red Banner" Man Enters Policeman's Home With Fatal Results.

USED KNIFE AND REVOLVER.

Lawless Alien Fires at Officer's Son and Stabs His Coachman.

Turning on Official, Miscreant Inflicts Wound in His Hand and is Then Killed Outright.

Chicago, March 2.—Geo. M. Shippy, chief of the Chicago police department today shot and instantly killed an anarchist who invaded his home, and wounded his son, Harry, in the lung and severely wounded the coachman, James Foley. Harry Shippy is seriously hurt; Foley will probably recover. The chief was stabbed in the hand, his wound being trivial. The assailant entered Shippy's home while the chief and his son were alone in one of the rooms. The man is said to have handed Chief Shippy a letter which the chief opened and began to read. Almost immediately the anarchist drew a revolver and fired at Harry Shippy. The boy fell to the floor and his father grappled with the assailant.

SHOT THE COACHMAN.

Foley, attracted by the shooting, rushed to his employer's aid. As the servant entered the room the anarchist broke from the chief's grasp, aimed deliberately and shot Foley twice.

Again the chief closed with the man, and he turned on him with a knife. Shippy attempted to grasp the weapon and resisted a deep cut on the hand. The police official then succeeded in reaching his own revolver and he poured shot after shot into the would-be assassin's body. Every bullet took effect and the anarchist fell to the floor dead.

The attack on the chief is believed to have been inspired by the recent activity of the Chicago police following the killing of Father Leo Heinrichs, a Roman Catholic priest, who was shot by an anarchist in Denver while he was administering the sacrament to his sister.

DETECTIVES FOLLOW CLUES.

News of the shooting in Chief Shippy's home reached the police department when a request was sent to a head station for an ambulance. Every available detective in the city was placed upon the case.

Immediately following the tragedy in the police department, the crime to a conspiracy hatched in Chicago were begun, the local police discovered that a society of Italians had been formed here and had been issuing inflammatory literature aimed at clericals and also that several local clergy had received threatening letters. Yesterday, with the funeral of Father Heinrichs being held in Patterson, N. J., details of police guarded several Catholic churches here. Special precautions were taken by the Italian quarter where officers in citizens clothes scrutinized every worshiper as the congregations entered. Later the officers moved to the altar and stood guard over the priests as they conducted the services.

ANARCHISTS WARNED.

In addition to these measures all well-known anarchists in the city, among them Emma Goldman, were warned that they would not be allowed to make addresses in the city. No articles or marks known none attempted to disobey this order and no arrests were made of followers of the cult. The documents sent to the police were carefully examined and an examination of them showed that prosecutions based thereon might have failed because of technical shortcomings.

CANNOT IDENTIFY MAN.

Although self-declared anarchists in this city are known to the Chicago police, the identity of the man who attacked Chief Shippy is a mystery. Herman Schuetter, assistant chief of police, who has had charge of the city against anarchists in the past, was unable to identify the man. He described him as an Italian or Slav, about 24 years old, weighing 140 pounds and about five feet, six inches tall. On the shoes and underwear was the number "299." The man wore a dark suit of clothes and a new hat purchased from a local firm. No articles or marks by which the man might have been identified were found upon his person.

THE MAYOR'S ENCOUNTER.

Mayor Busse had an exciting interview with an officer several minutes after he had returned to his office from the city hall, and as the mayor advanced extended his hand. The mayor, who was pale and nervous after the experience of Chief of Police Schuetter, declined the grasp and eyed the man closely.

"I want a job and I am not here to ask you for anything more. But if I don't get a job there will be trouble," said the man.

The mayor immediately ordered the man out of the building and the latter, after the glaring angrily at the city executive for a moment, descended to the main floor and walked away.

Mayor Busse explained later that the individual had called on him and asking for a position every day for some time past. Today, however, was the first time that he had threatened to create trouble. The incident following the shooting in Chief Shippy's home, caused some excitement in the city hall and several heads of clerks and secretaries not to admit strangers to their offices on any pretext.

CHIEF SHIPPY TALKS.

Chief Shippy said after the affair he believed that the presence of his son saved his life. He has no doubt that the man had planned to kill him.

TWO MURDERS REPORTED ON FLATHEAD RESERVE

Chief Louie Killed by Plour, Who is Killed by Little Rock.

Helena, Mont., March 2.—A double murder is reported from the Flathead Indian reservation, while two other violent deaths are recorded as the result of premature powder explosions. John M. Swanson was killed in an explosion on the Coeur d'Alene branch of the Northern Pacific near Huson, and John Copovitch met a similar fate near Josephine on the Montana railroad.

In a drunken quarrel among Indians, Chief Louie of the Kalispell tribe was killed by an Indian named Plour, who in turn was shot down and killed by an intimate friend of the first named called Little Rock. An investigation is now being held by the federal authorities.

peared to me to be an anarchist. I grabbed his arms and forced them behind his back. Then I called my wife, who was in another room. When she came I said, 'Mother, see if this man has a revolver. She felt one of his back pockets and said that he had.

I tried to hold him with one hand and draw my revolver with another. But he jerked away and fell against a door. I caught him against the door and tried to reach his revolver. My son must have heard the struggle, and just as he came to my aid the man freed one hand, drew his revolver and fired two shots at my son. Then Foley ran in and the man shot him.

"By this time I was able to draw my revolver, and the man drew a knife also in the struggle, but I did not know I had been cut until the fight was over.

PREPARE TO SOLVE MYSTERY

Trial of S. W. Sangster, Charged With Placing Poison in Candy, Near.

Chicago, March 2.—On the eve of the trial of Seaton W. Sangster, commercial traveler, charged with having attempted to kill his wife and young daughter by sending them poisoned candy, the accused man's wife, Lena E. Sangster, on the witness stand, declared that she believed it was a woman's hand that filled the candy with a deadly poison, arsenic, and that the reason was the husband of the difficult child. She believes her husband to be innocent.

The candy was left for the daughter at a railway station in her father's suit case, and a note from him told her to get the suit case. The note, however, said nothing about the candy. In 1906, Mrs. Sangster brought suit against a wealthy widow of Jacksonville, Ill., for alienation of the affections of her husband. She lost the suit, and the supreme court remanded it for retrial.

RISE TO DEFEND JUSTICE WILFLEY

President Roosevelt and Secretary Root Summarize Articles in Complaint.

COMMEND COURT'S ACTIONS.

Analysis of Charges Against Shanghai Judge Contain Opinion That Commendation is Due.

Washington, March 2.—President Roosevelt's defense of Lebbens R. Wilfley, based on an analytic review by Secretary Root, of the charges against him was made public today. The charges were preferred by Lorin Andrews have been repeated by him before the house committee on judiciary as the basis of impeachment proceedings. They relate to Judge Wilfley's administration of the United States court for China at Shanghai.

After disposing of each of the seven charges by showing that neither of them is the proper basis of criticism against Judge Wilfley, Secretary Root reviews conditions in the foreign quarters of Shanghai, showing that because of the heretofore lax American administration of justice there, affairs had grown disgraceful.

Judge Wilfley was sent there for the express purpose of reversing these conditions. Secretary Root concludes:

MOTIVE REVEALED.

"The circumstances thus presented exhibit a motive for the attempt to drive Judge Wilfley from his position. They present a strong probability of misjudgment, exaggeration and distortion of facts on the part of lawyers who have personally suffered from the changed conditions. They make it clear that upon no trifling grounds should our government incur the public misfortune which would be involved in putting the stamp of disapproval on the work for decency and righteousness that the United States court for China has done.

"My opinion is that Judge Wilfley is entitled, not to commendation, but to commendation and high credit for his conduct in office, and that the charges against him should be dismissed."

President Roosevelt's vindication is contained in a letter to Secretary Root. He comments that it appears that Congressmen Walcott and Newlands sponsor for the charges.

ROOSEVELT CONCLUDES.

"I cordially concur in your findings," he continues, "which is to the effect that Judge Wilfley is not only innocent but is attacked solely because of the fearlessness and integrity with which he stamped out vice and crime in Shanghai."

"It is clear that Judge Wilfley has been attacked not because he has done evil, but because he has done good. The assault on him is simply an impeachment of decency and zeal for the public good. It is a shameful attempt to cow and discourage every honest public servant who dares to withstand the forces banded together for evil and would govern the nation in the interest of order and justice in the Orient."

"If the attack were to succeed the beneficiaries would be the keepers of houses of prostitution, every swindling lawyer, every man who lives by blackmail and corruption in the cities of the far east."

"These are the people whose hopes have been revived by the effort to overthrow this upright and fearless judge who has already done so much for the American Chamber of Commerce. It is not too much to say that this assault by Judge Wilfley in the interest of the virtuous and criminal classes is a public scandal."

COAL COMPANY MUST ANSWER

Union Pacific Concern to Face Charge of Combining With The Railroads.

JUDGE SUSTAINS DEMURRER

On the First Count Charging Conspiracy—Case Grows Out of the Sharp Incident of 1906.

When the Union Pacific Coal company is summoned into court by the United States it will face a charge of violating the act of Congress intended to protect trade. It will be charged with combining with the Union Pacific Railroad company, Oregon Short Line company and individuals to control the retail price of coal in Salt Lake City and thus restricting trade and preventing competition. The case from which the indictment sprung was the famous David J. Sharp affair, on or about June 20, 1906.

The defendant company scored a point this morning when Judge Marshall of the United States court handed down a decision sustaining the concern's demurrer to the first count of the indictment returned by the grand jury during the November term of court, 1907. The first count charged conspiracy in violation of the "Sherman anti-trust law" and the second count charged conspiracy to prevent competition, etc. The demurrer to the second count was overruled. The company demurred to both, saying the facts there in a large and well polished mirror facing the stairs and reflecting a full view of not only the stairs but even the sidewalk in front of the second floor are the club rooms.

HOW IT WORKS.

Now, when the visitor ascends the stairs and bumps up against the door half way up a buzzer buzzes and at the buzz of the buzzer a look out from the "club" rooms peeks through a small hole in the door and gets a line on the mirror at the head of the stairs and said line and said mirror throws a reflection of the visitor's ground floor and sidewalk in front of the saloon.

The look out therefore knows who is coming. When in good standing, a "butter in" or a "flycop." This is what happened Saturday night to Dick Shannon and his associates. Were the officers admitted? Certainly! Why should they be kept out? They had a search warrant! When the officers arrived in the "club" rooms there were a number of men present. Some were playing pool, others were conversing about the weather and some were reading. Detective Shannon strolled over to a table at which were seated three or four men intently interested in articles in magazines. One member of the club did not even look up as he was so taken up with an illustrated account of the doings of the Pacific fleet under command of "Fighting Bob" Evans."

STORM WRECKS FLEET.

"Great storm we had—eh?" remarked Detective Shannon to the reader. "Shannon" (WV) weeks ago. Tied to the "club" member, "I didn't know we had had a storm."

"Well, it must have been a bad one," replied the detective. "I see it turned the ships upside down."

The "club" member discovered he had been reading upside down and quickly reversed the magazine. No arrests were made.

FUNNY SEQUEL TO POLICE RAID

Suspected Club Visited and Gamblers Found to Be Innocently Employed.

WARNED BY SIMPLE DEVICE.

Some of the Patrons Were So Flustered, However, That They Held Magazines Upside Down.

On Saturday, Chief of Detectives Ed Janney secured from County Attorney Hanson a search warrant, permitting the officer to lawfully enter the premises of the Occidental at 14-16 east First South street. The purpose was to raid the place—upstairs—in the hope of finding a bunch of gamblers practicing their nefarious trade. The warrant was placed in the hands of Detective Dick Shannon, and he, with a number of trusty officers, descended upon the place, confident of a big haul, press notices and promotion. But it seemed they reckoned without their host, and met with sorrowful disappointment.

The officers, headed by the genial Dick, finally got to the upstairs rooms, found everything quiet and serene. Several men were playing pool, while others were gazing intently at magazines, papers and books. As to gambling, why, there was nothing doing—of course.

IT WAS SO SIMPLE.

The officers did not know, and perhaps don't know yet, that they were observed long before they began to climb the stairs above the saloon. The club proprietors have a simple little contrivance for the purpose of seeing who climbs those stairs, but the officers did not know it and therefore wondered why it took the doorkeeper so long to turn the key in the lock midway on the stairs between the ground floor and the first landing. But, bless their innocent hearts, if they will but read this little tale they shall know.

There is a door half way up the stairs. This door is kept locked all the time. At the top of the stairs there is a large and well polished mirror facing the stairs and reflecting a full view of not only the stairs but even the sidewalk in front of the second floor are the club rooms.

Now, when the visitor ascends the stairs and bumps up against the door half way up a buzzer buzzes and at the buzz of the buzzer a look out from the "club" rooms peeks through a small hole in the door and gets a line on the mirror at the head of the stairs and said line and said mirror throws a reflection of the visitor's ground floor and sidewalk in front of the saloon.

CROOKS ARE JAILBREAKERS.

Two Burglars Captured Saturday Have A Record in Oregon.

The local police learned this morning that two of the four men arrested early Saturday morning on the charge of breaking into the room of two railroad men in the Clift house and threatening the roomers with instant death if they did not reveal the whereabouts of valuables, broke jail at Oregon recently and are now on the loose for various offenses. The men arrested gave the names of W. H. Apperley, Ed Carrall, Ble Bent and George Halloway.

The two prisoners "who broke jail" in the Junction City are supposed to be Bent and Halloway. This afternoon a local officer is conducting an investigation for the purpose of identifying the prisoners. In the event that the Oregon authorities have a more serious charge against the "club" rooms, they will be sent back to that city.
