MUST TAKE OUT FISH HATCHERIES

Dist. Atty. Halverson Directs the Removal of All Obstructions From Public Streams.

MRS. M'CORT BADLY BURNED.

Wirt Pence Discharged by Jury—Death of Mrs. Amidan—Wedding Bells—News Notes.

Ogden, July 17.—District Attorney George Halverson has sent the following letter to Deputy State Fish and Game Warden A. M. Van der Vliet: "In accordance with the opinion of the attorney-general you are hereby instructed to remove all obstructions which constitute a public nuisance in the public streams of the county, with special reference to the fish laws." The instructions will be carried out. It is the first fatal blow at the fish hatchery industry of Ogden valley which was just beginning to be a paying business. There are several hatcheries in Ogden valley filled with millions of trout of various sizes which are being marketed in Ogden. Several of these hatcheries are maintained in the streams running into the Ogden river and it is these that are considered a "public nuisance" against which the work of removal is to be directed. Some of the owners of these hatcheries have gone to heavy expense in raising up screens and small ponds for the fish in the bed of the streams, should the order of the district attorney be carried out these screens will be torn out and the fish turned into the public stream, thus making excellent trout fishing.

An injunction may be got out by the owners of the hatcheries to prevent an order of removal, but it is not until a court of justice has passed on the case. The outcome of the controversy will be watched with interest, as many people are in sympathy with the maintaining of the hatcheries in the streams where they have been placed.

WIRT PENCE DISCHARGED.

S. P. Engineer Declared by Jury Not Guilty of Stealing Blankets.

Ogden, July 17.—Wirt Pence, the young Southern Pacific engineer, who was arrested a couple of days ago on the charge of stealing blankets from the Pullman company, was found not guilty by a jury in the municipal court yesterday afternoon.

He was tried on the charge of petit larceny. The case was prosecuted by Assistant City Attorney James Divine, while E. T. Hulanicki represented the defendant.

According to the evidence and the admission of the defendant he did take two of the company's blankets from the debris of a wreck at Death, Nevada. He washed the blankets and used them, and had them brought to Ogden. Because of the carelessness of City Attorney Divine in preparing the complaint, however, he charged him with having on July 15, 1907, stolen at Ogden City, the blankets from the railroad company, but received a verdict charged him with having brought stolen property into the State of Utah, and on this technicality, Pence secured his freedom again.

HAVOCK OF THE WIND.

Bishop F. I. Jones Crushed Under Falling Barn and Seriously Hurt.

Special Correspondence.

Monticello, San Juan Co., July 16.—Yesterday during a heavy storm Bishop F. I. Jones was seriously hurt. He and two young men, Lester Christensen and Niels Christensen, were working on a new barn, the framework and the roof of which were nearly completed. The wind struck the barn and lifted it bodily nearly two feet from the ground and then it crashed down to the ground. The roof was left nearly intact, but the framework was made into kindling wood. Bishop Jones was pinned down between the end of the barn and an old shed, and had to be pried out with levers. His face and neck are badly lacerated from coming in contact with nails and rough boards, but his main injuries are internal, having some broken ribs. The young men were slightly hurt about the legs.

The crops are turning out fine, despite the unprecedented cold spring. People are moving in quite frequently, and San Juan is building up very rapidly. Dry land farming is quite a success and eastern capital is booming the country in the way of canals. Large tracts of land are being taken up. The Blue Mountain mining district is booming at present.
