

BREVITIES.

Capillary attraction—a fine head of hair.
In Staunton, Virginia, they have $10 a thousand feet for gas.
Seth Green claims to be hatching 700,000 shad a day in the Connecticut river.
Hang the sweetest grass round a pig's neck, and it will still go wallow in the mire.
A "personal" in the London Times wants a young woman with "coffee colored eyes."
Brooklyn's valuation is $161,317,570, an increase of eleven millions from last year.
It is said the pen is mightier than the sword. Neither is of much use without the holder.
A Kentuckian says he has chewed 1,835 pounds of tobacco in the last forty years.
At a recent book sale in London, six volumes printed by William Caxton brought the enormous price of $5,480.
An underground railway in Paris, with the view of bringing in market produce from the suburbs is decided upon.
Why is a baby like wheat? Because it is first cradled, then thrashed, and finally becomes the flower of the family.
A Jew in Wilna has been fined twenty-five roubles for crying fire in Polish instead of Russian when his house was burning.
A Russian sport broke the bank at Baden twice in one day, and at evening found himself a loser to the amount of $8,000.
John G. Saxe says it is a common notion in Boston, that if a person is born in that city, it is unnecessary for the favored individual to be born again.
The Vermont farmers are reported to be changing the breed of their sheep from Spanish merino, to Southdown, the latter variety being greatly superior for mutton.
The Moscow Gazette is the most influential journal in Russia. The editor escapes all trouble because no one can pronounce his name or write an order for his arrest.
It is said the late Mr. John Douglas Cook, editor of the Saturday Review, never wrote a single line in the journal he created and watched over to the day of his death.
During a thunder-storm in France, recently, a gentleman who had gold and silver coins in his pocket had the former electro-plated with silver by natural causes—a phenomenon never before witnessed.
New Orleans is insolvent and cannot pay its employees. No one will lend its financial agent money, even at exorbitant rates of interest. The difficulty bears especially hard on policemen and school teachers.
Rabbi N. Newman, of St. Petersburg, in view of the many fatal results from circumcision amongst the children of that city, has left the people of his district free to choose whether they will dispense with the rite.
A woman named Adeline Peck died of delirium tremens in a New York station house one night recently. She was the divorced wife of a prominent merchant, and formerly held a high social position in city circles.
Said a local exhorter, who had the habit of adding "ah" to many of his words: "My dear brethren, listen to the words of the old man-ah, who has one foot in the grave-ah, and the other all but-ah!"
A new Paris brooch is an enameled branch of fig leaves bearing fruit. Each fig is a stumpy, pear shaped pearl. A thick serpent of precious stones coils in the centre, but instead of spitting out venom, it holds a large diamond out on its forked tongue.
Fred. (who has been sent down stairs to entertain the visitors while his mamma is arranging her back hair. "Do you keep cocks and hens, Mr. Meekings?"
Mr. M. "Why do you ask, my dear?"
Fred. "Because my pa told my ma that you was hen-pecked."
The opening of King Rufus' tomb has led to a charge that all the relics found in the sarcophagus were not put back. It is even hinted that some of the royal bones were retained by relic fanciers and carried away to secret places. This notwithstanding a sharp watch was kept on all parties suspected of being none too good to filch a part of the remains.
Two persons were once disputing so loudly on the subject of religion, that they awoke a big dog which had been sleeping on the hearth before them, and he forthwith barked most furiously. An old divine present, who had been quietly sipping his tea while the disputants were talking, gave the dog a kick, and exclaimed, "Hold your noise, you silly brute, you know no more about it than they do!"
The following affecting lines may be found upon a tombstone in Connecticut:
Here lies one down like unto ripe fruit,
The wife of Deacon Amos Bettey;
She died of drinking too much coffee,
Anno Domini eighteen forty.
In the same churchyard:
Here lies the wife of Roger Martin,
She was a good wife to Roger, that's certain,
The manner of her death was thus,
She was driven over by a bus.
The following is a Spanish epitaph upon a young girl who died broken-hearted:
She who died beneath this stone
Died of constancy alone,
Fear not, approach, oh passer-by—
Of aught contagious did she die.
