

PARKER SCORES

WILLIAM J. BRYAN

He says That it is a pity Mr. Bryan Was Not as Frank in 1903 as He is in 1908.

HE WAS NOT ENTIRELY OPEN.

The Dragon Teeth That He Sowed Have Produced an Abundant Harvest.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 22.—Alton B. Parker, Democratic candidate for president in 1904, commented tonight on the speech of William J. Bryan before the Democratic members of the Kentucky legislature yesterday, in which Mr. Bryan was quoted as saying that in 1904 he "took his medicine in Parker."

Parker was the man above all others that did not want.

"What a pity," said Judge Parker, "that Mr. Bryan failed to be equally frank in 1903. Had he done so, the situation of the party would be vastly different than it is. There were few Democrats in that year who thought it wise to have a third-term candidate. But every man of sense would have recognized Mr. Bryan's support his warm personal following would seek revenge for the defeat of 1896 and 1900."

"So statements, politicians and interested citizens sought diligently to find some one that he would support. To some at least he said he would bolt ex-President Cleveland, Gov. Hill, Senator Gorman and Judge Gray, but it would be hard to oppose Parker, as Parker had supported him."

"This attitude induced the impression among many that my nomination would be as acceptable to Mr. Bryan as to myself. That impression led to pressure upon me from many quarters to change my plans for life, and it contributed in no small measure to the movement which led to the defeat of the convention."

"Subsequent events showed that Mr. Bryan had not been entirely open with those who had consulted him. For when the time came to vote for me, he was elected favorable to my nomination—when, indeed, the tide had grown too strong to be breast, he started out on his famous tour of denunciation. The denunciation which he then made yielded an abundant harvest—aye, all that he could wish."

"But it would have been much better for the party had he said in 1903, before sentiment had crystallized, as he says now: 'Parker is the man above all others that I do not want.'"

Mrs. Turner left a note to her mother, in which she said she could not endure to face the charges made by her husband that she was not morally fit to raise their children. She had sued for divorce on the ground of cruelty and non-support.

Bonaparte said today that the basis of the suit would be based on the report of the interstate commerce commission of last July, in which the details from the alleged merger were given. He said that the report had been made the subject of it had been discussed at a conference held at the White House, when the entire matter was referred to the department of justice for consideration and investigation, and that early in last December action was determined on, but was delayed by reason of the unexpected absence in Europe of C. It is expected that Hendricks has been granted partial immunity in consideration of his telling all he knows in connection with the alleged conspiracy.

canal by spies armed with dynamite will be very small, providing armed guards are stationed at the Miraflores and Gatun locks. The locks themselves, Col. Goethals explained, are located sufficiently far from either coast to render them safe from naval attacks.

Col. Goethals said that the average ships probably would be able to pass through the canal in less than eight hours. He said there would be plenty of room for ships to pass, except possibly in Culebra cut, and also that more than one vessel could occupy a lock at the same time.

"The entire United States fleet," he said, "can be accommodated at one time in Gatun lake, when completed."

Col. Goethals gave it as his opinion that the prevalence of "slides" and "pinches" at different points on the route of the canal would not greatly hinder the canal construction, and he added that the engineers were gradually overcoming them. He also said he had little apprehension about earthquakes.

In discussing the financial needs of the canal commission during the next fiscal year, Col. Goethals said that it was necessary to have $5,000,000 over the appropriation of last year. The enlargement is mainly due to increase of work.

PARKER BUILDING FIRE.

Hose Used Never Tested for Fear That It Would Burst.

New York, Jan. 22.—Startling testimony of the effect that the hose used by the New York fire department had never been tested for fear that it would burst, was obtained today from Fire Commissioner Lantry, who was a witness in the inquiry concerning defective hose used in fighting the fire in the Parker building, which brought the suit against their lives. Commissioner Lantry declared he did not know when the last test of hose was made, and that there had been no test since he became head of the department.

Investigation was ordered by Mayor McCellan. Commissioner Lantry and Fire Chief Croker were the chief witnesses today, and their testimony disclosed that practically all the hose in the department was unfit.

Commissioner Lantry declared that 41 lengths burst at the Parker building fire. He said the city had only about three-quarters of an amount of hose that he should have, and that tests were not made lest the hose might be ruined by them. Chief Croker said he had no more criticism to offer concerning the Parker building fire, but that he had no other fire in recent years. He said the fire department hose was in very bad condition from age.

STATISTICS OF WORLD'S SHIPBUILDING IN 1907.

London, Jan. 22.—Great Britain's claim as shipbuilder for the world is no longer justified to such an extent as formerly. The statistics of the world's shipbuilding in 1907 just issued by Lloyd's Register show that the output of mercantile tonnage by the United Kingdom of 1,742,365, being a decrease of 220,000 tons as compared with 1906, which was the highest on record. The foreign output in 1907 increased by nearly 80,000 tons.

Great Britain, however, still builds more than one-half of the mercantile shipping of the globe, which last year showed a net increase of 1,848,800 tons, compared with an increase of 2,138,800 in 1906. The world's fleet of sailing ships was reduced during the year by 180,000 tons, and the steam tonnage was increased by 2,164,800.

The United States built in 1907, 475,000 tons, which was a slight increase. Germany showed a serious decline. Last year she built 275,000 tons, as compared with 315,000 in 1906, and at the same time she purchased less from Great Britain.

Great Britain is still a large purchaser of vessels built abroad. Another matter of great discontent in this country is the large percentage of British mercantile marine. They total 40,000, with an annual wage list of $10,000,000.

MORAN AND ATTELL

BEST IN CLASS

The Titles of Both: However. Are Clouded by De-feats.

NEITHER HAS CLEAN RECORD.

But Their Ability in the Roped Arena Entitles Them to Premier Place in Boxing.

The twenty-five round fight between Abe Attell and Owen Moran at Colma recently, at the featherweight limit, and which fight resulted in a draw, has caused many questions to be asked concerning the clever little exponents of the Queensbury art. One question repeatedly asked is:

How and why is Attell featherweight champion of America? And where and when did Moran capture the title in England as box of the little fellows on the tight isle?

If the matter were to be decided by a strictly technical ruling then neither of the fighters won the title in a bona fide championship contest, but so fast as the game of boxing is concerned the day of technical ruling has passed.

Attell is the champion of America because there is not a man in the country at his weight that the sporting experts feel can beat him. He has run the gamut of the featherweight and has come out right side up. Since October 13, 1904, he has fought 15 times, and has won 14 of them. He has beaten some of the best fighters in the world, and has not lost in all that time.

Moran has had 33 fights since beaten by Bowker in 1904, and a decision has been given against him in all that time. Of these contests fifteen have ended in draws, and he has been boxed by Bowker several times. In his boxing contests in which it is claimed he more than held his own.

Bowker has since lost twice to Jim Driscoll, while Moran boxed the same fellow a four-round no-decision contest in London and held his own in such a way that when he came to this country he was heralded as the champion of the land of the morning star, and men who dare not go out on the street minus their walking stick, for fear of catching cold, fight it out for the championship.

Until such times as Driscoll and Moran meet again, the winner will be recognized in this country as the champion of the world, even though both come by the title without ever really winning it in a battle with a champion.

Terry McGovern was the last of the bona fide champion featherweights of this country, but he has long since outgrown the weight limit and when he lost the title to Corbett the men met at a weight much above champion's limit.

JOE ULLMAN. TURFMAN. DIES AT LONG ISLAND.

New York, Jan. 22.—Joseph F. Ullman, the well known racing man, died in a sanitarium at Amityville, Long Island, last night as the result of paralysis, from which he has suffered for nearly a year. "Joe" Ullman and his two brothers were known as among the most successful bookmakers in the country and their operations extended from the coast to the other. Although Ullman won several fortunes, he lost them again and it is said that he died almost penniless. His last venture was the backing of an opera company, in which he is said to have lost $40,000.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Joseph Ullman, who died at Amityville, L. I. last night, was probably better known in Chicago than anywhere else because of his long connection with Edward Corrigan which covered practically a period of racing activity in this city.

He started in life as a butcher in St. Louis in the days of the old West, and later became a bookmaker. He was a contemporary of Leo Mayer and George Wheeler, in the state writing profession.

Ullman became associated with Corrigan first in the days of the old West Side race track before the days of Garfield Park racing. Afterward he went to Hawthorne with Corrigan, and it was there that he became a racing man. He and his business was the operation of the foreign book, which was reputed to have won over $600,000 in six months.

With the close of the Hawthorne track and the war with Garfield Park, Ullman entered in the bookmaking business. After the resumption of Chicago racing in the '90s Ullman's association with Corrigan continued without interruption until the racing season was stopped in Cook county. Then he went east, and at one time attempted to establish another Monte Carlo on "No Man Land," an island in Chesapeake Bay.

Later on in company with Barney "Old" Wells, Ullman ran the famous book at the Saratoga track which was known as "The Big Store," where bets of $100,000 were accepted without hesitation.

A year ago last winter Ullman financed the San Carlo Grand Opera company, of which Miss Alice Neilson, now singing in this city, was a star. While conducting this enterprise, in which he lost money, Ullman was expected to have had his first attack of temporary insanity and was placed in a Los Angeles sanitarium.
