SEMI-ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

To the Officers and Members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints:

You are hereby invited to attend meetings which will be held in the Large Tabernacle in this city, at 10 o'clock in the morning, and 2 o'clock in the afternoon of Thursday, Oct. 5th, 1882, preparatory to the Semi-Annual Conference, which will commence at 10 o'clock on Friday morning, October 6th, 1882.

JOHN TAYLOR,
GEORGE Q. CANNON,
JOSEPH F. SMITH.

First Presidency of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Salt Lake City,
Sept. 26th, 1882.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Wide Awake, published by D. Lathrop & Co., Boston, is a splendid illustrated Magazine for young people and, like all the juvenile works from that first-class house contains nothing deleterious to the youthful mind. It is published monthly at $2.50 a year.

The Great American and European Short Line Railway Company is the title of a fully organized corporation, proposing to build to the nearest points of America and Europe, Newfoundland and Ireland, and thus reduce the ocean route to about 1,600 miles, or about four days' travel on the briny deep. The line is expected to be in operation by 1887.

Polish journals call attention to a memorial tablet in a Warsaw church, which contains the records of the age and death of the oldest man, concerning whom there is an authentic account in existence. The priest Cybulski is shown by this tablet to have been born in 1500, and to have died in 1667. There is said to be an unquestionable evidence of the correctness of these dates.

One of the American Arctic colonies has reported progress. The expedition to Point Harrow last year attracted comparatively little attention, as this headland is a favorite rendezvous for whalers and is visited many times every summer. The New York Tribune says: "The corps of observers have passed a busy twelve-month, doing the work which was assigned to them, and remaining in excellent health. The wreck of a steam whaler gave them an opportunity of rescuing, feeding and sheltering the crew. Another year of scientific observations has opened, and the colonies will not be prepared to abandon their station until the close of September, 1883. Tidings from the colony at Lady Franklin Bay will be awaited with more anxiety, as the post occupied is many hundred miles further north.

THIS YEAR'S TAXES.

THERE appears to be some dubiety among the people as to the payment of territorial, county and school taxes for the present year. This is in consequence of the foolish course of the Governor in appointing assessors and collectors for offices not vacant, and of the equally foolish alarms raised by persons who imagine themselves legal authorities and are yet unacquainted with the local statutes.

We assure our readers that this question is not open to any doubt. No matter whether the Governor has or has not the lawful authority to make appointments for certain offices which he has undertaken to fill, there is no law, congressional or territorial, which empowers him to fill the offices of assessor and collector in the various counties.

It has been explained over and over again, that the only law under which the Governor can assume to act in making appointments is that which is known as the Hoar Amendment, and this only authorizes him to fill vacancies caused by the failure of the August election. Now, taking the broadest view of this authority, even in the sense claimed for it by the Governor, the taxes for 1882 must be paid to the present officers because their terms of office did not expire with the August election, and whether their successors take office by election or appointment they cannot enter into the offices till next year.

Under the amendments to the revenue law, made at the legislative session of 1880, it is provided that the Assessor "shall enter upon his duties on the first day of January next following his election and shall qualify within five days prior thereto;" and that the Collector "shall enter upon the duties of his office on the first day of June next following his election." The collector is also required to give a bond to the Territory "for the payment of territorial and school taxes due from him to the Territory," and also a bond to the County "for the payment into the County Treasury of all County taxes due from him to the County."

Taxes therefore must be paid to the present Collectors whatever may be the result of the litigation now commenced in regard to the county offices. In any event no one can be authorized to receive this year's taxes but the Collectors now in office who are legally bound to pay the whole amount thereof into the respective treasuries, the taxes being charged to them, they having to secure themselves by collecting from the taxpayers. Let no one be deceived on this point. There is no room or reason for quibble or dispute on the question.

THE FIRST UTAH ELECTION LAW.

We are in receipt of the anexed communication:

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 29, 1882.

Editor Deseret News:

In your issue of Sept. 23 you successfully settled the claim of the "Liberals" that no law was passed by the Utah Legislature in reference to the qualifications of voters at elections till Jan. 21, 1859 and also refuted their absurd argument that there were no legal voters to elect the Legislature of 1859. But you made one statement that I should like a little more light upon namely that the Act of Jan. 3d, 1853 prescribed the qualifications of voters. It is now asserted that the Act you refer to said nothing about such qualifications and in proof of this the compilation of 1866 is cited which contains the Act of 1853 on elections and it has no reference to the qualifications of voters. Were you mistaken? INQUIRER.

No, we were not mistaken, unless it was that we mentioned the Act of 1853 in such a manner as might leave the inference that it was the first law of Utah on the subject of elections. The Act of Jan. 3d, 1853, as it passed the Legislative Assembly, contained sixteen sections. It appears, as enacted, in the compilation of 1855, which is now before us, and Section 16 presents the qualifications of voters. But an Act was approved January 21, 1859, which provided for the qualifications for voting as well as holding office in this Territory, and thus rendering unnecessary section 16 of the Act of 1853, that section was omitted in the compilation of 1866. Hence the apparent error which, as will be seen on examination of the Act of 1853 as it passed the Assembly, was no error at all. Our correspondent may refer his "smart" and carping "Liberal" objectors to the original statute, and their nonsense about no "qualified voters in Utah," will not have a leg to stand upon.

But we will explain further concerning the first election law enacted after the organization of the Legislature. The first session of the Legislative Assembly was convened in pursuance to the proclamation of the Governor, on the 22nd day of September, 1851, and continued by adjournments to the 18th of February, 1852. A special session was called by the Governor, which convened on the following day and continued till March 6th, 1852. At this session "An Act Regulating Elections" was passed containing twenty-three sections, making all necessary provisions for the conducting of general elections in this Territory. The following prescribes the qualifications of voters:

SEC. 21. All free, white, male citizens of the Territory of Utah, of the age of twenty-one years shall be considered legal voters: Provided, That nothing in this act shall be so construed as to admit of any military officers or soldiers in the United States service, stationed within the limits of this Territory, to vote for territorial, county or precinct officers.

This law was passed so as to be operative for the first election under the Territorial Statutes, the previous election having been called by the Governor under authority conferred by the Organic Act, which prescribed the qualifications of voters for that election, and empowered the Legislative Assembly to prescribe the qualifications of voters at all subsequent elections. The act of 1852 was superseded by that of 1853, almost if not entirely repealed by subsequent statutes. Thus there has never been a time since the passage of the Organic Act when Utah has been without qualified voters, except the short time intervening between the first election under an act and the passage of the law referred to, which provided the qualifications of voters at the ensuing election. And thus all the "Liberal" stuff predicated on the hypothesis that there were no qualified voters after 1851, falls into the mud and passes out of sight. Is our correspondent satisfied now?

THE FRUIT INTEREST.

JUST how much fruit, green, canned and dried in Utah is exported to the surrounding States and Territories cannot at present be definitely ascertained; but we are able to state after careful inquiry that over 3,000 pounds daily has been shipped north from Ogden on the Utah & Northern for a month past, and as much, if not more, on the Union Pacific, and this by express. As to the amount sent by freight we are unprepared to state.

Utah peaches are held in high esteem in Montana, and are preferred to the California varieties, as being of better flavor. Other stone fruits are also shipped in large quantities. We are safe in saying that the demand for our fruits will increase every year, and the more we can produce of fine quality, the greater will be the demand.

Montana is now producing large quantities of flour, potatoes and small grains, and strange to say, Montana flour commands a better price than the product of our mills, but the altitude of Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho and Montana will prevent these parts of the common domain ever successfully competing with Utah in raising fruits. The NEWS has frequently urged upon its readers the necessity of planting the most desirable fruits that resist the encroachments of the codling moth. Foremost among them stands the peach, whose fruit reaches nearly a perfect state in our lower valleys—a tree that thrives well in a loose gravelly soil—that could be utilized to great advantage where other crops would be a failure. We now renew the suggestion to our farmers and gardners to look well after this matter so that we may be able to supply all that may be demanded for exportation, and have plenty for canning, which always pays better than drying.

Ogden is now shipping immense quantities of vegetables to all parts; in this respect she is more favorably situated than Salt Lake City, as the extra charges from here to Ogden add to the cost, but the advent of the Rio Grande narrow gauge will put us in direct communication with Colorado and the east, and will enable us to ship as cheaply to those points.

The potato crop in Colorado this year is almost a failure; the same may be said of Wyoming. This fact to the close observer will indicate the necessity of taking care of our tubers.

We ought to command as good a figure in the market for flour as any other Territory, and to keep up our pre-eminence in fruit we must continue to plant the best kinds of trees and then take good care of them.

COUNTY CONVENTION.

Minutes of Salt Lake County Convention held in the Court House Salt Lake City, Sept. 30th, 1882, at 12 noon.

Geo. M. Ottinger was elected temporary chairman, and Francis Cope was elected temporary secretary.

A committee of three was appointed by the chairman to examine credentials, consisting of Joshua Midgley, Hamilton G. Park and N. V. Jones.

During the absence of the committee on credentials, Hon. C. W. Penrose responded to a unanimous call and made an interesting speech reviewing the political situation at the present time and encouraging the people to exercise their privileges in defending their (few) rights and not to yield to the unjust raids made upon them by the Territorial Governor.

Milo Andrus followed Mr. Penrose in a brief speech.

A full representation was reported by the committee on credentials.

George M. Ottinger was elected permanent chairman, and Francis Cope permanent secretary.

The chairman explained the object of the meeting; there were 16 delegates to be elected, and he thought that 10 would be a fair proportion for the city and six for the outside wards.

A committee on nominations, was, on motion, appointed.

Speeches were called for and made by John N. Pike, Geo. M. Ottinger and O. H. Pettit, which were well received and heartily applauded.

The committee on nominations returned and presented the following names as delegates to the Territorial Convention: C. W. Penrose, Adam Spiers, E. B. Fulmer, N. V. Jones, Mrs. M. I. Horne, Peter Reid, John N. Pike, T. V. Williams, J. R. Winder, James Crane, Hyrum S. Bennion, Mrs. E. Howard, Henry Day, J. S. Rawlins, R. G. Lambert, Geo. M. Ottinger.

On motion it was resolved to act separately on the names presented, which was done, and each was elected unanimously.

On motion of Hugh Watson five alternates were elected from the body of the house as follows:

J. C. Woods, H. P. Richards, Milando Pratt, N. A. Empey, W. H. Williams.

The present County Central Committee of the People's Party were re-elected.

Meeting adjourned.

GEO. M. OTTINGER, Chairman,
FRANCIS COPE, Secretary.

CONFERENCE ATTRACTION.

For the benefit of the Deseret Sunday School Union, on Saturday night, October 9th, there will be a Grand Juvenile Concert of about 400 voices, trained in parts by Mr. Evan Stephens, interspersed with duets and solos by Misses Olsen and Druce, Mr. Stephens and others, also some choice selections by the Mendelsohn Club. The entertainment will be held in the Tabernacle, which will be lighted with eight electric lights, expressly for the occasion.

The Deseret Sunday School Union are anxious to supply each school with reading and singing books of our own publication, except the Bible and other standard church works, with the view of encouraging home talent, and increasing the variety of songs, duets, quartettes, anthems, &c. We are offering as inducements a scale of prizes for the choicest productions of sentiments and music. We have already published a first and second reader, two song books and a variety of cards, &c., and many thousands of each have been disposed of, nearly all the schools in each Stake having more or less of them in use. Owing to the very low price they are sold at, only a trifling margin to the Union remains as profit, beyond actual cost.

Some years ago, the proceeds of a concert enabled us to commence the publication of the above. The fund from that source is now absorbed in an accumulation of stock on the shelves, and we now need to replenish our treasury, to increase our facilities for usefulness, and meet the growing demand.

Every officer in the Union is strictly opposed to the solicitation of donations, but all are in favor of its continuing to be, as it always has been, a self sustaining institution, second to none in importance. More than forty thousand teachers and children meet every Sabbath day in Sunday Schools (of Latter-day Saints), when the precious truths of the Gospel of Jesus Christ are taught, and a holy influence exerted on the minds of both teachers and pupils. A more heavenly and happy spirit is nowhere to be found on earth than in a Sabbath school.

Friends of the institution whose name is legion, are respectfully invited to show their appreciation by filling that large Tabernacle to its utmost capacity.

The sight alone of 10,000 people, whose countenances will beam with radiance from the chaste and beautiful electric light, will afford quite an attractive feature of itself, and, added to that, a two hours' entertainment from well trained voices of 400 Sunday school children and others whose melodies will form a strong recommendation to the institution they represent.

Tickets for the concert may be obtained at James Dwyer's bookstore, David O. Calder's John Daynes', and Daynes & Coalter's music stores; also at C. R. Savage's art gallery, and at the entrance door on the evening of the concert.

Prices of admission: The two centre rows of seats in the body of the Hall and east end of the gallery, fifty cents; the side seats and balance of the gallery, twenty-five cents; chidren under twelve years, half price. Doors will be open at 6 o'clock p. m., concert to commence at 7.

Assistant Territorial Superintendent Sunday School Union.
