JUST AND RIGHT.-The Territorial Enterprise says, "We hope to see the apportionment bill so amended as to admit the Territories now applying for Statehood." That is a right that should be no longer withheld, or, if it is, equal rights with the States should be extended to the Territories of electing their own officers, otherwise the name of a republican government for the Territories is a mockery and a farce.

FROM THURSDAY'S DAILY,

LOGAN CO-OPERATIVE INSTITUTION .ed from a tour through Cache County, offers the following jottings concerning the Logan branch of Z. C. M. I.:

The institution was established May 1st, 1869, with a capital stock of $18,000, which has been considerably increased since. When the association commenced operation it bought out the stock and real estate of Messrs. William Jennings & Co., in Logan. This, in some respects, was somewhat of a drawback to the institution, as it necessitated the lying out at interest, for a considerable period, of a large portion of the capital stock. This obstacle, however, that Biegan had asserted that Doyle was one of the party who planned and for whose benefit says most of the senators object to adwas committed the forgery on the First National Bank, and for which Bieggu was, a short time since, arrested. This assertion, it appears enraged Doyle against B egan, and he threat ing opposition to civil service reform, ened to shoot the latter on sight. To carry out this intention, it is said that at about five o'clock yesterday afternoon he was hunting about on the streets for his intended victim, and that he had a horse ready, with which to make his escape after committing the deed. Between seven and eight o'c'ock, Doyle and Mrs. Miller went to the Graud Restaurant, where they took supper. After this they went down East Temple Street together, Doyle with his pistol in his hand, prepared to shoet Biegan, should be meet with him. They entered the Revere House together, and as Doyle stood at the counter, with his pistol in one hand and a. glass in the other, Biegan entered the saloon and fired three shots from a revolver at him, millions are four and half per cent, and one of which took effect in his (Doyle's) right $200,000,000 are in four per cents. The sice, about seven or eight inches below the arm. Blegan would have fired more, but his pistol would not revolve. Doyle then fired at Biegan, the ball passing through the latter's right arm, misway between the elbow and wrist, causing him to drop his weapon. Biegan then ran into the wash room. followed by Doyle, the latter, nowever, soon s aggered back into the saloon and fell.

Biegan soon afterwards gave himself up to the officers and was taken to the city jall. Doyle was carried to a bedroom in the Revers House. Several physicians were called to, who rendered him all the aid in their power, which however, proved unavailing. He died this morning at fifteen minutes to eight, morning, Thomas Butterwood was up for examination, at the City Hall, on a charge of passing a counterfeit ten dollar bill to Fred. May, an employe of M1. John Paul, butcher. It appeared from the evidence adduced, that after receiving the bill from Butterworth, Mr. May took it to Mr. Hepworth and got change for it, Mr. H. at the time putting it into his vest pocket. Some granting furloughs to the naval retime afterwards the latter gentleman handed it to another man with whom he had some business transaction, and who, when receiving it, said he thought it was a counterfeit, but agreed to take it, with the understanding that should his surmises prove correct, it should be returned to Mr. Hepworth. On presentation of the bill at one of the banks it was declared counterfeit, and it agossa returns to Havana. It is assertwas, of course, returned to Mr. Hepworth, ed that the Spanish steamer Pisarra, who took it to Mr. May, from whom it was watching the Virginia, at Aspinwall received by him. The examination was postponed till one p.m. to-day, when Butterwood proposed to prove that the bill was passed to him by another party.
