LOCAL NEWS.

FROM TUESDAY'S DAILY, NOV. 11.

From Scandinavia.—This afternoon we had the pleasure of a call from Elder C. A. Ek, of Logan, who returned yesterday in charge of a company of eighty-four immigrants and nine returning missionaries from Scandinavia. The party had a pleasant and prosperous journey throughout.

Elder Ek left here on the 16th of October, 1882, and labored in the Stockholm, (Sweden) Conference, being, during the last nineteen months of his stay in that part of the world, president of that field. A good work was done there during his sojourn. He was present at 417 baptisms, in 62 of which he officiated personally. During his ministry in the field to which he was assigned, 1,568 meetings were held among strangers, and a large number of books and pamphlets circulated among the people. The Saints of Stockholm rent a hall with a seating capacity of 200, and the meetings are generally well attended. There is little or no opposition, and the work is prospering, with bright prospects ahead.

TERRITORIAL ITEMS.

CULLED FROM LATEST EXCHANGES.

—The Horn Silver mine employs upwards of 160 men, and is producing in the neighborhood of 130 tons of medium grade ore every 24 hours. Two new shafts are however being sunk, and with the present prospect the Horn Silver will soon be sending out more than four times that amount of ore daily. The new mammoth hoisting engine, recently erected on this mine at a cost of $75,000, is working like a charm. Thirteen carloads of ore are shipped daily to the smelters at Francklyn. The ore is said to average about $80 per ton, and there are positively millions of tons in sight.

—James Olsen, a young man of Hyrum, Cache County, was cutting logs in the cañon on Monday week, and while doing so, by some means the axe slipped and cut a fearful gash in his foot. This is a sad case, as the boy is the only help his aged and poor father has.

—The other day, in front of the Broom Hotel, Ogden, a boy riding a bicycle came in collision with a little lad over whom he ran, himself upsetting and landing flat on the sidewalk. The small fellow was badly hurt and the bicycle rider did not escape without bruises.

—On Thursday last a 15-year-old son of Mr. J. Thompson, of Riverdale, Weber County, was driving some horses he jumped from the back of the one he was riding, when the animal kicked him severely in the face, knocking out two front teeth and badly lacerating his lip, besides inflicting other painful injuries. Dr. H. J. Powers was sent for and he attended to the patient with his surgical skill, leaving him in a comparatively comfortable condition.

THE ABORTION CASE.

U. S. ATTORNEY DICKSON MANIFESTS A DETERMINATION TO SIFT IT TO THE BOTTOM.

The Police Court this morning was the magnetic cynosure for that element of the street which finds one of its chief amusements and occupations in drinking in the details, often disgusting—but to them all the better for that—involved in the trials and examinations which come under the jurisdiction of such tribunals. The preliminary investigation in the Irons-Fowler-Evans abortion case is no exception in point of attraction to such, and the court-room was crowded in anticipation of its being proceeded with. In this, however, the audience were doomed to disappointment, in a measure, as will appear.

At the hour set for the examination, half-past 10 o'clock, Judge Spiers was in his place, and within the rail were Messrs Irons and Fowler, the accused parties; Judge Snow, County Prosecuting Attorney Waddell, his assistant Mr. Fletcher, and Mr. C. S. Varian, Assistant U. S. Attorney, all of whom represent the prosecution; also Messrs. Bennett, Harkness and Kirkpatrick, representing Dr. Fowler, and Mr. Denney, who represents Mr. Irons. There was also present Mr. Kimball, of Ogden, who consulted with the others and may or may not be numbered among the counsel for the defense. The following witnesses were also in attendance: Dr. Carnahan (Ogden), Mrs. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Milando Pratt, Brigham Jones, Professor Andrews, Mrs. Neilson (the midwife), Dr. J. S. Richards, Dr. Hamilton and Dr. Bowers.

After consulting some moments together, there was a movement among the attorneys and Judge Snow, addressing the Court, announced that the defense desired a continuance for one week. As a basis for this, a Doctor's certificate to the effect that Mrs. John W. Irons, nee Miss Lizzie Evans, the prosecuting witness, was in too delicate a state of health to appear, was presented.

At this point Mr. W. H. Dickson, United States Attorney, who is acting as an assistant in the prosecution, entered the Court, and on learning what had been proposed, objected to the continuance, letting daylight through the proposition to that end by stating that the sickness of a prosecuting witness was no ground for the defense in moving for a postponement. The prosecution, he said, wanted the examination to proceed. Judge Spiers overruled the motion to continue.

The attorneys for the respective defendants then made a joint proposition to waive the investigation and let the case go to the grand jury, and asked the court to fix the amount of bail required.

Mr. Dickson stated that he had no objection to its being waived so far as the defense was concerned, but for the prosecution he insisted that the examination proceed, and that evidence be introduced for that side.

Mr. Kirkpatrick replied that it would be a great injustice to the defendants, owing to the heat and excitement that had been caused, to introduce testimony and have it published broadcast at this stage of the case; and as the only object in its introduction was to enable the court to fix the amount of bail, he proposed that the bail be fixed at any amount, and it would be furnished, however large. He claimed the right of the defense to waive, particularly as the Grand Jury was now in session, and the case could go right up without delay.

Mr. Dickson contended that the object in now taking evidence was to preserve it, in case of the death or future absence of the witnesses. The testimony taken before the Grand Jury was secret and could not be used in a prosecution in the District Court, and in view of the possible death or absence of witnesses when wanted, who were now at hand and ready to testify, he insisted that their depositions be made, taken down, signed and sworn to, that they might be used by the prosecution in the District Court, if it became necessary. He claimed to be able to produce authorities that would bear him out in this position.

The Court decided to defer further action till 2 o'clock, to enable Mr. Dickson to get his authorities, a proceeding acquiesced in by the other side, who also proposed to bring similar data in opposition to the stand taken by the prosecution.

At 2 o'clock the case was resumed. Judge Spiers decided that the examination of witnesses for the prosecution should go on, and that it should be conducted with closed doors, and the public excluded.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY, NOV. 12

More Immigrants.—The following was received here at 5:10 last evening: New York, Oct. 11, 1884.

President John Taylor:

One hundred and sixty-three souls just landed, in charge of Elder Joseph A. Smith. Will leave to-morrow; all well.

JAMES H. HART.

Diphtheria Again.—Diphtheria has again made its appearance in that much-afflicted settlement, Pleasant Grove. Some five or six children are suffering with the malady. They are confined to the southeast limits of the town, and are strictly quarantined. The patients are progressing favorably, with the exception of one, a girl, and grave doubts are entertained of her recovery.

Arm Crushed.—On Monday last, a seventeen-year old son of Geo. Daniels of Summit County was thrown from a wagon while coming down the cañon. He fell between the wheels and his arm was run over between the elbow and shoulder joints, crushing the humerus and severely lacerating the tissues. Dr. Wm. B. Parkinson, of Farmington, who was spending a few days in Coalville, was sent for and fixed him up as comfortable as possible under the circumstances.

Illustrated Lecture.—The lecture by Mr. J. A. Macknight on the United States will be ready for production in about two weeks. It will be illustrated by views of all the principal events in American History, from the landing of Columbus to the assassination of President Garfield. Lincoln's assassination will be illustrated with mechanical, automatic views, in which the figures will move in the picture; J. Wilkes Booth, the assassin, will enter the box of President Lincoln and fire in the sight of the audience. The effect will undoubtedly be fearfully realistic. The lecturer has sent East for his views.

More of the Earthquake.—"M," writing from Richmond, Cache County, on the 10th inst., speaks thus of the earthquake experienced there and in different parts of Utah nearly that morning:

"At about five minutes before two o'clock this morning, the people of this place and the surrounding country were awakened by low rumbling sounds, like distant thunder, or the approach of a severe wind-storm, followed quickly by a sudden trembling and shaking of the earth. The shock was quite severe in some parts of the town. At the co-op store canned goods were shaken from the shelves. The 'earthquake' has been the town-talk during the day."

The Ogden Herald of the same date says:

"Early this morning the slumbers of a number of the citizens of Ogden were disturbed by the rattling of windows, furniture, etc., caused by a slight shock of earthquake. During the day reports have been received from stations along the Utah & Northern to the same effect, the worst being apparently experienced between Logan and Pocatello, the shock at Battle Creek being very severe and scaring the people considerably. The tremors evidently followed the chain of mountains, for the residents in the western part of this city, knew very little, if anything of the occurrence at the time."

Fearful Accident.—The Ogden Herald gives the particulars of a frightful accident which occurred on the State road, just north of the Mound Fort Schoolhouse, last Saturday afternoon. Mr. James Stone, of Lynne, and two other men were on their way to Ogden when the doubletree bolt of the wagon they were in came out. This caused the tongue of the wagon to drop, from which the horses took fright and began to circle around at a terrible gait, pulling the wagon by the stay chains. Two of the men jumped out, and were unhurt, but the unfortunate man Stone, in endeavoring to escape in the same manner, was caught by his boot-leg on the standard of the front bolster. Here, with head downward, the horses continuing their fearful circular flight, Mr. Stone was thrown around the circle like the "cracker" of a whip, his whiskers being ground from the side of his face by the action of the wheels, and his head receiving the most fearful injuries. The maddened horses were finally stopped, and the injured man taken up. Dr. Condon was immediately sent for, and upon examination he found the poor man's skull fractured, and saw that he had received so many injuries that but little hope of his life is entertained. Mr. Stone was removed to his residence in Lynne, where all that human aid could do was done to alleviate him, but he continued in his comatose condition, occasionally waking from his stupor, only to rave.

Mr. Stone is highly respected, and well known in the community. He has a wife and five children who are thrown into the greatest grief at the frightful calamity.

Deseret Democrats.—The citizens of Deseret and vicinity turned out en masse on the 10th, and celebrated with vim and vigor the election of Grover Cleveland to the Presidential chair. Prior to meeting, bon-fires, fireworks, and anvil artillery illumined and filled the air with jubilant sounds. The hall was crammed to its utmost capacity, and the meeting was opened by singing and prayer; Hyrum Dewsnap, Esq., being chaplain.

Wm. V. Black was called to the chair, stated the object of the meeting, and in a spirited speech, endorsed Grover Cleveland as the next President, believing he would fill the office honorably.

R. L. Scott led out in the "Star Spangled Banner," the audience joining in the chorus with energy and feeling, born of a hope that in the future it will wave for all.

M. M. Bishop, in a feeling address, dwelt upon the possibilities of Utah under Democratic rule.

J. F. Gibbs, in a forcible manner, vividly portrayed the treachery and corruption of the Republican party, which had caused good men generally to regard its principles and platform with abhorrence, and exhibit it by rejecting their candidate.

Wm. C. Moody, a Democratic veteran of the Jacksonian school, elucidated the Democratic platform and principles, and painted in glowing colors the causes that led to the Rebellion, and the bright prospects that await the nation under Democratic rule.

Ben Goddard gave a brief and eloquent speech on the history of Grover Cleveland, from a poor boy to his advent into the executive mansion of New York State.

Three rousing cheers were given for the future President, Grover Cleveland. The proceedings were enlivened with songs, such as "Ring the Bell, Watchman," "Boston Tea Party," "Battle Cry of Freedom," and music by the Deseret Band. A social dance wound up one of the most enjoyable jollifications ever known in that precinct. So says Joshua Bennett.

Death of Dr. McKenzie.—Dr. D. Banks McKenzie died at St. Mark's Hospital at 7 o'clock this morning. His ailment is given as sciatica, coupled with nervous prostration. He had been at the hospital only a few days, but had been ill for perhaps a month. He became unconscious night before last, and remained so up to the hour of his death.

The deceased was well known in the community as a former temperance advocate, who came here several years ago and founded what was known as the "McKenzie Reform Club;" also as the projector of the Walker Opera House, and its first manager. This building was originally designed as a Temperance Hall for the Reform Club, and the Doctor canvassed energetically for subscriptions to build it. After getting considerable money he found he did not have enough to finish the edifice, and it was then that Walker Brothers came to his assistance in carrying on and completing the enterprise. A compromise in the meantime had been made, by which the Reform Club project was abandoned and the Opera House plan substituted.

Dr. McKenzie, after resigning the management of the Opera House, inaugurated the scheme of establishing a first-class hotel, to be built by Eastern and local capital, on the corner south of the Continental. He traveled much in the interest of the enterprise, but, although receiving encouraging assurances from abroad, home capitalists were more or less shy, and the hotel project was trembling in the balance of uncertainty when the Dr. was seized with his final illness. About a week ago he was heard to say that he regretted having left the temperance cause, and if he ever got well he would resume it. He was evidently discouraged at the results of his arduous and indefatigable labors in the hotel and other enterprises, and seemed to regard it conscientiously as the consequence of leaving his former avocation, in which he felt he was laboring more in the interests of God and humanity.

Mrs. McKenzie, his wife, is in Boston, and has ere this been informed of her bereavement by telegraph. Dr. McKenzie was probably in the neighborhood of fifty years of age.

THE IRONS-FOWLER EXAMINATION.

IT CONTINUES FROM YESTERDAY AND IS NOT YET CONCLUDED.

The investigation in the abortion case, already familiar to our readers in many of its revolting details, adjourned at 5 o'clock last evening until 10 a. m. to-day. The witnesses examined yesterday were Dr. Carnahan, of Ogden, and Mr. Milando Pratt of this city.

Owing to the press as well as the public being excluded from the court, we cannot furnish the evidence adduced, directly as it transpired. It is understood, however, that Dr. Carnahan was interrogated as to the part he is alleged to have played in the affair prior to its culmination, when Miss Evans, at Mr. Irons' suggestion, visited the Doctor at Ogden for the purpose of undergoing a medical examination. He asked her at that time, so she has admitted, certain questions and on receiving her answers told her that her fears were groundless, etc., referring to her physical condition.

It was in respect to what took place during their interview that the Doctor was examined last evening. A delay of some length occurred, it is said, while the question was being discussed as to whether a Doctor could be required to testify, without his patient's consent, in relation to secrets confided to him in his professional capacity. It was decided in the negative, as coming under the rule of evidence in relation to the inviolability of confidential communications between doctors and patients, lawyers and clients, etc. So that, in all probability the amount of testimony elicited from Dr. Carnahan was not of alarming proportions.

As to Mr. Pratt's testimony, the giving of which consumed the remainder of the afternoon up to the time of adjournment, and was then only half way through, and consequently was continued this morning, our readers are already in possession of the principal facts; Mr. Pratt being our main informant in the exposure article published by the News a week ago last Wednesday.

It is the intention, now that the examination has begun, to go right through with it, and bring out all the pros and cons in testimony. The counsel for the prosecution are as named yesterday. In the division of the two defendants' attorneys, our report yesterday was slightly in error. Messrs. Bennett & Kirkpatrick are representing Dr. Fowler, and Messrs. Harkness & Rawlins and Mr. Denney are for Mr. Irons. Mr. Denney acts in the absence of Arthur Brown, Esq., the defendant's regular attorney, who is represented by Mr. Denney whenever he (Mr. Brown) is away.

This morning Mr. Milando Pratt was replaced on the stand, and having finished testifying, his wife and daughter in turn followed in giving evidence. Mrs. Evans, mother of Lizzie Evans, came next, and then Mrs. Neilson, the midwife. This concluded to-day's proceedings and the case was adjourned at 3 o'clock p. m. until 10 a. m. to-morrow.

The remaining witnesses are the doctors, Lizzie Evans (now Mrs. Irons) and Brigham Jones. It is thought the latter will not be called on to testify. The case will probably conclude to-morrow. Lizzie Evans will be the first witness called in the morning.

Like an old Creaky Window Shutter.

That is the way a man's rheumatic joints sometimes are. Hinges old, rusty, and torn, and badly need oiling. The trouble is in the blood. A man who is of any account is worth repairing. The repairing can be done by means of Brown's Iron Bitters. That enriches and purifies the blood, drives out the pains, and works complete restoration. Thousands testify to it from happy experience. Mr. C. H. Huntley, 918 North Sixteenth st., St. Louis, says, "I used Brown's Iron Bitters for rheumatism, general debility and prostration, with the best results."
