

EVENING NEWS.

Thursday, Nov. 12, 1880.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

Set for Tuesday.—J. Walters, who was arrested yesterday for abusing Dr. Clinton, will have a hearing on Tuesday next.

Bishops' Meeting.—The bishops and lesser priesthood will hold their regular semi-monthly meeting in the Council House, at half past six o'clock this evening.

Still at It.—The case of G. R. Drant, arrested for obtaining money under false pretences, has been postponed until Friday. On being released yesterday, he immediately went to work gathering new subscriptions for his advertising "time indicator," and actually succeeded in getting $1 from a credulous merchant on Main Street.

Removed for Burial.—The remains of the late Fred Carter, of this city, which were brought from Ogden on Tuesday, were yesterday interred in the grave yard of this city. The circumstance of his death was related in the News several weeks ago. He was buried first in Ogden, but is now laid in the family vault in the Salt Lake Cemetery.

Bound to be Better.—It is to be hoped that Boreman's successor, who has been nominated by the President, will prove a better Christian and a wiser Judge than the man he succeeds. This will undoubtedly be the case, for two reasons: No man could do worse in either calling than Boreman, and it is an eternal principle that no two things are created alike. The name of the new Associate Justice is S. P. Twiss, and he hails from Missouri.

"Enquirer" Notes.—From yesterday's issue we glean as follows: "Flowers of the Forest" has been having a successful run in Provo, in the hands of the Dramatic Company of that city. The good people of that town pronounce it the best play ever presented there.

Professor Hamill and daughter will give readings there on the 13th and 14th inst., and he will take classes in elocution during his stay in that locality.

On last Saturday evening, Dr. Pike was called to attend a young son of Mr. M. Packard, of Springville, who had been kicked by a horse. The doctor found the boy's arm broken between the elbow and shoulder.

Attained His Majority.—A very pleasant surprise party took place on Tuesday evening, at the residence of Dr. Romania B. Pratt, in the 12th Ward. On that day her son, Parley P. Pratt, Jr., attained his majority, and a large number of friends met to appropriately celebrate the occasion. Among the guests present was President A. M. Cannon. Speeches were made by Brother Cannon, Bro. Jas. P. Freeman, and three ladies, and a birthday poem by Sister A. J. Crocheon, was read. This, with music and feasting served to pass away the time in a very agreeable manner. On our part, we wish the young gentleman who has started upon the plane of manhood under such favorable auspices, a long career of happiness and prosperity, with just enough of the trials of life to make its successes more dear, and to teach him the lessons which will be for his benefit in this world, and his higher exaltation in the world to come.

The Injured Man.—Mr. Francis Brown, of Huntsville, the gentleman who was hurt on Tuesday while hauling gravel from Arsenal Hill, called in to-day to let the public know that he was not so badly hurt as supposed. When the accident occurred he was sitting on the end gate when the horses started and the weight of his load, breaking the endgate (of an inch thickness) precipitated him upon the tongue. He fell from there, hung to the traces, and was dragged under the wagon some distance, with the horses kicking in every direction, while they ran down what is known as Heywood's Hill. He was picked up for dead. His face was pretty badly cut up by the wheels and the horses' hoofs, but Dr. Young dressed his injuries, sewed up a bad wound in his nose, and otherwise cared for him. He is doing well, and feels thankful the affair was no worse. He especially mentions his thanks against inch endgates. He says they are altogether too weak for a heavy load of gravel descending such a hill.

Forgeries.—The Enquirer has the following concerning certain forgeries that have been committed in Provo recently:

"We have heard of two or three cases of forgery that have recently occurred in this city. From one prominent firm we have learned that the act of substituting their paper has been traced directly to a certain individual in this city, who, after being convicted of this evasion would accomplish nothing to his credit, admitted that he had defaced the company's script by increasing the amount originally called for. This is not the first time that criminality of this description has been perpetrated on individuals or firms in this county, but out of consideration for their families, or a natural disinclination to prosecute the offenders, no legal action has been taken so far in relation to these cases. Whether this course of the individuals who have been so wronged is a wise one or not, we do not presume to say, but there is no doubt if crime of this description is permitted every time to go unpunished, a certain amount of security will be felt by individuals who perpetrate such frauds, and they will be less likely to be deterred from their commission than they would be if an occasional example was made."

From a gentleman just up from Provo, we learn that the forgeries referred to consisted of changing the figures and letters of the bills issued on the co-operative store. The superintendent of the institution, Mr. Kirkwood, "dropped on" the scheme, traced the forgeries to their source, and had the offender arrested.

The Philharmonic Concert.—The concert in the theatre last evening was witnessed by a good-sized audience, and while we cannot conscientiously echo the glowing and meaningless compliments which personal friends of the society profusely shower upon their efforts, we can say that the entertainment, considering all things, was quite creditable. The lack of an orchestra and of all instrumental aid excepting the piano, was seriously felt, as was the want of a leader to give undivided attention to the performers during their recitations. As it was, Professor Radcliffe, though no doubt a good director, was obliged to officiate simultaneously at the piano, and not having more than two hands at his disposal, was compelled to wield an imaginary baton with his head while playing, the effect of which was rather queer, and detracted somewhat from the appearance of things. He is a skilled pianist, but not the best we have heard, nor as a conductor will he begin to stand comparison with Mr. Careless. The first encore of the evening was won by Mr. Carlisle, who sang well and deserved the applause his effort received. His voice is still a little "throaty," a defect which it will take considerable practice to overcome, but barring this, his "Don Giovanni" was a pleasing execution. "Nazareth," by Mr. Hollister, was but passable. The gentleman has a pretty fair voice, but infuses too little soul into his singing. The cavatina from "Lucia di Borgio," by Mr. Gorlinski, was a feature of the evening. He sang with more spirit than any of the others, and gained a double encore. He is a very good vocalist and will become a better one with further experience. The singing of Mrs. Hamilton was excellent, that of Mrs. Moore and Mr. Williams was sweet, and the society gave good support in the choruses thereto. All the chorus pieces would have been better with an orchestra and the direct supervision of a leader. The concert, as an entirety, fell somewhat flat for these reasons; still it was enjoyable and displayed the ability of the Philharmonic Society to good advantage.

A Foundling.—About a quarter to 9 o'clock on Tuesday evening an infant girl, about three weeks old, was left by an unknown woman at the residence of Mr. William Rose, Seventh Ward. He had retired, but his wife was sitting up, waiting for her little boy to return from the panorama then exhibiting in the meeting house, when there came a knock at the door. She opened it and a female voice asked her to come out. She did so, shutting the door after her, whereupon the visitor thrust a bundle into her arms and fled without speaking. Just then something within the bundle began to move and Mrs. Rose, immediately suspecting it to be a child, called after the woman but she refused to return. The lady of the house, went in and awoke the husband, and upon opening the bundle they found the child. A nursing bottle full of milk was on the steps outside, and the next morning a note was picked up near the step, which they had overlooked the night before. The note contained $4 in money, was in a man's handwriting, and ran as follows:

"SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 6, 1880. I leave this infant at your door. And pray that you may be a mother and father to it and befriend it. It is fatherless and motherless. You may name it as you wish and I will leave $1 per week at the Postoffice for you. Three weeks old to-day." Mr. and Mrs. Rose intend keeping the child, but have no idea as to its proper parentage.

PIANOS.

PIANOS DESIGNED BY GRAY. It has been our ambition for 20 years to make a thoroughly FIRST CLASS Instrument in every respect, that could not be excelled by any maker in the world. That we have succeeded is evidenced by thousands of the highest testimonials given by leading teachers, and given by those who have had our Pianos in constant use from 10 to 20 years. These magnificent instruments are in use in many thousands of families, and a large number of the best musical workmen in the United States, Canada, Cuba, Europe, South America and India. The materials and workmanship of our Pianos cost as much as those in the highest priced Pianos made, but the rigid economy in the management of our business enables us to sell through our General Agents at prices very much lower than is obtained for Pianos of equal quality. For further information inquire of our General Agent, David G. C. CUTLER, Salt Lake City, who has a stock of our Uprights and Squares.
