CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Several bills were introduced, among which was one by Howard to repeal certain acts passed by the Legislature of Wyoming Territory.

Trumbull called up a bill to change the judicial circuit, the Senate committee's amendment, denoting the limits of the circuits were agreed to. The amendment requires the justices of the Supreme Court of the United States to be residents of their respective circuits.

At the expiration of the morning hour, Chandler from the committee of commerce reported, with amendments, a bill to incorporate the Bolivian navigation company; he also reported adversely to the bill to provide for an American line of passenger steamers between New York and the Scandinavian and German ports. The consideration of the funding bill was resumed.

Morton spoke in opposition to the bill, which he pronounced not a practical measure, and though he desired to vote for some funding bill, he opposed the policy of issuing loans at less than five per cent, and believed that at the proposed rate it could not be negotiated at home or abroad. He objected to the plan in regard to national banks, and favored offering long bonds to the amount of a thousand millions, not to be redeemable in less than thirty years, with the privilege of using any surplus money in the meantime in buying them up. Morton criticized the bill by sections, and at length, by unanimous consent, Ferry offered a resolution, which was adopted, reciting that the Secretary of State inform the Senate of the ratification of the 15th Amendment by the States who have transmitted a notice thereof to the State Department.

The debate on the funding bill was continued by Cameron, who favored the policy of inaction by Congress in regard to the finances. He declared himself, especially opposed to that provision of the bill for the foreign agency, as it would authorize errors and humiliate without materially aiding the Government. He moved to postpone the whole subject to the third of April.

Williams referred to the payment of a hundred millions of the debt within the last year as an evidence of the disposition and ability of the Government to pay the debt.

Chandler opposed the agency clause in the bill; he said he would never vote for it.

Cameron's motion to postpone was rejected.

Sumner's amendment, modified so as to apply the proceeds of the sale of new bonds to the payment of the five-twentieths of '62 was lost. Sumner moved to amend the first section so that the bonds so provided for be the ten instead of the twenty year bonds, and gave notice that he would prefer a four and a half per cent loan at fifty years to four per cent at sixty years. The section was so amended by unanimous consent. Sumner moved to amend, increasing the aggregate amount of the new bonds from four to five millions; lost 15 to 28.

HOUSE.

Bills introduced.

Several resolutions of inquiry were adopted. One, relative to the alleged massacre of the Piegan Indians, was objected to by Stevenson.

Wood, from the committee on foreign affairs reported a bill to regulate international telegraphic communication with foreign countries; ordered printed and recommended.

Ingersoll, from the committee on roads and canals, reported a bill authorizing the building of a military and postal railroad from Washington to New York, which he desired to make a special order for the 29th of March.

Kerr, Cox and Swain opposed the bill. Swain offered an amendment, providing that the road should not be constructed without the consent of the States through which it passed. The previous question was ordered and the amendment was lost by a party vote. The bill then went over.

Dawes, of New York, gave notice that he would, at the earliest practicable moment, report from the judiciary committee, a naturalization bill, and would ask its passage.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the Indian appropriation bill, and shortly afterwards rose and reported the bill with amendments, which were agreed to and the bill passed. The House then went into a committee of the whole on the tariff bill. Schenck announced that it was the purpose of the committee of ways and means to allow a fair, liberal and thorough discussion of a general nature first on the bill, before the House proceeded to consider it by sections.

Brooks, of New York, addressed the House in opposition to the bill. He said the reduction proposed by the committee, of thirty millions on internal revenue, and twenty millions on tariff, was too small; the reduction ought to be at least seventy-five or a hundred million. He favored the abolition of the duty on coal, hides, timber and salt; he also favored a reduction of the duty on pig iron to three dollars a ton, on lead to one cent per pound, the duty on copper to the same rate as in other countries. He called special attention to the duties on carpets to sustain the monopoly of five men. In conclusion he said there never would be a finality on the question of the tariff till it came to simplicity. The committee rose.

Butler, of Massachusetts, from the committee on reconstruction, reported back the bill for the admission of Georgia to representation in Congress. Farnsworth, a member of that committee, made a point of order that Butler had not been authorized to report. The Speaker declared that this was not a point of order, but of veracity. A sharp colloquy ensued between Farnsworth and Butler, the latter claiming that he was carrying out the instructions of the committee. The Speaker decided to submit the question to the House, whether the report be accepted or not, and the "yeas" and "nays" were ordered on the question of its reception. Johnson moved to adjourn, yeas 4, nays 97.

Butler yielded to Washburne, of Massachusetts, who introduced a bill, giving the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, a continual right to its franchise and its right of way through the Territory; referred.

Stevenson, of Ohio, offered a resolution calling on the Secretary of War for information relative to the late expedition against the Piegan Indians; adopted.

ILLINOIS.

The Seal Fishery Question.—Special Payment Resumed &c.

CHICAGO, 4.—The Tribune's Washington special says the House committee on commerce have agreed on a bill relative to the Alaska seal fisheries. It provides that a hundred thousand seals may be killed yearly for the next twenty years, unless the Secretary of the Treasury restricts the number. The annual rental for the privilege of taking these seals is not to be less than fifty thousand dollars, to be secured by the deposit of government bonds, and each skin must pay a revenue tax of two dollars. The business is to be leased immediately to responsible parties to the best advantage for the United States, the lease to run twenty years from the first of May next, the lessees to give bonds to the amount of half a million dollars. The bill is long, but these are its essential points.

A project for making a competitive examination the basis of admission to the military and naval schools at West Point and Annapolis was presented to the House military committee to-day by professor Northrup, of New Haven Conn., who presented interesting statistics in support of the project, calling attention to the results in England and France under this basis. The members of the committee seem doubtful about the propriety of passing such a law, but it is thought it might be possible to pass a concurrent resolution recommending the assent of Congress to such examinations.

The Secretary of the navy, in reply to the resolution of enquiry as to why certain Spanish frigates had been allowed to enter our docks for repairs, says that none such have done so for repairs or for any other purpose. Two asked permission to deposit part of their armament equipment in the navy yard, preparatory to going into a private dock, but this was refused on account of informality in the presentation of the request. He says, however, that it has always been our custom to give the use of unoccupied docks to vessels needing repairs when they belong to nations with which we are at peace, for the reason that similar courtesies are extended to the United States by other nations.

The House military committee have ascertained that Edwards of Georgia sold a naval cadetship for three hundred dollars. The evidence in the case of Munger proves that though money was paid for the appointment Munger was unaware of the fact, and received nothing himself.

The Tribune's New York despatch says there is great discontent at the refusal of the British Government to afford further military protection to Newfoundland. The organ of the Canadian Dominion says the feeling in favor of annexation to the United States increases, and a movement to that effect is talked of.

Several saloons and retail stores in Chicago have signs out announcing the resumption of specie payments, and are giving silver in change at the counter.

CALIFORNIA.

Rich mines discovered.—Mining shares rising.—Arizona items.

SAN FRANCISCO, 3.—The rumors of the departure of a filibustering expedition to Mexico were founded on the fact that several prominent capitalists in this city have armed and equipped a number of men and sent them to Arizona to hold possession of rich mineral deposits recently discovered near the head waters of the Gila River. The mines are reported to be of marvelous richness and the Indians numerous and hostile, hence armed men are necessary to protect the miners.

The opening of rich silver deposits in the lower levels of the Gould & Curry mine has had the effect to strengthen the Washoe stocks: Gould & Curry shares, which were selling a few days since at about fifty dollars, sold to-day at two hundred.

It is stated that General Sedgwick, chief engineer of the Southern Pacific Railroad, has received positive orders and funds to locate twenty-five miles of road from Sandiego; the work will be commenced as soon as possible.

Late Arizona advices say that the Indians are quiet near Prescott, but open warfare is being carried on by large numbers in the southern part of the Territory, some of whom recently attacked a mail train en route from Apache Pass to Tucson; the driver and escort escaped. It is reported that they attacked the Salt River settlement and captured all the cattle.

MISSOURI.

Stock of liquor burned.—News from the Indian Territory.

ST. LOUIS.—A fire early this morning destroyed a large saloon in Third St., between Chestnut and Pine, with a stock of liquors valued at thirty-five thousand dollars.

General Hazen, commanding the Department of Kansas, arrived here yesterday from the Indian Territory. He says all the tribes of Indians in the South-west held a council at Antelope Hills in December last, at which they generally agreed that a war of extermination should be inaugurated against the whites in the Spring; their policy, however, has changed since then, and most of the tribes are now very peaceable.
