LOCAL NEWS.

Coming Home.—We learn from the Milwaukee Star that Elder Lawrence H. Young, who, for some months past has been laboring as a missionary in England, has, on account of ill health, been released to return home with the company that sailed from Liverpool on the 15th inst.

Relief Map.—There is an exhibition at Pembroke's stationery house, on East Temple Street, a relief map of Palestine, by Miss Clara Becker, of this city. The lady was engaged about four months in the execution of the work, which exhibits in detail the surface of the land of the Israelites, showing the hills and valleys, seas and rivers of Palestine. The map is 26 x 36 inches in size, colored in oil.

Damages settled.—We are at liberty to state, through the courtesy of Mr. T. W. Stayer, attorney for the parties who were injured by the upsetting of a carriage on Sunday last, that Messrs. Thompson & Jorgensen, who owned the outfit, have settled all the claims of said parties in an honorable and straightforward manner. Mr. Stayer states that his client is very well satisfied with the settlement. Although the injuries of the ladies are greater than was at first supposed, they are progressing speedily toward recovery.

Solution of the Water Question.—Solutions of the vexed question of water supply for the dry bench have been sought for long and vainly by the residents of the upper portion of the city, and no small degree of acrimony has been indulged in by some people over the subject. While others have been examining different plans with their eyes and making a good deal of noise about them with their mouths, C. Y. Taggart, the piano-tuner, though unfortunately deprived of the use of his visual organs, has devised a plan for solving the question so far as he is personally concerned. He had a well dug to the depth of 300 feet, which point a good supply of water was found, and then a windmill constructed to lift the aqueous fluid to the surface. The result is that he has a stream running almost continuously, ample to irrigate his garden and supply his own family and all his immediate neighbors with all they require for culinary use. A man by the name of Wells did the work.

THE MORRIS-MAMMOTH SUIT.

A RESUME OF THIS INTERESTING CASE.

The suit of Elias Morris vs. The Mammoth Mining Company, which has been on trial in the District Court for six days, was to go to the jury about 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The case is one of great interest, not only on account of the amount in controversy (about $12,000), but because of the nature of the questions involved. The contention is briefly this: Elias Morris, in November, 1882, was engaged by Mr. Jas. A. Cunningham, who was president of the Mammoth Mining Company, to erect six smelting furnaces at Tintic, Mr. Cunningham stating to Mr. Morris at the time, that a fund had been sent from England for that purpose to Mr. Austin, but as Austin could not go in person to Tintic, he (Cunningham) had agreed to do so. Mr. Morris went on with the work, and very shortly Mr. H. A. Munroe Butler Johnson came from England and took charge of it. Mr. Morris continued his work until he had erected in smelting furnaces, and also had boarded the company's large force of men. At one time shortly after his arrival, Johnson borrowed from Morris $5,000, Mr. Morris stating all the work done on the credit of the Mammoth Mining Company, and without knowledge of any responsibility on the part of any one else.

Evidence was introduced showing that from January, 1883, until Johnson arrived here, W. H. H. Bowers had been in charge of the Mammoth mine and works, using the company's blanks for pay-rolls, orders, etc., and signing himself manager, and, after his arrival, Johnson did the same.

The defendants introduced in evidence a series of contracts made by Mr. Cunningham and the McIntyre Bros. to W. H. H. Bowers, for the sale of stock of the Mammoth Mining Company, and certain structures to be erected on the company's property, including the smelters and refinery constructed by Morris. Johnson acquired a half interest in the contract with Bowers. After a few months administration, money failing to come, Johnson left suddenly, went back to England, and shortly after the McIntyres and Cunningham declared the contract forfeited.

The latter gentlemen also testify that always, when they knew of Bowers or Johnson using the name on the printed blanks of the company, they forbade it, and warned parties who were dealing with them that they had no right to use the name of the company.

The plaintiffs' counsel contend that the contracts referred to were between stockholders of the company; the company was not a party to it, and if the company and the officers of the company, and its property, and its operations over to Bowers and Johnson, and allowed them to use the company's name and blanks, then any contract existing between individual holders of stock would not relieve the company from responsibility.

The defendants' counsel claim that Morris had notice of the contracts with Bowers, and that that he was one on the credit of Butler Johnson, and the Englishmen associated with him in the purchase of the stock.

Decoration Day.—The excursion over the D. & R. G. W. to Ogden on Decoration Day, of the Sixth Ward Silver Band, will doubtless be made an available opportunity by many to visit their friends in the busy capital of Weber County. The day will be appropriately observed there by the citizens. The G. A. R. will have a procession, and musical services will be performed in remembrance of the nation's dead, in the forenoon. In the afternoon a programme of races will be carried out on the grounds of the Ogden Driving Park Association. The band boys, who have made steady progress in their studies, are now endeavoring to raise means for the purpose of donning a new uniform, and are worthy of encouragement. The train, which will consist of the new and comfortable reclining chair cars recently introduced on the narrow gauge, will leave the D. & R. G. W. depot at 8 o'clock on Saturday morning, May 30, tickets good to return either May 30 or Sunday evening, reaching this city at 7:30 o'clock.

An Ancient Coin.—Brother Henry E. Taylor showed us to-day an ancient looking coin which he recently dug up in his garden in the 7th Ward. It is about the size of a two-and-a-half dollar gold piece, except that it is not so thick, and is probably made from copper. There are three columns of strange looking hieroglyphics impressed upon it, which are quite plain, especially when viewed with a microscope, and it has a hole in it, near the edge, as if for the purpose of putting a string through it. A comparison between it and the specimens of coin in the Deseret Museum collection, and also with the illustrations of ancient coin as given in a very elaborate work on numismatics fails to afford any clue to its origin, for it is altogether new, and of any of them. It is, however, believed by some to be of ancient Egyptian origin, from the fact that the ancient inhabitants of this continent have been discovered in various parts of the country.

Hurt by a Horse.—Last Monday, as Mr. E. J. Travis, of this city, was attempting to catch a wild horse in his corral at the Snake River, near American Falls, Idaho, he received serious injuries. Mr. Travis threw a rope over the animal's neck, at which it turned and came direct at him, crowding him into a corner, and knocking him down with its fore feet, and then tramping on him. The gentleman had his right arm badly bruised, his right shoulder dislocated, a gash in his forehead, and the right side of his face and into his mouth, and his ankle sprained and one of the tendons ruptured. He was brought to this city after the mishap.

One of Mr. Travis' workmen, Mr. E. Brown, was injured internally, a few days previous, by the falling on him of a wild horse he was riding. He was taken to the hospital in this city for treatment.

Almee.—The English comedy of "Mam'zelle" at the Theatre last evening was witnessed by a fashionable and appreciative audience. The play is replete with amusing incidents, and the performance kept the audience in the best of humor throughout. The novel idea of a number of the characters in the pieces appearing in the boxes and parquette, and there enacting their parts created quite a sensation. Mile. Almee is a sprightly and graceful actress, and her "Tyrolenne" and "Pretty as a Picture" were both encores. The entire company is a good one, and rendered careful and even support. Those desiring an evening of delightful merriment will have the opportunity of being gratified at the theatre to-night. To-morrow evening Almee's engagement closes with the satirical comedy of "Divorçons."

TERRITORIAL ITEMS.

CULLED FROM LATEST EXCHANGES.

—We are informed that Samuel King was arrested on Bear River, about 18 miles from Montpelier, Idaho, last week, by three deputies disguised as surveyors.—Idaho Journal.
 —The Register says the committee who have charge of the Territorial Insane Asylum have been successful in obtaining the necessary means to continue the work of fitting up the building, and the institution will soon be opened.
 —Last Sunday, Leo Hechinger, of Butte, Montana, won a wager of $100 by carrying an eight gallon keg of beer, weighing 107 pounds, to the top of Big Butte and back, a distance of four miles, without resting. A sample of how the Sabbath is observed in that town.
 —About a year and a half ago a young man of Spanish Fort, named Bradford, was the victim of a serious accident, being pushed down and rendered unconscious for a time by his head striking a rock. Since that occurrence it has been noticed that the young man's intellect has been impaired, and he has been gradually getting worse for some time. Dr. Greer, of Payson, and Dr. Pike, of Provo, recently made a careful examination of the young man's head, and after a consultation, decided to trephine the skull and remove a portion of bone that was found to be depressed. They performed the operation last Friday, since which time young Bradford has been perfectly rational, and strong hopes of his permanent recovery are entertained.
 —One evening last week Mr. John Coffin, of Provo, was the victim of a brutal assault. He was in Pleasant Grove on business, and about 9 o'clock was returning to the house of Mr. Harvey, where he was staying, when some unknown person jumped upon him and struck him a fearful blow above the left eye with a club, knocking him senseless. He remained unconscious for about twenty minutes, and, on recovering his senses, he succeeded in recalling his feet and getting into the house of Mr. Coffin. He has thus far been unable to obtain any clue to the attacking party, and cannot imagine the cause of the assault, unless it was for the purpose of robbery, as he had been making collections during the day. If it were the design, it must have been frustrated by some passer-by, as no money had been taken from his person.
 —A quarrel between Thomas Smith and a young man named Kidd occurred in Logan last Monday, which almost resulted in the death of a little child. Smith was digging a ditch across the sidewalk of Kidd's property, when the latter interfered and an altercation ensued. Smith seized a pitchfork from his wagon, which was near by, and proceeded to assault the young man. Kidd's mother, who was witnessing the scene at this juncture, sprang between the combatants and seized the pitchfork. This greatly increased Smith's anger, and, wrestling the weapon from the woman's grasp, he made a powerful lunge at the young man, narrowly missing him, but striking a two-year-old child of Mrs. Kidd in the forehead. It was at first thought that death would result, but at last accounts the child was in a fair way to recover.

WILLIAM POTTERINGHAM SENTENCED.

THE COURT DOES NOT INSULT HIM BY REQUESTING HIM TO TAKE THE FLDGE.

BEAVER, Utah, May 21st, 1885.

It was understood that Elder Potteringham would receive his sentence yesterday at four p.m. and all the available space in the Court House was occupied principally by his friends. The defendant was made to stand up and receive sentence. The Court stated that the charge set forth in the indictment had been tried by a jury and he had been found guilty as charged. The Judge asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be given. He did not follow Judge Zane's course, not requiring any pledge for the future as to the course of the prisoner. This being the case the defendant had nothing further to say, and he was sentenced to three months in the Utah Penitentiary and to pay a fine of three hundred dollars.

The sentence surprised everybody as the full penalty of the law was expected. Defendant is now in custody of a United States deputy Marshal and will arrive at the Salt Lake depot on Saturday evening enroute to the penitentiary, in company with six grand larceny convicts, in custody of Capt. Green.

The trial jury will be discharged this evening. There will be no further criminal business this term.

THE funeral service over the remains of Mrs. Eleanor Cannon May, will be held at 10 a.m. to-morrow (Friday) at the residence of Charles Lambert, in the 7th Ward of this city. Friends invited.
