Chicago, June 14 .- The National Credft Men's association ended their three days' convention with a banquet tonight at the Auditorium, at which Speaker Cannon of the house of representatives, and Judge Peter S. Grosscup were the principal speakers. Judge Grosseup responded to the toast, "The Every Day Business Man and the Corporation Problem." He said in part:

eration of Americans.

PROBLEM AND THE PEOPLE.

Building Industrial Triumphs-

Problem is Every Citizen's.

Best Instrument Yet for Wielding | Had a Cold and Made Matter

"Not only is the corporation the legal instrument through which is wielded almost wholly the industrial energy of this generation of Americans—It is the best instrument yet discovered by which that energy can be wielded. Not only is the 'corporation' the medium through which the wealth of the people works out this age's industrial triumphs-it is the only medium through which the people, while working out their tri-umphs as a whole, can also work out, each for himself, his separate individeach for himself, his separate individ-nal instinct for a personal share in the triumphs achieved. Indeed, what 'gov-ernment' is to mankind politically or-ganized, the 'corporation' has become to modern industry organized. And it is in the corporation, in this relation of intermediary between those seeking to own, and the property to be owned, that the destinies of the future are the most the bound mo the destinies of the future are the most deeply bound up. "Mr. Roosevelt thus far has dealt with the corporation problem as if the relation of the corporation to the pro-ple was almost wholly that of business rival to the individual man-as if the relation between the corporation and the individual man was chiefly an arm's hearth relation. And I am one of those relation between the corporation and the individual man was chiefly an arm's length relation. And I sm one of those who believe that in taking this attitude he wisely chose that first step in any comprehensive program for corporation reform. Indeed, before the 'corporation' as the best instinne': wielding the peo-ple's energy, and working out the peo-ple's energy, and working out the peo-ple's energy, and working out the peo-ple's energy, and working corporatons should be taught that there is such a thing as a people's will expressed in law, and that there is such a thing as obedience by everybody to the law. "That part of the road has now been nearly traveled—that part of the work has now been nearly done. What waits us in that direction, is the duty of a continued watchfulness. But the next freat distinctive step forward also waits for us—the work of turning this pre-paration into permanent deed—of put-ting into enduring form, not ideally, but actually, in the corporation structure of the fourte of the permanent deed of the such and the such a such paration into permanent deed—of par-ting into enduring form, not ideally, but actually, in the corporation structure of the future, those practical principles of the square deal, that will transform the corporation into a permanently fit agen-ry in which to embody, and through which to work out, our triumphant in-dustrial life. The people of America have shown that between the corpora-tion, when it reaches its best estate, and the people, there need be no gulf, for, in the last analysis, it is the people who were building up these industrial tri-umphs, though in corporate form, that everywhere surround us—the people's thinking heads, the people's busy hands, the people's throbbing, aspiring hearts, and the corporation, when it hearts, and the corporation, when it reaches its best estate, will come to be recognized and trusted, only as the or-ganized form through which these these heads, and these hands, and these hearts, and these accumulated savings accomplish their work. And when the days of the corporation's best estate have come, it will be recognized, also, to be as wicked to strike at an enterprise, merely because that enterprise is incor-porated, as it is wicked now to incor-porate crime, merely because by so doads, and these hands, and thes ng it may be put beyond the reach of the law. "Nor is there any need that in our travels toward corporation reform, we should wander much longer in the wilderness. The time has come, I think, to formulate and present a conshould wander much longer in the wilderness. The time has come, i inthic to formulate and present a con-rete program-a program short of which the friends of reform will not show and beyond which they will not show and beyond which they will not show themselves to be carried. The ronservative intelligence of the coun-try, the real support of the great civic hange through which we are going, hed. The interests of the business world require that the business world should know where it stands-that it should be relieved from the apprehen-sion that, somewhere in the dark, a business of reform itself demands that the cause of reform itself demands that the cause of reform itself demands that the cause of reform itself demands that the next step be promptly as well as intelligently taken; for in every move-ment like this, there is a moral mo-ment like this, there is a moral mo-ment and the time is here. also, that the rogram be a national program-that some national political organization, much the states and the nation, that fill carry that indgment into execu-tion. Thue, in some of the states the work of reform has begun. But it roughout the nation and the states. The is to the every-day business man, this subject, go to the people for a mandate to form a corporation policy, for both the states and the nation, that fill carry that indgment into execu-tion. Thue, in some of the states the work of reform has begun. But it roughout the nation and the states. The is to the every-day business af-tions of New Jersey remain. To be de-tectual, the reform must be uniform, in while the free and easy corpora-tions of New Jersey remain, the be de-terned. The comporation problem, in this so fit he country, that I bring this popeal. The comporation problem, in this to be the clear business for-the to today that will lead in giv-ing to the country a corporation policy or the future, that men do not live by pread alone, will lift the American policy duel alone, will lift the American policy duel alone will lift the Amer individual opportunity.

for a time tonight as if the banquet which was given at the Auditorium In honor of Secy. of War Taft would not be graced by the presence of the secretary, who was taken suddenly ill while reviewing the troops at Fort Snelling shortly after noon. The banquet was billed to commence at 6 o'colck, but it was not until 7:45 that the secretary renched the banquet hall. Looking somewhat pale, but with his face wreathed in smiles, the secretary of war strode down the long line of ban-queters, and the 2.000 seated at the tables and as many more who occupied seats in the boxes and balconies, ross to their feet and cheered luxily. To the Associated Press the secretary stat-ed that his attack was merely a se-vere attack of indigestion which has been brought on by the continuous ser-les of banauets which has been ten-dered him since he left Washington on his western trip. The banquet tonight, which excent tary, who was taken suddenly ill while profusion about the banquet hall, while thousands of silk American flags float-ed overhead. When Secy, Taft spoke his voice was strong and he was heard in all parts of the great auditorium. He said: "It has come to be my portion to receive the hospitality from a great many people; from those in the Philip-pines many hundreds of miles away: from Panama, Cuba, Porto Rico and to have with Senator Clapp at my right hand to run the risk of several win-ters in Washington; but it has re-mained for me to surrender to the Twin Cities of the North. "Seriously, the condition in which I find myself tonight is my own fault, and I can refer to Archbishop Ireland for the truth of the saying that 'You may bray a fool in a mortar among wheat with a pestle and his foolishness will not depart from him.' I don't wheat with a pestle and his foolishness will not depart from him.' I don't know whether that is the St. James or the Douay version, but the substance is correct. The fact is that I caught a cold and added to my indiscretion by eating too heartily of the cheer pro-vided for me at my various stopping places, and I am confronted with a weakness that I ought not to confess. I ought not to be here now, but for a desire to come and witness the wonderdesire to come and witness the wonder-ful greeting, and I want to make this statement just as strong as if I were to make a speech for an hour, which I am not going to do. I had hoped to invite your attention to what has been accomplished in constructing the Pan-ama canal and to give you an idea of what we have been doing down there on the isthmus, but I must plead my condition and simply give you an out-plans which were made for the prosecu-tion of the work. "It is great evidence of progress to get to such a state that in April we excavated $50,000 cubic yards. Then in May we had a strike, but that has been amicably settled and we will take out a million cubic yards a month. That would mean 12,000,000 a month. That would mean 12,000,000 cubic yards a year, and at that rate we ought to complete the canal in four years, but L do not want to hold out that hope to you. If we complete the canal in seven years we will have dom-onstrated in record time what Ameri-can encery can do " can energy can do." After a few words of excuse for cut-ting his address short, Secy. Taft said good-bye and then, before the cheering had subsided, he was out of the door into an automobile on his way to the home of J. C. Hill.

RS. ELIZABETH CLARIDCE RS. ELIZABETH CLARIDGE McCUNE has received a letter. from her father in Arizona. Patriarch Samuel Claridge. There are some very interesting incidents relating to temple work in this letter, and hence its appearance in this department. It should be stated that Elder Claridge and his daughter, Mrs. McCune, have labored for many years in work for their dead. Special jours every possible source of information has been sought in order to securtheir genealogy. As is stated in this letter, more than 1,400 of their dead have thus far been officiated for; and the end is not yet. Does the end ever come? Following is the letter:

of age. But my interest in temple work grows keener and stronger with every day's experience. During my visit to you last fall, when we officiated for nearly 200 of mw kindred and friends. I supposed, and said to you, that we now had in-ished up all the names of friends and kindred which I could sussible geours. and said to you, that we now had fin-ished up all the names of friends and kindred which I could possibly secure, or remember. For these made up about 1,400 we had done for, and I thought I had completed all my work, in that line. But since my return home. I have been enlightened by the Spirit, and have had brought to my mind many of my own and my father's friends which I had not re-membered for these many years. I always wake up about 2 or 3 o'Glock in the morning, and he awake for some time. In these quiet hours, my mind is drawn out in spirit; and this winter. I have remembered and communed with some, of whom I had not thought for over 50 years. Their forms and faces and names would appear before me as plain and distinct as when I knew them in youth and childhood. As soon as possible after such an impres-sion. I would take pains to record their names and dates, and in this way, nearly 100 more of my friends and kins-folk have been prepared for future op-portunity in baptism. I have corelyed word of the death of my old Sunday school teacher, who was 28 years of age, and with whom I have correspond-ed for many years. He has furnished me with many items concerning my dead friends and kindred, some of whom I speak of later in this letter. In order to illustrate how much in-terest the spirits are in the work we are doing for them in this life and in our temples. I wish to relate several incidents and a dream. You know that I was a local Methodist preacher for some years in our old English home and father often entertained the true they were dead. But some time since they came to me in a dream, and put-ting their arms about me, they im-plored me earnestly not to forget them: and then I knew they had accepted the gospel on the other side, and wished their work attended to here. Since then I have learned of their death. Another of my Sunday school teachers, for whom I had been bap-tized, appeared to me in a dream, and showed to me in a peculiar manner his gratitude for what I had done for him. This gives great satisfaction for the labors performed, for it testifies of the joy of those for whom we officiate. And now, let me relate one more in-stance, this of very recent occurrence. The other night I was engaged as usual in my night reflections concerning the temple work, and the manner in which my mind had been led of late to dwell upon my old friends and neighbors. Several of my old friends whom I had forgotten came before me at this time in a very clear light, but I asked my. forgotten came before me at this time in a very clear light; but I asked my self if I was not going too fast in trying to save everybody, and making the blessings of the House of the Lord too condition and simply give you an out-line of what has been done." Secy. Taft then outlined briefly the Nork. Is hors were approved by Him. That same night my prayers were answered in the following manner: But first, let me explain a little. In my youth, there were three very well clucated Metho-dist ministers who had charge of my circuit. These gentlemen were my ex-cellent friends until I joined the Mor-mon Church; then, they turned against me. But they were good men. How-ever, I had never put their names on my list, for I was a little prejudiced against them, on account of their enul-ty towards the Church. In my dream, myself and these three Methodist preachers were having a Sunday school conference, and there were a great many (hildren in a harge building. I arose to speak to the children, and as I did so, I saw two apostles, I knew them to be, sitting with the children. Wishing to honor these men. I called out to them, inviting them to come forward. But one of them arose in his seat, and said that he could do nothing at that meeting, but a little later thero would be a thanksgiving meeting and that there would meet me thero, and that there would meet me thero, and that there would meet me thero, and that there two men were two of my old Methodist friends-or enemics-of whom I spoke fust now. The spirit of the dream, which awakened with me, was one of pure happiness. And its interpretation was given to me as fol-lows: They were two apostles in the Methodist church but they were as lit-let different ow, because they had ac-cepted the gospel on the other side.

tle childran now, because they had ac-cepted the gospel on the other side, and had not yet received of its life-giving ordinances. The dream was to how me that they desired me to at-end to their work, and then, indeed, could there be a thanksgiving meeting, and then should I meet them, and together we would carry out the law of consectation. They, with all the others of our friends and kindred, will surely make a true thanksgiving meeting. And the answer to the answer to my prayer further was this: not only would my friends and those of my father rejoice in receiving the gospel ordinances, but also those whom I had looked upon in my youth as my enemies because they could not see as I did at that time.

Now my daughter, this work you and Now my daughter, this work you are the committee of the Daughters of the Ploneers are engaged in is connecting the earthly with the heavenly things; but it grieves me to know that many of the Latter-day Saints do not realize the the Latter-day Saints do hot realize the obligations we are under to looking after the interests of our dead kindred and friends. If my old Methodist friends are so anxious to be remem-bered, what must be the feelings of our kindred and relations? Some of our people are letting the years slip away, and excusing themselves because they cannol get names as easily as they might. One of my next door neighbors came near dying a few months ago; I visited him, and enquired as to his temple work. He told me he had looked after his father and mother and two or three others; but as we conversed to-gether, he remembered 20 more. This man is a relative of Gen. Lee, the fam-ous Confederate general. This man has a large work to do, as all the saints man is a relative general. This man has ous Confederate general. This man has a large work to do, as all the saints have, if they will only throw off the cares of the world a little, and let their minds dwell upon heaven and heavenly things. The first visitation of Moroni to the Prophet Joseph Smith was of much import to the dead. His quotation of Malachi proved that this whole lat-ter-day work rests on the redemption of the dead, quite as much as it does upon the salvation of the living. Our life before we came here and associa-tions with our friends in eternity was for thousands of years: while the few years of our earthly lives separate us from our old friends and kindred in heaven. All things must be gathered together both in heaven and on earth, and our temple work is one of the great forces which will bring this mighty res-titution to pass.

Increase which will bring this mighty res-titution to pass. I am nearly 80 years of age; and my greatest joy is to reflect upon these glorious principles, and to picture to myself what my meeting with all those I have helped here will be when I am on the other side. My constant prayer is that you and Sister Gates will be directed aright in this contenue. directed aright in this arduous work you have undertaken. The saints sure-ly appreciate your labors. May His peace attend you all, is the prayer of your father. your father,

CLAY PIERCE'S APPEAL.

CLAY PIERCE'S APPEAL. Washington, June, 14.—The appeal of Henry Clay Pierce, president of the Waters-Pierce Oil company of Mis-souri, on his habeas corpus proceed-ing was docketed in the supreme court of the United States today. Pierce seeks to have the supreme court reverse the decision of the United States circuit court for east-ern Missouri, which refused to grant a writ of habeas corpus relieving him from a writ of extradition requiring his removal from Missouri to Texas, where he is under indictment.

FRENCH WINE GROWERS.

Proceedings Will Not be Instituted Against Their Central Committee.

Paris, June 14 .- The ministry of the interior has no intention of instituting proceedings against the wine growers' central committee. The officials here are hopeful that the conciliatory letare hopeful that the conditatory let-ter of Premier Clemenceau to the mu-nicipalities, with its grave warnings of responsibility attaching to a con-tinuance of the attempts to break down the whole civil life of the south of France, will prove fruitful, and that the movement will be stemmed before it becomes necessary to em-ploy sterner measures. Th situation in the so-called "fed-erated provinces" is developing most slowly. A dozen more municipalities have sent in their resignations, but
